PREMIER KING WINS MAJORITY IN PARLIAMENT

117 Seats Certain for Liberals

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his Liberal party were kept in power in today's Canadian general election.

With 11 seats still in doubt of the 245 in the house of commons, the Liberals had won 117 and the Progressive-Conservatives, or Tories, led by John Bracken, ex-Manitoba premier, 60. King thus has the largest bloc of seats, as was generally expected.

With eight Independent Liberals who will join with the Liberals, King has 125 seats, a majority of two. The Coöperative Commonwealth Federation won 23 seats in the house, Social Credit, 13; Bloc Populaire, 2; Labor Progressive [Communist], 1; scattered parties, 10. In the 11 undetermined districts, the Liberals were leading in five.

King Reelected to House.

In Saskatchewan, Prime Minister King won reëlection to parliament in his Prince Albert riding, J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture won his seat in Melville, while Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of defense, lost in Qu'Appelle. M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader kept his Rosetown seat and Bracken won his seat in the Neepawa, Man., district.

In a broadcast, King attributed his party's victory to its post-war plans. Coldwell said in a statement the C. C. F. defeat grew out of "confusion" created by Communists in the guise of labor-progressives."

It was King's seventh federal election, of which he has now won six. He has been prime minister for more than 18 years out of the last 24 and leader of the Liberals for a quarter century.

Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal, running as a member of the Bloc Populaire party, apparently was defeated by the Liberal incumbent in the Montreal-St. Mary constituency, Gaspard Fauteaux.

There were small changes in the contests for parliament seats, which also favored the Liberals, who had 160 seats in the last parliament, compared to only 40 for the Conservatives.

Upset Bracken Claims

The defeat of the Tories was devastating. It started with the maritime provinces and made its way across the continent. In the maritimes, with 26 seats, King got 3 in Prince Edward Island, 7 in New Brunswick, and 10 in Nova Scotia, a total of 20 out of 26.

In Quebec and normally Tory Ontario the Liberals upset the claims of the Bracken men. In Quebec, where the issue of conscription was blazing, King is conceded 45 seats, the Tories, 1; Bloc Populaire is given 2 and the Independent Liberals 8.

King had said Canada's forces in the war with Japan should be volunteer, Bracken said they should be conscripted. Quebec has traditionally been against conscription.

In Ontario, the Conservative sweep for Premier George Drew one week ago in the provincial election, failed to develop to a commensurate degree. Tories were looking for a field day in Ontario. The latest count showed that of the 82 seats the Liberals are conceded 29; the Tories, 45, the rest doubtful.

Other Results.

Returns for the maritime provinces, Quebec and Ontario, registered the defeat of D. L. MacLaren, minister of national revenue in the King cabinet. Other eastern ministers elected included J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance; C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply; Brooke Claxton, minister of health and welfare; Joseph Jean, solicitor general; L. S. St. Laurent, minister of justice; Ernest Bertrand, minister of fisheries; Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor; Paul Martin, secretary of state; Colin Gibson, minister of air defense; J. J. McCann, minister of war services; D. C. Abbott, minister of naval services.

J. A. Glen, minister of mines and resources, was running behind in a Manitoba constituency.

24 U. S. Bund Chiefs Freed by High Court

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Twenty-four chiefs of the German-American bund convicted of conspiring to advise draft evasion were freed today by the Supreme court.

G. W. Kunze

The court disposed of half of its remaining docket and may end its session next Monday.

The bund officials, including Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, former national leader of the bund, were convicted in the southern New York federal District court and each was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Justice Roberts delivered the Supreme court's 5-4 opinion in which he was joined by Justices Black, Frankfurter, Murphy, and Rutledge. Chief Justice Stone wrote a dissent in which Justices Reed, Douglas, and Jackson concurred.

Evidence Held Insufficient

The majority held the evidence produced by the government was insufficient to sustain the convictions.

The defendants were charged with conspiracy to distribute among members of the organization copies of bund command No. 37, which asserted the selective law infringed their rights and that they should refuse, if they could, military duty until such laws were revoked.

The majority opinion, by Justice Roberts, held that the evidence failed to show, beyond reasonable doubt, the counseling of evasion of military service within the meaning of the draft law. It said the defendants were entitled to the acquittal for which they had moved.

Chief Justice Stone in his dissent took the view that the conclusion "seems inescapable that petitioners . . . counseled evasion of military service, and that the jury's verdict is therefore sustained by the evidence."

Views of Black, Roberts

Justice Black, concurring with Roberts, said that the statement of congressional policy put the bund members in the position of being subject to the draft yet denying them reëmployment upon return from honorable military service.

In addition to Kunze and Keegan, the others involved were: August Klapprott, Gustav Elmer, Hermann Schwinn, Herman Agne, Joseph Bachmaier, Josef Belohlavek, Carl Frederick Berg, Walter Borchers, Otto Bregler, Ernest Martin Christoph, Otto Fentzke, John C. Fitting, Bruno Knupfer, William C. Kunz, William Ottersbach, Max Rapp, Louis Schatz, Walter Schneller Jr., Hugo Weiss, Karl Richard Wendlandt, Otto Willumeit, and Fritz Streuer.

'CAN'T SURVIVE UNDER OPA,' SO 4 PACKERS CLOSE

Sioux City, Ia., June 11 [Special]—Four Sioux City packing plants, all independently owned, shut down today.

H. W. Neilsen, manager of the Raskin Packing company, said they could not make any money "or even break even" under the present subsidy and the OPA ceiling prices. The other three firms are the Sioux City Packing company, the Meyer Packing company, and the City Wholesale Meat Packing company.

Cigaret Supplies Reported Up 20 Pct.

More cigarets now are coming into Chicago but the supply is still short, dealers and wholesalers said yesterday. They estimated the increase at 20 per cent over the 50 per cent of normal shipments they have been receiving, which would make the current supply 60 per cent of normal.

Philip Fuchs, executive secretary of the Chicago Association of Tobacco Distributors, said wholesalers have started receiving increased supplies from manufacturers. Part of the increase, he said, resulted from a sharp drop in army and navy orders for June and July.

Cigar Supply Less Satisfactory

John M. Myers, executive secretary of the Chicago Retail Druggists association, which has about 1,500 members, said many have reported an increased supply but did not estimate the percentage of increase.

The cigar supply is less satisfactory than that of cigarets, said Emmanuel Johr Seidner, attorney for the Associated Cigar Manufacturers, Inc. He said the office of price administration has adopted policies which have resulted in a scarcity of moderately priced cigars, with no relief in sight.

Damage Suits Expected

The OPA within the next few days is expected to file a series of injunction and triple damage suits against approximately 25 Chicago area cigar manufacturers for alleged violation of the complicated OPA regulations.

Fuchs said pipe tobacco continues in fair supply in small packages, with a shortage of one pound and larger packages.

PVT. JOE M'GEE GOES AWOL AND IS GIVEN 14 DAYS

Fort Devens, Mass., June 11 (AP)—Pvt. Joe McGee, 23, whose two year sentence for striking German war prisoners was rescinded recently, today pleaded guilty to an AWOL charge at a summary court martial and was given 14 days at hard labor in the post guardhouse and a $30 fine.

Army officials said the Worcester, Mass., soldier had been under restriction for going AWOL since his recent transfer from army disciplinary barracks to Fort Devens. He broke the restriction to go AWOL again, army officers said, and was arrested Saturday night on the latest charge.

Hospitals Help Blind Vets to See a Vivid New World

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Avon, Conn., June 11—Fifty per cent of the army's problem in rehabilitating the blind is the job of "rehabilitating" the public's attitude toward the blind.

Here at Old Farms convalescent hospital, the army's unique 100 acre orientation center for the blind in the heart of the beautiful Connecticut valley, you see what the cab driver meant when he said, "Lady, you're gonna be amazed." And you soon learn why the public's attitude is all wrong.

Naturally, who's going to believe the corporal jitterbugging so sprightly with his girl is blind? Or that young lieutenant who struts down the winding path, hands in his pockets, head high, whistling confidently, turning straight up the steps to the postoffice?

Men Show Their Skills

One soldier sets type in a print shop; another grins broadly as he displays a cradle he just finished for his baby. In a machine shop an assembly line of "patients" turns out hundreds of meat grinder parts from drill presses and lathes.

They are blind, all of them. And to the public, who has always regarded a blind person as totally helpless or nearly so and dependent, too, the army's orientation program, which has proved just the opposite, is as clear as mud.

"People just won't believe that a blind soldier can learn to do virtually anything he did before," said Lt. A. R. Blackburn, director of training at Old Farms. "They continue to regard him with horror and pity. What breaks a man's spirit is not loss of sight but loss of the public's confidence in him.

They Produce Results

"Yet here at Old Farms we are proving every day that a blinded man often can produce better than or at least equal to a sighted man of the same talents."

It is remarkable that among blind veterans who are encouraged to take factory jobs in Hartford 12 miles away only one accident, and that a very minor one, has occurred since this project started a year ago.

The blind vets go to and from jobs by bus, unescorted. A private from Chicago broke a factory record in making boxes. As a whole their production record is so excellent that employers who first hired them out of sympathy and a sense of duty are now calling for more.

High Man in Course

A blind sergeant from Racine, Wis., scored one of the highest marks ever made before the state insurance commission in Connecticut in a course offered by Hartford insurance companies.

Old Farms convalescent hospital is neither a hospital nor a trade school.

Its primary purpose is to restore confidence to the boy whose world turned to darkness when a German 88 got him, or a land mine in Italy, or a Jap sniper. His medical and surgical treatment has been completed, either at Valley Forge general hospital in Phoenixville, Pa., or at Dibble general hospital in Menlo Park, Cal.

To the blinded GI who is still undergoing treatment at either of these two hospitals the mention of Old Farms or Avon brings either a silent shudder, or a courageous shrug of the shoulder.

"O, I won't have to go there," he'll tell you. "I have hopes, even if the doctor hasn't. Seems to me I

Canadian Troops to Train in U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11—The Canadian army's Pacific force will be organized on lines similar to those of the United States army, with which it will coöperate, national defense headquarters announced here today.

Comprising an infantry division with supporting armor and service troops, it will have 30,000 men.

The division will have United States weapons and equipment, but will wear Canadian uniforms. It will use United States helmets, which have been proved suitable for the Pacific theater, to avoid confusion in battle.

The force, now being assembled on a volunteer basis from veterans of the European war and others, will get its final advanced training in the United States to familiarize it with United States tactics.

The infantry battalions of the Canadian force will be grouped on a territorial basis, each battalion representing part of Canada. The division will be known as the 6th Canadian, the first five divisions of the Canadian army having been those which fought in Europe.

It had already been announced that 13,500 men of the royal Canadian navy would serve in the Pacific, manning two light aircraft carriers, two medium cruisers, and destroyers, frigates and other craft up to the number of 60.

The Canadian navy will operate in conjunction with the British navy. A large part of the Canadian air force will serve with the royal air force.

AUSTRALIANS PLUNGE ON FROM FOUR BORNEO BEACHES; OUR FLYERS HELP

7th Fleet Pounds Defenses Before Assault

MANILA, June 12 [Tuesday] (AP)—Australian troops plunged steadily inland in British North Borneo against negligible resistance today after four unopposed landings in the Brunei bay area on Sunday, as Gen. MacArthur bid boldly for the oil and rubber of the world's third largest island.

The invasion had secured for the allied navies Brunei bay, one of the Southwest Pacific's finest anchorages only 800 miles from Singapore; swept thru the ruined town of Brooketon, where new Japanese oil machinery lay ready to be taken to the wells, and secured the town of Victoria and Labuan air field on Labuan Island.

Brunei, capital town of the British protectorate of the same name, was the next objective, and already the Australians had plodded within 13 miles of it in the oppressive tropical heat.

Advances on All Fronts

Australians of the 9th infantry division hit the deserted beaches Sunday at 9:15 a. m. [7:45 p. m., Saturday, Chicago war time], at four points; on the southeastern tip of Labuan Island at the mouth of Brunei bay; on Muara Island, also in the bay; at Brunei bluff, and at Brooketon. Advances were general on all fronts.

Front correspondents credited the smoothness of the job to daring naval forces which penetrated Brunei bay three days ahead of "D-day," removed 70 Japanese mines from the channel, set up buoys and charted the waters right up to shore under sporadic Japanese fire.

Ten days of bombing by the United States 13th and Australian air forces had leveled the bayside towns and driven the Japanese inland. American cruisers and destroyers of the 7th fleet, aided by an Australian cruiser, destroyer and other vessels, laid down a heavy curtain of gunfire just ahead of the invasion.

Four Marines Go Ashore

Artillery, tanks and bulldozers followed the troops ashore and soon were moving directly to Brooketon. At 5 p. m. Sunday another unopposed landing was made at Hamilton point on Labuan opposite the first landings.

The landings included probably the smallest detachment of United States marines ever to hit a Pacific beach held by the foe. They were four men—among them Pvt. John R. Hane, 333 N. Central av., Chicago.

The Japanese have been estimated to number 2,000 to 5,000 in the landing area, but only a handful were met at first in light skirmishing after the beaches were secured.

M'ARTHUR GOES TO FRONT WITH AUSSIE TROOPS

BY DONALD STARR
[Chicago Tribune War Correspondent]
[Representing the Combined American Press]

WITH GEN. MacARTHUR IN THE FIELD—[Date Censored]—Leaping ashore two hours after the first wave of allied troops landed on Labuan Island in Brunei bay, British North Borneo, today, Gen. MacArthur walked more than a mile up a blazing beach road within range of Jap small arms fire.

The fearlessness of the commander in chief aroused the respect of hardened Australian "desert rats" of Tobruk and El Alamein fame in Africa. They shouted, "He'll do for me!"—an Aussie expression of complete approval.

Proceeding ahead of tanks down Pangang road skirting the beach, MacArthur caught up with scouts at the head of a column of rangy Aussies. These soldiers, who seldom salute their own generals, rose from their roadside hiding places to stand at attention, relaxing only when MacArthur urged them to remain seated.

Tanks Move Forward

When the column encountered resistance the general's party halted while tanks came up. The crack of small arms fire sent aides and correspondents to ditches but the general remained erect in the middle of the trail.

Not until his air commander, Gen. Kenny, repeatedly had urged him to retrace his steps did MacArthur turn back. Then he led the party back down the trail toward "Brown beach" on which he had stepped ashore. He was the only member of the party who remained outwardly cool during the entire hike. His shirt bore no sign of dampness while all the others were dripping sweat from the jungle heat.

Watches Bombardment

Gen. MacArthur had stood aboard his cruiser during the offshore bombardment by Rear Adm. Forrest Royal's amphibious task force this morning. Occasionally he took time out to tamp tobacco into his pipe.

Near the end of the shelling he told Gen. Kenney the landing could be made without losing a single man. His prediction proved true when the unopposed landing force proceeded 2,000 yards inland before the first man was wounded.

Lt. Gen. Leslie Morshead, Australian corps commander, visited the cruiser before MacArthur's landing party went to the beachhead where bulldozers already were at work.

Inspects 1847 Marker

The general made his way first to a stone monument a few feet from the beach. It was erected to the memory of Color Sgt. Adam Sutherland of "her majesty's brig, Columbine," with the date May, 1847.

The trek up a six foot wide, battered macadam road began. MacArthur halted when he met the first natives who were in charge of a young English speaking Indian. Around him were gathered a boy, girl, an aged woman, and an elderly man with a knot tied in his beard.

When MacArthur asked the Indian where the Japs were, he was told they had been driven back by bombing over the last several days, finally withdrawing their main force to Brunei across the bay.

"Diggers" Brewing Tea

As MacArthur moved on up the troop lined trail, "diggers" already had tea brewing in billy cans over roadside fires. When he reached the farthest point of advance he stopped to look at a body of a Jap who had been shot thru the helmet a few minutes before. A hundred yards ahead another Nip scampered across the road with such speed that the few soldiers who saw him could not get a shot at him.

Offer by Buckner, Dropped by Air, Is Ignored

GUAM, June 12 [Tuesday] (AP)—Lt. Gen. Buckner demanded yesterday that the Japanese commander on Okinawa unconditionally surrender surviving remnants of his garrison as American troops made substantial gains all along the southern front despite fanatical resistance.

Buckner, commander of the United States 10th army, said the Japanese were trapped in two pockets—one only about two square miles in size, the other of 15 square miles or less—and that annihilation was certain unless they capitulated.

Still 15,000 on Island

There are about 15,000 Japanese still on Okinawa—survivors of an original garrison of perhaps 85,000.

[CBS Correspondent Tim Leimert said in a broadcast from Okinawa that American planes dropped a proposal from Buckner offering the Japanese a chance to surrender by sending not more than six men thru the lines for preliminary discussions. He said the Americans flew over the proposed spot looking for the right signal, observed no reaction from the Japanese, and then were fired upon. An Associated Press dispatch said three copies of the offer were dropped near what was believed to be the Japanese general's headquarters cave, giving the enemy 36 hours to respond but the offer apparently was ignored.]

It was disclosed today for the first time that the Japanese have resorted to use of painfully lethal phosphorous shells in their fierce defense of the escarpment. The shells, used as an anti-personnel weapon, cause burns which quickly produce death.

The 96th infantry division, which spearheaded Sunday's surprise broadscale attack by three divisions on the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, gained control of a small area atop the heavily fortified hills at a point about 600 yards south of Hanagusuku in the center.

The 96th fought off numerous small counter-attacks by Japs entrenched in caves as they scaled the rugged, steep slopes of the escarpment which runs more than three miles, almost from coast to coast, across Okinawa's southern tip.

Also employing tanks, the 32d regiment of the 7th infantry division of the southeastern coast occupied the summit of important hill 95, southwest of Hanagusuku, after two days of bitter fighting.

Marines Gain Along Coast

On the western end of the line Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's 1st marine division advanced about 650 yards along the coast against surprisingly light resistance. The division's left flank moved up about 400 yards to assault Hill 69, west of Ozato, two miles inland almost directly east of Itoman town.

In Oroku peninsula Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr.'s 6th division marines captured two important hills, 62 and 53, northeast of Tomigusuki town, and made gains which reduced the area controled by the trapped Japanese garrison to some two square miles south of Naha harbor. The 22d regiment of the 6th reported it had killed 400 to 500 Japanese yesterday.

SUFFER 469 CASUALTIES

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—The navy announced tonight the loss of two destroyers, an auxiliary transport, and a landing ship off Okinawa, with a total of 469 killed, missing, or wounded.

The destroyers were the 2,050 ton Longshaw, with 179 casualties, and the 2,000 ton Drexler, with 209 casualties. The Bates, the auxiliary high speed transport, suffered 60 casualties, and the LSM-135, a medium landing ship, suffered 21 casualties. The navy said the next of kin have been notified.

[How Jap shore batteries blasted

U. S. destroyer Longshaw to bits. Story on page 3.]

Illinoisan Wounded

The destroyers normally carry a crew of 280 to 350, the auxiliary transport a complement of 150 to 190, and a medium landing ship, 55.

The commander of the Longshaw, Lt. Comdr. Clarence William Becker, whose wife lives at Salem, Mass., was reported missing in action. Becker took command of the Longshaw just six days before she was lost off Okinawa on May 18. He is a native of Portsmouth, N. H., and the son of Capt. W. F. Becker of Washington, D. C., a retired marine officer.

Comdr. Ronald Lee Wilson, commander of the Drexler, was reported as wounded. Wilson, native of Marion, Ill., and a graduate of Annapolis, lived at Los Angeles, Cal.

Others Killed or Wounded

Lt. Comdr. Henry A. Wilmerding Jr., who was in command of the Bates at the time it was sunk, was wounded. Wilmerding is a native of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.

Lt. Comdr. Horace G. Powell, Philadelphia, Pa., who had served as executive officer aboard the Bates and had been ordered on May 18 to take command also was wounded in action.

Lt. Harry Leigh Derby Jr., who had been in command of the LSM 136, was reported as killed in action. Derby's widow lives at Montclair, N. J.

WAC'S INJURY DELAYS RESCUE IN SHANGRI-LA

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, June 11—Plans for the rescue of a WAC and two airmen from a "Shangri-la" valley were delayed today as their ordeal entered its fifth week. Because her leg burns had not healed sufficiently, WAC Corp. Margaret Hastings, Oswego, N. Y., decided she was not ready yet to attempt the long hike from a mountain saddle to a point in the valley where a glider could be landed.

Capt. Cecil Walters, Portland, Ore., who commands the paratrooper rescuers, said by radio that it might be four days before the WAC is ready to travel. Lt. John B. McCollum, Trenton, Mo., and Sgt. Kenneth W. Becker, Kelso, Wash., the two other survivors, also were reported pleased over prospects of a rest before starting the 10 mile journey. Rains made the trail which they must use muddy and tricky.

A small American flag which a plane dropped in this remote, almost inaccessible valley was raised by McCollum, who jokingly claimed it for the United States. The valley, a part of Dutch New Guinea, is a distant edge of the East Indies. Planes today dropped hatchets, footwear, more food supplies, and medicine. A highly accurate drop sent all the parachutes within 80 yards of the camp.

CHARGES JAPS, STUNG BY B-29s, ABUSE CAPTIVES

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—The Japanese, stung by Super Fortress blows, take it out on their prisoners of war.

Capt. Robert C. Shanks Jr., 25, Grand Prairie, Tex., a B-29 pilot, told today how he and his crew of 10 were mistreated, underfed, clubbed, and humiliated. They spent four and a half months in a Jap prison at Rangoon, Burma, after bailing out of a damaged B-29. "Airmen get the worst treatment of all," the Texan said. "It was awful one day after we apparently hit Japan pretty hard. The airmen really got it in that prison camp then."

Shanks lost 50 pounds in Japanese captivity. His men suffered similarly. All were liberated when the 14th army and the Royal navy took Rangoon.

U. S. AID PLAYED IMPORTANT WAR ROLE—STALIN

LONDON, June 12 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Marshal Stalin thanked President Truman for American lend-lease aid in a message yesterday on the third anniversary of the conclusion of the American-soviet mutual assistance agreement in the war against Germany, the Moscow radio said today.

Stalin told Mr. Truman that United States help to Russia "played an important role and in considerable degree facilitated the successful completion of the war." Stalin expressed belief that the friendly ties forged between the United States and Russia during the war would become even stronger in the future, the broadcast said.

LIBERATORS FLY OVER JAPAN FOR 1ST TIME: TOKYO

San Francisco, Cal., June 12 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Radio Tokyo announced that two American B-24s were over the Japanese inland empire early today for the first Liberator flight over Japan's homeland. American fighter planes and Super Fortresses also swept over Kyushu, Japan's southernmost home island, raiding air fields and laying mines. The Liberators presumably flew from Okinawa.

B-29 Damage Grows

GUAM, June 12 [Tuesday]—(AP)—B-29s have burned up or damaged 102.67 square miles of urban-industrial areas in Japan's six largest cities, 21st bomber command headquarters announced today, as army Mustangs and marine Corsairs gave the enemy homeland its fifth successive day of aerial attacks. Nearly four square miles of Kobe and more than three square miles of Osaka were burned out in Super Fortress bombings June 5 and 7, respectively, reconnaissance photographs disclosed.

Iwo Island based army P-51 Mustangs of the 7th fighter command hit the Tokyo area yesterday, a second successive day, in a low level sweep on Tachinkawa and Atsuki air fields. They destroyed 16 Japanese planes on the ground and one in the air. They probably destroyed three more and damaged 33. Marine Corsairs from Okinawa bases swept southern Kyushu air fields, destroying 12 planes. This was the first time Corsairs had attacked the Japanese homeland from any land base, altho they have been used from carriers.

Rome Says 44,494 Fell Fighting Alongside Allies

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Rome domestic radio said last night that the Italian army which fought alongside the allies against Germany suffered 44,494 casualties, including 17,494 killed, 9,353 wounded and 17,647 missing, between Sept. 8, 1943, and April 30, 1945. The broadcast quoted an Italian ministry of war announcement.

MacARTHUR WINS TOWNS ON LUZON AND MINDANAO

MANILA, June 12 [Tuesday] (AP)—The American 37th infantry division consolidated its positions a dozen miles from the main Cagayan valley of northern Luzon today preparatory to an all-out attack on that last major stronghold of the Japanese in the Philippines.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced also that in central Luzon the American 11th corps captured the town of Santa Ines east of Manila and was closing in on enemy mountain positions east of the Marikina river. On the southeastern island of Mindanao the 10th corps advanced up the Pulangi river and seized the town of Jasaa, 10 miles east of Mindanao's central highway.

Since the 8th army turned over the Leyte cleanup to the 8th army on Dec. 26, nearly 26,000 dead Japanese have been counted on that one island, scene of the American reinvasion of the Philippines. In addition, more than 450 prisoners have been taken, yet the starving and hopeless Japanese fight on, and the surrender rate has not increased materially.

AUSSIES PLUNGE INLAND AFTER BORNEO ATTACK

lowed minesweepers into this placid harbor—used for three years as a major Japanese harbor—to clear the way for allied invasion of North Borneo.

While Adm. Berkey's imperturbable cruisers dropped anchor in the emerald water, his flotilla of small craft went about their affairs as if they owned the place. Upon them depended the success of the landings.

The most ticklish job of all was that of the underwater demolition team, called upon to send swimmers ashore on Labuan Island at the mouth of the bay to observe surf conditions and locate underwater obstacles and shore installations.

Shells "Walked" Inland

Two Seahawk scout planes, catapulted from the cruisers, soared into the cloud speckled sky. Gunboats edged close to the shore.

Then the cruisers and destroyers thundered their preliminary salvos. The shells crashed along the wide sandy beach.

With the Seahawks calling the shots for them, the warships intensified the bombardment. They skilfully "walked" five and six inch shells inland toward Victoria town.

One salvo made a direct hit on a Japanese ammunition dump. Flames leaped high above the casuarina trees. Thru the dense golden smoke cloud, exploding rockets and star shells made a sparkling bouquet of fire.

"Hot giggity dog!" exclaimed the admiral. "Look at it go!"

"Swimmers away, sir," Quartermaster George M. Clark of Urbana, Ill., reported.

Japs Fire on Swimmers

"Tell the ships and planes to keep their shots and bombs out of the water and well back of the beach," Adm. Berkey instructed. "We don't want to hurt any one."

As the swimmers neared the beach, the Japanese sent a few bursts of 75 mm. shells at them. The gunboats immediately engaged the enemy positions and dropped a barrage of rockets.

Then a flight of B-24 heavy bombers appeared overhead and released 250 pounds of general purpose bombs.

One stick of bombs hit near the water edge, where the swimmers were just beginning their work. They continued their beach exploration, but when noses were counted later one man was missing and three were wounded.

An hour and 25 minutes after their start, the swimmers were back aboard their ships.

Minesweepers, meanwhile, churned back and forth across the broad expanse of Brunei bay, uncovering more than 60 chemical, horn, and contact mines. Gunboats exploded them with machine gun fire.

The work of preparing Brunei bay to receive the thousands of invasion troops continued thruout yesterday and today. One more successful landing was in the making.

YANK FOXHOLE SINKS INTO JAP TUNNEL; FOE BURIED UNDERNEATH

LUZON, P. I. [Delayed]—(AP)—Privates Grant Muhlestein of Price, Utah, and Lee E. Osborne of Utica, Ill., dug in after the 25th division captured a hill overlooking Balete pass, only to have their foxhole fall from under them. They jumped out, just in time, as their hole had caved into a Japanese tunnel. A Japanese soldier fired his rifle at them thru the aperture.

The two soldiers kept watch all night and investigation next day disclosed the tunnel linked three big Japanese caves. They blew up the tunnel with TNT while other doughboys kept the Japanese inside by throwing hand grenades into all outlets.

The tunnel collapsed, so nobody knows how many Nipponese died inside.

CHARTER FIXED TO AID BRITAIN: BEAVERBROOK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 11—The Atlantic charter was amended with the late President Roosevelt's cognizance to protect the British empire and the system of imperial preference, Lord Privy Seal Beaverbrook asserted tonight.

[The clause of the charter Beaverbrook presumably referred to reads that the United States and Britain "will endeavor, with due respect for their existing obligations, to further the enjoyment by all states, great or small, victor or vanquished, of access, on equal terms, to the trade and to the raw materials of the world which are needed for their economic prosperity."]

He made the disclosure at the end of an election campaign speech in which he announced the revival of the "Empire Crusade," an organization which he sponsored in his Daily Express before the war.

He admitted that the Atlantic charter called for equal access to raw materials but said that "specifically a limitation was placed in the charter for the purpose of protecting the British empire and what is known as imperial preference." He added:

"The words were added after some hours of discussion and with the full knowledge of the President of the United States. That amendment involved the acceptance of principles of imperial preference and involved the basis of the empire structure. I have not heard of any deviation from that principle."

JAPS BLOW UP U.S. DESTROYER STUCK ON REEF

Shore Guns Hit Magazine; Ship Blasted to Bits

OKINAWA, May 18 [Delayed]—(AP)—Japanese shore batteries opened up on a destroyer stranded on a reef a mile off Naha shortly before noon today and within seven minutes detonated her magazine, blasting her to bits. More than two-thirds of the destroyer's personnel, it is estimated, was lost.

[The navy in Washington said the destroyer was the Longshaw, lost with 179 casualties from a normal crew of 250 to 350. The Longshaw's commanding officer, Comdr. Clarence W. Becker of Salem, Mass., was reported missing.]

The destroyer was shelling Japanese held southern Okinawa and was nosing thru apparently safe waters previously navigated successfully by other ships when its hull caught on a coral reef.

The ship had been on the reef almost two hours and a half and a tug had come to her aid before Japanese guns from the direction of Naha fired. The fifth shell caused a terrific explosion, showering ship's debris upon men struggling in the water and killing or wounding a large number.

Peorian Escapes Death

One of the heroes who escaped death was 21 year old Radioman 1st Class James J. Zikus, Peoria, Ill., who boarded the destroyer from the tugboat to relay reports to the tug skipper and remained aboard even after the destroyer skipper ordered "abandon ship." Finally he was blown from the bridge into the water.

The most vivid account of the disaster was given by the skipper of the salvage tug, Lt. John Aitken, Forest Hills, N. Y. He boarded the destroyer and conferred with her captain. Then he took soundings from a small boat all around the ship before ordering a towing cable made fast. The destroyer had been shifting ammunition from the forward magazine to the fantail to lighten the bow. Aitken sent Zikus aboard the destroyer with a radio set to make reports to the tug's communications officer, Lt. Charles F. Barber of Providence, R. I.

"The tug had been trying for eight minutes to work the destroyer clear when the enemy shore batteries opened on the destroyer," Aitken said.

Second Shot Scores

"The first shot was a near miss, a hundred feet off. The second hit the destroyer forward, knocking out some port batteries.

"The destroyer by this time was countering the enemy guns with its own fire. A third enemy shot hit the bridge on the port side, knocking down the mast.

"Radioman Zikus reported to Lt. Barber that the destroyer's skipper came out of the wheelhouse with a bloody hand, but very cool and calm.

"A fourth shot hit the destroyer on the port side under the bridge. Word came from Zikus that the destroyer commander had given orders to abandon ship. Until this time—five minutes after shelling started—the tug and destroyer had both been working with full power trying to clear the reef.

"The power on the destroyer stopped. The crew commenced jumping over the side. Many already had been blown over. Radioman Zikus was still at his station on the bridge.

Men Blown Into Air

"A fifth shell hit the destroyer a minute later, causing a terrific explosion. Men and equipment flew high in the air.

"That shot must have hit a magazine filled with hundreds of bags of five inch ammunition. A fuel tank was blown open, throwing two large slicks of burning fuel 150 yards from the ship. Fuel oil also was burning for 50 feet all along the port side forward of the destroyer. I believe many of the personnel were burned to death by burning oil.

"Two minutes after that terrifically damaging fifth shell the Japanese shore batteries opened up on my tug. The first shot landed 100 feet off port quarter as we moved from the destroyer. As shells continued to straddle our stern I commenced using evasive action. A near miss 50 feet away threw our gyrocompass repeaters out of the gimbles. About 10 more shells were fired at us before we cleared, but there were no hits.

"We fired back with our three inch and 40 mm. guns. After getting clear we put two motor whaleboats into the water and sent them in to pick up survivors.

Fire Fighters Go Aboard

"In the early afternoon our fire fighting officer, Lt. Charles A. Hickey, New York City, went aboard the destroyer with an eight man fire fighting crew, equipped with pumps. They reported everything forward completely blown up, the forward engine room burning furiously, and ready boxes commencing to explode all over the after end of the ship from the intense heat.

"Hickey ordered his men to abandon ship. They brought off 10 bodies and said there were no living personnel still aboard.

"We spent the rest of the afternoon taking survivors aboard and caring for the wounded and the dead. This ship picked up 10 dead, six seriously wounded, and 46 survivors."

Ordered to Stay

Only two men on the destroyer bridge survived. Zikus was one of them. Asked why he remained on the bridge after the abandon ship order came, he said:

"My orders were to stay on the ship and call information in to Lt. Barber.

"I remember every detail very clearly until the explosion blew me off the bridge and I felt myself flying thru air with a big plate of steel spinning along with me.

"I found myself in water coated with oil about four inches deep. Trying to get away from the flames, I reached some wreckage and then got on a life raft with two men. We linked up with another life raft and picked up a few single survivors. There were lots of swimmers, some hysterical. One swam away from every one and refused to let us help. Finally he drowned."

The rafts were picked up by the tug.

Twin WAVES Reunited in City

Hail Assignment

WAVES Rosie Fay Coleman and Ozie Coleman Thompson, 21 year old twins, were rejoicing at being together again yesterday on their assignment at the naval air technical training center, 87th st. and Anthony av. "I just couldn't stand being away from Sis," was Rosie's explanation when she reported for duty on a transfer from the naval air technical training center at Gainesville, Ga.

The twins entered the WAVES last October along with a third Coleman girl, Blanche, who came to the Chicago center with Ozie, but received an honorable discharge a few days ago. The twins have three brothers in service, all overseas veterans. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Coleman, Aberdeen, Miss. Rosie plans a career in singing and modeling after the war. Ozie is a widow, her husband having been killed shortly before Germany surrendered.

ROMULO ASSAILS PARLEY FAILURE TO AID COLONIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 11—The big powers have left a "yawning, gaping void" in the world charter by banning the achievement of independence as a goal for 600 million colonials, Brig. Gen. Romulo, Philippine delegation chairman, charged today.

His blistering speech, delivered before the Queens Bench, an organization of women lawyers, was regarded as a tuneup for the spectacular floor fight Romulo has promised to make in the closing sessions of the security conference for the inclusion of independence for all peoples as one of the basic objectives of the international organization.

The charter, in its proposed form, has only the "glimmerings of a bill of rights," he declared. He noted that the trusteeship formula, drawn up by Comdr. Stassen, American delegate, proposes "self-government or independence" for the inhabitants of mandated or conquered territories but specifically omits "independence" from the declaration of policy in regard to colonial peoples.

The colonies referred to by Romulo include India, under British rule, and the various lands controled by France and the Netherlands.

HOPKINS MOSCOW TRIP A FIZZLE, BRIDGES HOLDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] charged today that the American people had been hoodwinked into thinking Harry Hopkins won a diplomatic victory in his recent negotiations with Premier Stalin of Russia. Actually, he said, American diplomacy was the victim of soviet trickery.

Bridges, in a senate speech, attacked an official announcement that Hopkins persuaded Stalin to yield on his previous insistence on the right of any of the five major powers to veto world security organization discussion of disputes which might threaten world peace.

"Mr. Hopkins," said Bridges, "obtained in Moscow only and exclusively the withdrawal of the extended Russian interpretation of the veto formula, but he did not obtain any change of the Russian attitude concerning the two points involved in discussion at San Francisco for the last six weeks."

HOPKINS' PLANE CREW GETS GOOD LOOK AT BERLIN

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—Five American airmen who flew Harry Hopkins, President Truman's personal representative, to Moscow have seen more of post-war Berlin than perhaps any other Americans.

They are Sgt. John Weygand, flight engineer, of Mendota, Ill.; Flight Officer Vernon Wright of Memphis, Tenn.; Lt. Harry Brodsky, pilot, of the Bronx, N. Y.; Lt. Edward Frehmeyer of Cleveland, O.; and Sgt. William Lehmann of Lynbrook, N. Y.

At Hopkins' request the Russians furnished the Liberator crew with a guide who showed them everything they wanted to see in the bomb battered capital, Sgt. Ernie Leiser, who bummed a ride on the plane, reported in Stars and Stripes. Leiser said the crew visited the reichschancellery and went down four floors to the room where Hitler made his headquarters during the last desperate days of the Berlin siege.

Hopkins Due to Return to Washington Today

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Harry Hopkins is due to reach Washington tomorrow to report on his special mission to Moscow, White House Press Secretary Ross told his news conference today. Hopkins would confer with President Truman either tomorrow afternoon or tomorrow night.

BIG 5 IS READY TO RIDE HERD IN VETO VOTE TODAY

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—After another day of desperate fighting by the little nations in the world security conference against a great powers privilege to veto peaceful settlement of international disputes the signal was given tonight for the Big Five steam roller to roll tomorrow.

At that time a conference committee will begin voting on the amendments proposed by the small countries to the voting procedure of the prospective world peace league's security council which involves the veto power.

No doubt is entertained that the Big Five steam roller will flatten out the opposition to the veto. The Big Five—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—have given the junior partners to understand that unless they accept the Big Five terms there will be no peace league.

Seek to Close June 20

Without the Big Five privilege to veto peaceful settlements there will be no peace league, the conference leaders served notice, because Russia would refuse to join the organization and because the other powers agreed to the Russian terms on the veto at the Yalta conference.

While the committee considering the veto was holding another stormy session, the Big Five met and decided to push full steam ahead to wind up the conference by June 20 when President Truman is scheduled to address the 50 nation convention and launch the world peace ship.

The Big Five also decided to provide in the charter for expulsion of a member of the league and decided against a provision for withdrawal from the organization.

Vandenberg Praised

The committee on regional peace enforcement arrangements completed its work with a vote of thanks to Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] who managed the drafting of the provision for fitting the Pan-American security system into the world peace machinery. Vandenberg said the successful adjustment of differences on this question augured well for the success of the peace league.

The big five steam roller was already in evidence during the 3 hour session of the committee on voting procedure. Some of the Latin Americans were the first of the small nations to show signs of a break to support of the big five.

Speakers for these and also for European small countries argued that it took the big five 19 days to agree on their interpretation of voing procedure and that this effort undoubtedly resulted in the best formula obtainable; under these circumstances the small powers must trust the good faith of the big five. Some of the small powers said they would vote for the formula in the hope that after the war against Japan had been won and circumstances had changed, amendments might be made. They therefore hoped that the veto would be removed from its application to the amending process.

Little Nations Heard

"This is not a battle between the small and big powers because we as a small power favor the formula," said the Czechoslovakian delegate. Belgium was next and said: "We favor the Australian amendment removing the veto from investigations."

The Netherlands delegate supported the Australian amendment. The Norwegian delegate opposed it, accepting the Dumbarton Oaks text. France promised the veto would not be used arbitrarily by the Big Five which would be restrained by world opinion. The delegate pleaded for quick committee action in favor of the Big Five position to remove "the atmosphere of crisis."

The big powers' paper was full of obscurities in an attempt to meet the views of every one, Peru said. "It cannot be defended on legalistic grounds but must be accepted for political reasons."

Asks Limit on Faith

The faith which the small nations are willing to show in the great powers should have a limit in time, said the Peruvian. "There should be either no veto on amendments or the right to withdraw from the organization."

Dr. Wellington Koo, representing China, said every member wanted a strong and effective organization in any serious crisis. "If a choice had to be made between an ideal system and an effective system, we will prefer the second," he said.

Plans Divorce

MRS. WILLIAM CAGNEY

Hollywood, Cal., June 11 (AP)—Film Producer William Cagney and his wife, the former Boots Mallory, have separated.

Mrs. Cagney, former screen actress and Ziegfeld show girl, said it is a case of incompatability and that she will start a divorce action soon.

Cagney, brother of Actor James Cagney, and his wife have been married 11 years.

COMMONS HEARS PLEA FOR TRUTH ABOUT RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 11—An appeal to Russia to permit objective reporting of conditions in the soviet union and Russian occupied territories was made in the house of commons tonight by Foreign Undersecretary Dunglass.

Declaring the British gave the Russians wide press facilities and got practically nothing in return, Dunglass said "nothing would more quickly kill the spate of rumors which comes from eastern Europe at present than the truth as it could be given by newspaper correspondents."

Comdr. Stephen King-Hall, independent, complained of the lack of contacts between the British and Russian peoples. He said Marshal Stalin should know that many people here think Prime Minister Churchill should not do all the travelling when it comes to Big Three conferences.

HEBREWS ADMIT THEIR FAILURE AT CONFERENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., June 11—Peter H. Bergson of Palestine, chairman of the Hebrew committee of national liberation, said today the committee's efforts to obtain recognition of a Hebrew nation at the allied nations conference "has completely failed officially."

Alger Hiss, secretary general of the conference, has insisted, Bergson said, that Hebrews do not constitute a state in the accepted sense.

HEAR U.S., BRITAIN SWING TO RED VIEW ON POLES

MOSCOW, June 11 (AP)—A well informed foreign source said tonight that the United States and Britain has swung around to the soviet-sponsored Warsaw provisional government as the nucleus for reorganization of the government of Poland and that the troublesome Polish question now was near settlement. With this major difference ironed out, this source predicted Poles outside the Warsaw government would be invited shortly to participate in the reorganization.

The informant said not only the Polish question but other subjects regarded as stumbling blocks had been removed in a general clearing of the atmosphere.

He said that anxiety expressed recently over the whereabouts of Wincenty Witos, aged former premier of Poland, were unfounded and that he was safe in Poland. It was learned that several prominent Poles from abroad might shortly participate in discussions about places in the provisional government.

London Sees Early Solution

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Hope mounted in diplomatic quarters here for an early solution of the deadlocked Polish dispute as Harry Hopkins, White House trouble shooter, sped homeward by air tonight amid unofficial reports that his Moscow visit had won a compromise from Premier Stalin.

[A Washington dispatch said Hopkins, who was sent to Moscow May 23 by President Truman, "reportedly carried, among other things, Marshal Stalin's views on plans for a Big Three meeting."]

The optimism was not shared by members of the Polish exiled government here, partly because of the strong belief of most of them that they will be frozen out of any soviet-accepted plan for a new, broader-based provisional government.

Outside of this group, however, responsible quarters placed credence in reports that Hopkins had succeeded in obtaining the release of most of the 17 Polish political leaders who were arrested by the Russians and accused of subversive activities.

Concession Held Necessary

While there was no official confirmation of these reports, first broadcast by the Paris radio Saturday night, it was regarded here as almost certain that such a concession by the Russians would have been a necessary prelude to a resumption of the discussions which were broken off abruptly at San Francisco with the disclosure of the Poles' arrest.

The assumption here that the Polish dispute had a prominent place in Hopkins' Kremlin conversations appeared well founded in view of the apparent approach of a new Big Three meeting. The issue proved so provocative during past meetings that it postponed the settlement of other problems.

PETAIN ASSERTS CHURCHILL O. K.'D SEPARATE PEACE

Trial Evidence Given Out at Examination

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 11—Prime Minister Churchill gave his consent to an armistice between the French and Germans in June, 1940, and even for a separate peace, Marshal Petain today told the examining magistrate of the high court before which he will be tried for treason in two weeks.

Petain told the magistrates, in reply to questions, that he was "resistant No. 1" of metropolitan France all the time he was head of the Vichy government.

A large amount of evidence being taken for the prosecution at the trial is being given out verbatim following the preliminary examinations.

Testimony Quoted

The official French news agency today quoted Petain's testimony before the examining magistrates as follows:

"France being occupied, I had to give apparent satisfaction to the Germans. Nevertheless, I never publicly blamed or discouraged resistance. I myself was a resistant—a resistant of metropolitan France.

"When I blamed the terrorists I was referring to those criminals who took advantage of any cover under the maquis to rob individuals. I, like Gen. de Gaulle, disapproved of terrorist acts against isolated members of the occupation forces.

"Laval was imposed on me. I accepted him as a necessary evil. I used him to dissimulate my political orientation. Unconsciously he played a useful role for France. I gave the allies the greatest substantial aid. I put Weygand, Darlan, and Juin at their disposition.

Avoided Fate of Poland

"In signing the armistice, instead of simply ordering cease fire, I was responsible for a necessary act. I assured the existence of a free zone and the integrity of territory which facilitated eventual liberation, and I avoided for France the fate of Poland.

"I assured the liberty of an entire people and saved the lives of thousands of soldiers. I also reduced to the extent possible those operations which most tortured me, namely, the taking of hostages. I myself offered my person as a hostage.

"Churchill, when we met at the beginning of June at the Chateau de Cange, near Tours, was in agreement with me about an armistice, and even about a separate peace. An armistice is not peace."

BELGIUM ADDS UP BOOKS; FINDS U.S. IN DEBT TO IT

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 9.—Belgium claims to be the only creditor state under a lend-lease arrangement with the United States. They figure in Brussels that we owe Belgium more than it owes us.

The Belgian Congo during the war produced and supplied increased quantities of copper, diamonds, rubber, and zinc to the allies. Since October, 1944, Belgium has also furnished allied troops with services and supplies.

The Belgians are much upset by the announcement of Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, of a sharp curb on newly negotiated lend-lease agreements with Belgium and France.

Camille Gutt, former Belgian finance minister, had just negotiated a $325,000,000 deal under lend-lease which was expected to replenish depleted stores here.

CHURCHILL WEPT AS FRANCE GAVE UP, SAYS HERRIOT

LYON, France, June 11 (AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot said in an address today that Prime Minister Churchill "broke down and wept like a child" in June 1940, when French leaders refused to continue the war against Germany.

Herriot's speech, honoring Lyons men killed by the Germans, was a powerful attack on bitterness in France against Great Britain, and the United States. He reminded his listeners that France, left alone, still would be under the Gestapo. The dramatic scene with Churchill took place at Tours, Herriot said.

"Churchill had come to France to beg us to continue the war," Herriot said. "If at that moment he too had capitulated, where would we be at this moment?" Herriot said he had complete notes on events leading to the fall of France and that these would be made public at the proper time.

300 Nazi Prisoners Leave England in Landing Craft

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 11—Three hundred German war prisoners, guarded by armed military police, left Tilbury for Germany today in two infantry landing craft of the type used by allied troops on D-day. All were miners or transport workers before the war. They were the last batch of 1,500 prisoners selected on occupational grounds for repatriation from England at the request of supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force.

Developments of War in China

Drive on Jap Base

CHUNGKING, China, June 11 (AP)—Chinese troops have rammed within 10 miles of Kweilin, formerly the biggest advanced base for American air power in the Orient, in a 15 mile burst thru Japanese defenses, the Chinese high command reported tonight.

In a three-pronged drive against the imperilled Japanese bastion, 360 miles southeast of Chungking, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's veteran fighters threatened to isolate thousands of Japanese troops holding out in Liuchow, 90 miles southwest.

While the Chinese closed in on Kweilin and Liuchow, assault forces in south China captured two Japanese held towns near the Indo-China frontier and battered 20 miles over ravine-cut hills toward Pingsiang, 100 miles northeast of Hanoi, capital of the former French colony.

FRENCH PEOPLE HAIL DE GAULLE; TOUR A TRIUMPH

PARIS, June 11 (AP)—Gen. De Gaulle returned to Paris today from a Normandy trip which was intended as a routine inspection tour of devastated towns and which developed into a personal triumph.

The trip seemed to indicate that De Gaulle has gained rather than lost backing with the French people in the year since he returned to France, and that the French people apparently are in full agreement with his foreign policy, despite the humiliation which arose from the Syrian crisis.

De Gaulle was hailed wherever he halted along a route from Caen thru Bayeux and St. Lo. In impromptu speeches he spoke boldly of his criticized foreign policies.

HUEBNER NAMED FOR PERMANENT COLONEL'S RANK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, commander of the 5th army corps, today was nominated by President Truman for promotion from his permanent rank of lieutenant colonel to colonel. The nomination was among eight sent to the senate. Gen. Huebner returned from Europe to his home here last Wednesday.

Enlisting in the army 34 years ago as a private, Gen. Huebner came up thru the ranks. He went to France with the 1st division in the World war and was regimental commander when it ended. In this war, he took over command of the 1st division from Maj. Gen. Terry Allen in Sicily and then began training his troops for the invasion of France. The division won combat honors by smashing a German division on the beaches of Normandy as the 1st army spearhead and by helping lead the way in the break-thru at St. Lo and the drive across France into Belgium and Germany. The division was the first thru the Siegfried line.

Gen. Huebner had been moved up to command the 5th corps when Marshal von Rundstedt launched his counter-offensive in December. The 5th corps resisted German assaults and prevented a break-thru in the north.

QUEEN MOTHER BACK IN LONDON AFTER 5½ YEARS

LONDON, June 11 [Reuters]—Queen Mary, widow of King George V., and mother of the present king, came back today to the London home she had not seen for five years. A small crowd cheered her and she waved from her car as sentries of the Scots guards presented arms.

Queen Mary left London in September, 1939 for Badminton, the Gloucestershire home of her niece, the duchess of Beaufort. There she entered upon a life of secret hard work among the villagers and surrounding factories. She is 78.

...what a FLUSTERED guy, he is

Mothers have an easier time of it. They can be sentimental — and, on them it looks good.

Fathers, somehow, try to cover up. What a flustered guy he is, when the same parental sentiments rise to challenge his masculine ruggedness. With a firm handshake — a slap on the back — and "good luck son" — he tries to do the manlike thing for taking his boy in his arms. But his eyes give him away, completely.

That's why we're for Father's Day. We're for it because it is frankly and openly sentimental. We're for it because we can tell him, that, as an actor — he's the finest of fathers.

P.S. If dad doesn't happen to need a tie — you might sort of brouse around one of our stores. A good book — a deluxe shaving brush — shaving sets . . (And that, my fellow copywriters, is how to get an okay from the Executive Vice President in charge of merchandising).

YANKS UNEARTH NAZI PLANS FOR DEADLIER ARMS

Quick Action Keeps Foe from Hiding Secrets

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MUNICH, Germany, June 11—The actual planes, equipment, models, and detailed plans of the newest inventions and research on which the Germans counted to win the war even after their country was invaded are on their way to the United States or have arrived there.

Thanks to the thoro preparation, daring and vision of technical and intelligence teams of the United States air force, we have been able to secure this vital material and information quickly despite the frantic efforts of the Germans determined to withhold technical and military secrets which they hoped to use in the future.

Must Continue Research

Our teams, scattered thruout central Europe, coöperate by means of their own radio stations, each team keeping the others informed on the newest leads. But as one of the key leaders pointed out when I interviewed him, "The full benefit of our work can be reaped only if we continue research scientifically and conscientiously for at least two years. This much time is needed because of the extent of the scientific work done by the Germans to perfect the art of killing, their determination to withhold information and the elaborate precautions they have taken to hide data and material on the death dealing weapons which they had nearly finished."

Sound Like Jules Verne

Some of the planes which the Germans evolved and some of the experiments on which the Germans were working sound like Jules Verne romancing, but when you follow the trail you often find that some of the most fantastic-sounding schemes failed only because our victorious armies moved too swiftly for the Germans or because we hampered their last minute efforts by destroying their oil supply, synthetic oil plants, and communications.

Among the fantastic planes which the Germans evolved was a new fighter jet plane with a jet unit under each wing.

The Germans think it would have been a remarkable plane, but with their communications smashed by bombers they were unable to assemble materials quickly enough to produce sufficient surprise planes to stave off defeat.

Jet Plane Spectacular

The luftwaffe chiefs are convinced that the Messerschmitt 262, the famed jet propelled plane, was the most spectacular weapon of the war and they were prepared for mass production. Our teams were informed that these planes depended on a huge factory built under a mountain top near Kahla and on other centers of production. The Kahla underground plants spread for miles. We found equipment for turning out parts inside the mountain and assembling plants in a huge, well camouflaged building on the mountain side.

From this building the finished plane moved onto a lift which carried it to an air field on top of the mountain, from where the planes started. I visited this weird, streamlined plant a few days after we seized it. If the Germans had been given time they could have continued manufacture for long months. But even the best of planes were useless, since there was no gas to fly them.

Plans Carefully Hidden

The Germans considered the ME-262 so vital that months ago they had 40 heavy, special metal containers built for the master plans of the plane. The plans were buried far out in the country near a railway track. The Americans unearthed them. They also found a cave in which additional information was protected by seven carefully devised booby traps.

The German scientists who worked so zealously with the military leaders to perfect the death dealing weapons are busy blaming each other for the defeat. A number of air force experts hold that Dr. Wilhelm Messerschmitt received the biggest orders from the army because he was a high ranking Nazi and close to Hitler, whereas they claim that other experts had other, more deadly weapons which could have enabled Germany to retain air superiority. We have many hints of what these devices were, but careful work is necessary to establish the truth.

Messerschmidt Freed

At the time we seized Augsburg we captured Messerschmidt. His colleagues expected that he would be held for a long while for detailed interrogation, but they understand that he has returned to the comfort of his villa at Murnau, much to the amazement of non-Nazis.

We also captured Prof. Hermann Oberth, inventor of the V-2 rocket bomb, who had been working on rockets since 1910. Many other scientists have been found, and the Americans who helped find them hope that ways and means will be found to induce them to use their knowledge for peaceful pursuits.

Four Nazi Generals Caught

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 11 (AP)—Four German generals and a number of other officials and scientists wanted by the allies were picked up by occupation forces during a 24 hour period ending Sunday noon, the 12th army group announced.

The arrests included Gen. Walter Musshoff, former chief of the welfare division of the German air force.

Among others seized were Lt. Col. Juedeich, former chief of the German psychological warfare board; Conrad von Schubert, former observer for the foreign office in the Ukraine and later senior councillor in the German embassy in Croatia, and Dr. Max Rendschmitt, for 22 years architect of the city of Berlin.

[The federal communications commission reported an announcement by President Eduard Benes that "Hitler's deputy, (Martin) Bormann, has been captured and will be tried." The FCC gave this as part of a Prague broadcast repeating a speech by Benes at Lidice Sunday. In London the Czech news service said Benes' speech as rebroadcast from Prague had said Bormann's whereabouts was unknown."]

TRIESTE PACT A BITTER PILL, SAY YUGOSLAVS

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Yugoslavia reluctantly signed the military agreement providing for allied military government of Trieste, a note released by the state department disclosed today.

The note was handed to Richard C. Patterson Jr., American ambassador at Belgrade, by Foreign Minister Ivan Subasic of Yugoslavia when the agreement was signed Saturday.

The note made clear that Yugoslavia reserves all rights to claim the Trieste area and that she considers signing the agreement a sacrifice in the interests of peace.

Terms of the agreement include removal of all but a token force of Yugoslav troops beyond a line east of Trieste, leaving Field Marshal Alexander, allied Mediterranean commander, in control.

PATTON LIKENS ROUT OF NAZIS TO PRIZE FIGHT

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11 (AP)—A rugged fighting man and former boxer, Gen. Patton today compared the triumphant dash of his 3d army thru Germany with a prize fight.

"We had the Germans on their heels after our initial punch," said the general in an interview. "We just kept going and followed thru."

The 3d army moved fast, he asserted, because it was easier to use gasoline than ammunition.

Both Gen. Patton and Lt. Gen. Doolittle spent the day relaxing after a strenuous two day reception in Los Angeles and environs. Gen. Patton slept late.

"I arose at 8 o'clock," he said apologetically.

EX-POLICE CHIEF RUSSELL FILES DIVORCE ACTION

William F. Russell, 70, of 6500 Minerva av., commissioner of police during the prohibition era in Chicago, yesterday filed suit in Superior court for divorce against his wife, Mary J. Russell, 54.

The bill, filed by Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, charged cruelty. Last April 2, the suit charges, Mrs. Russell assaulted her husband with a butcher knife and his finger was cut when he tried to disarm her. On April 29, the suit continues, she knocked his glasses off his face and his denture out of his mouth, and then tried to step on the denture.

AUDITOR LUEDER BACKS BARRETT ON GRAVES CODE

BY ROBERT HOWARD

State Auditor Lueder said yesterday that he favors strict regulation of commercialized cemeteries and is for the proposed cemetery code regardless of who is to administer it.

"I'm for everything that is in the bill," Lueder said in an interview. "I'd like to see it enacted into law and I have no objections to the way in which George Barrett drafted it."

Lueder denied charges, made by Atty. Gen. Barrett Saturday, that he was insisting upon having administration of the cemetery code placed in the auditor's office, rather than in the attorney general, and had instructed his followers in the Illinois house to support such an amendment.

Supported by Governor

Gov. Green earlier had indorsed the cemetery code, which was drafted by Barrett in an attempt to curb "dishonest, racketeering cemetery operators" who allegedly have mishandled large sums of money invested by bereaved persons for the perpetual care of graves. Exempted from Barrett's code would be cemeteries owned by religious and fraternal bodies, by municipalities, and by families for private burial plots.

The lobby in opposition to the code is led by two Democrats, former Gov. John Stelle and United States District Atty. Howard L. Doyle of Springfield. Barrett charged that they were attempting to kill the code by supporting an amendment to switch control of perpetual care funds to the auditor. The bill is before the Illinois house of representatives.

Barrett served notice Saturday that to him the important thing is adoption of the code and that, to that end, he would agree if an amendment switches administration to the auditor.

Points to His Stand in 1943

"If Barrett can get the bill without an amendment, it is all right with me," Lueder said. "I'm in favor of the regulation of cemeteries and of perpetual care funds. Proof of that is that I supported a similar bill in the 1943 legislative session."

Lueder said that he had told his legislative followers, including Republican Representatives Granata and Adduci, that if an amendment for control by the auditor is introduced he would appreciate a chance to look it over. The auditor said, however, that he didn't intend to delay the bill in any way during the closing three weeks of the legislative session.

48,000,000 SHELLS HURLED AT NAZIS BY U. S. ARMIES

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 11 (AP)—The fantastic fire power of United States troops was underscored today with army disclosure that American forces fired more than 1 billion rounds of small arms ammunition and 48,322,539 artillery shells at the Germans in 11 months.

American combat troops also hurled 4,853,888 hand grenades in fighting on the western front from the hedgerows of Normandy into the reich between D-day and V-E day.

Maj. Gen. Henry B. Saylor, chief ordnance officer in the European theater, said machine gunners fired 497,707,000 rounds, while soldiers poured out 439,281,000 rounds from rifles and carbines. An additional 97,369,000 rounds were used in pistols and other automatic and semi-automatic weapons.

TRUMAN ASKS ARMY BUDGET OF 39 BILLIONS

Represents 25% Cut Over Present Program

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—A war department military budget of $39,019,790,474 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 was requested today by President Truman. The amount recommended for the coming year is 25 per cent smaller than the program for the current fiscal year, which is estimated to total 52 billion 600 million.

The military budget transmitted to congress today also is smaller than the preliminary estimate of 45½ billion which was included in the over-all national budget submitted by the late President Roosevelt last January. The financing of the military program in the coming year will require new appropriations of $21,963,093,400, the reappropriation of unobligated balances from previous appropriations totaling $8,818,915,574, and estimated recoveries due to contract modifications and terminations of $8,238,501,500.

Obligations for military pay in the coming fiscal year will increase 3 per cent, principally because of mustering-out pay. Subsistence will decrease 6 per cent, and the obligations for all other items will be 37.5 per cent less than in the current year.

Estimate of Obligations

A summary of estimated war department obligations follows:

Pay and travel	$12,725,000,000
Subsistence	2,990,000,000
Clothing and equipage	1,640,000,000
General supplies	396,000,000
Transportation corps	1,785,000,000
Signal corps	1,695,000,000
Air forces	5,905,000,000
Medical department	395,000,000
Engineer service	3,341,000,000
Ordnance department	5,857,000,000
Chemical warfare service	765,000,000
Special service schools, departm'tal exp. and misc.	725,000,000
Total	$39,019,000,000

The estimates are based upon the operation and maintenance of an army to be reduced in strength from 8,320,000 on June 30 this year to 6,968,000 on June 30, 1946. The budget report said that in bringing about the reduction, 2,182,000 men will be discharged and approximately 1,000,000 will enter the army for the first time.

The budget not only covers the financing of the war against Japan thruout the fiscal year, but provides funds for munitions and equipment to be delivered thru Dec. 31, 1946, the report said. Heavier types of aircraft are financed thru June, 1947. Included in the budget is about a billion dollars for military lend-lease and for relief of civilians in areas occupied by American forces.

Same as Budget Figure

The actual cash expenditures of the war department for the coming fiscal year also are estimated at 39 billion dollars, which approximately equals the estimated obligations. This is the first time during the war that cash outlays and obligations have been about the same since ordinarily obligations and contracts for munitions and equipment are larger than the amount of cash actually spent during the year for this purpose.

War Department Budget Facts

How proposed war department military budget of 39 billion dollars for fiscal year beginning July 1 would be spent.

General in London to Receive Honors

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower said tonight he believed "Russia, Britain, and the United States intend to make it impossible for Germany to wage war again." The general is here to receive the honorary freedom of London in ceremonies tomorrow.

Eisenhower said he knew of no plans for him to go to the Pacific war zone. "So far as I know," he said, "my job is right here in Europe."

The supreme allied commander declared at a press conference that he thought Germany never would return to what was considered normal before the war.

"There is no question in my mind that there are many Germans who want to be friendly," Eisenhower said. "They should have wanted to be friendly before. Our experience has been that the German is arrogant in victory and very polite in defeat."

Friendly to Children

Declaring that the nonfraternization rule was working reasonably well, Eisenhower said: "I have already published one order relaxing the rule a little. Nonfraternization does not now apply to young children. Neither the GI nor the Tommy will abstain from being friendly to children."

Eisenhower said the favorite question in Germany was whether Hitler was dead or alive, and he said he was surprised to find that some of his Russian friends were doubtful of the Nazi leader's death.

"I know this," Eisenhower declared, "if Hitler is not dead he is suffering more than if he were, because he will be hunted for life and will be fearful every minute that he is going to be caught."

Of the damage to Berlin, Eisenhower said "I have seen many great engineering jobs during the war—such as the clearing of the port of Cherbourg—but I just wouldn't know where to begin to rebuild Berlin."

Zhukov a "Grand Soldier"

Eisenhower called Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, commander of the Russian occupation forces in Germany, "a grand soldier."

All the pomp and ceremony of the ancient walled city of London will be revived at the ceremonies honoring Eisenhower. A sword used by the Duke of Wellington at Waterloo in beating Napoleon is being lent by a museum for the presentation.

REPORT GERMANS STARVED BABIES OF SLAVE WOMEN

IN GERMANY, June 10 [Delayed]—(AP)—Evidence was found today that the Nazis starved to death the new-born babies of Russian and Polish women slave laborers in the reich.

In the factory town of Fallersleben, American army medical men found German records and got testimony from local residents showing that in that area alone 350 infants died in a nursery that was really operated as a house of death.

The children, taken from their mothers a few days after birth, were left unattended until they died, the evidence showed. Their bodies were then tied in bundles and wrapped in paper, and handed over to a German farmer who got 25 cents apiece for burying them in mass graves.

JOINT RECALL OF TROOPS FROM SYRIA PROPOSED

BY CLAY GOWRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BEIRUT [Beyrouth], Lebanon, June 11.—Edward Grigg, British resident minister in the middle east, recommended strongly this morning that both French and British combatant troops be withdrawn simultaneously from the Levant states before opening of the proposed London conference to decide the future of Syria and Lebanon. Grigg said the British government is willing to withdraw immediately if the French agree.

[The Associated Press quoted authorized quarters in Paris as saying that more notes had been exchanged between France and Britain as a result of further attacks on French civilians and soldiers by Syrians, and the situation was described as "worse instead of better."]

Grigg also made the following points:

1. Britain is eager for the United States to participate in the coming conference because her presence will aid in counteracting the French claim that England is attempting to supplant France in the Levant states.

2. England desires the coming conference to be limited to representatives from the United States, France, Britain, and the Levant states altho the Syrian and Lebanese governments are reported to feel they would get a more sympathetic attitude if Russia and China were included. Grigg stated their presence would complicate the problem.

3. England is opposed to the French proposal that the coming conference deal with the entire middle east problem. If France refuses to take part in the conference dealing with the Levant alone, Grigg said, it is possible other interested nations might begin discussions without hoping to draw the French in during the conference.

Gen. Oliva-Roget Back.

Shortly before Grigg's meeting with correspondents this morning, it was revealed that Gen. Fernand Oliva-Roget, commander of French forces in Damascus until British intervention there, arrived suddenly and secretly at Beirut last night after a flight from Paris. There was no explanation for the return of the general who was relieved of his command at the request of Gen. Sir Bernard Paget, British middle east commander.

Grigg said Oliva-Roget's declaration that British agents formented the Syrian crisis and that the British army had reënforced its Levant strength just before the outbreak was absolutely false.

Oliva-Roget's declaration that order had been established before intervention of British troops is "the most astonishing of his illusions," Grigg said.

Grigg said with tempers of the local people strained by the recent savagery in Syria the British are afraid further shooting incidents will occur either in Syria or Lebanon and the best way to prevent them would be to withdraw both armies and leave the peoples to control themselves.

Observers are convinced something of the sort must be done. Every day a new irritation crops up. Lebanon is becoming incensed because of the present location of French forces which have been withdrawn from Syria. To top this, almost daily provocative statements by French authorities here and in France are adding fuel to the flame.

WEDDING TWICE DELAYED BY WAR, ACE TAKES BRIDE

Prairie du Chien, Wis., June 11 [Special]—Romance twice frustrated by war won out today as Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, 26, ranking ace of the United States 8th air force in Europe, was married to Kay Cochran, 21, whom he met in Hawaii before the war.

Their first wedding plans went up in the smoke of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and their second wedding date was delayed when Gabreski was captured by the Germans last July on what was to have been his final sortie over Germany before coming home on leave.

The marriage was solemnized in the Our Lady of Angels' chapel of the Campion Jesuit academy here, and was followed by a wedding breakfast in the Hotel San for 60 friends and relatives. The couple will leave tonight for Washington, D. C., where Gabreski must report to the war department Friday.

Tank Disabled, Iowa Yank Routs Japs with Rocks

OKINAWA, June 11 (AP)—Pvt. Norance A. Reyerson, Norwood, Ia., threw the rocks from a ditch beside his disabled tank and, he said, "I'll be cooked if those Japs didn't turn and run."

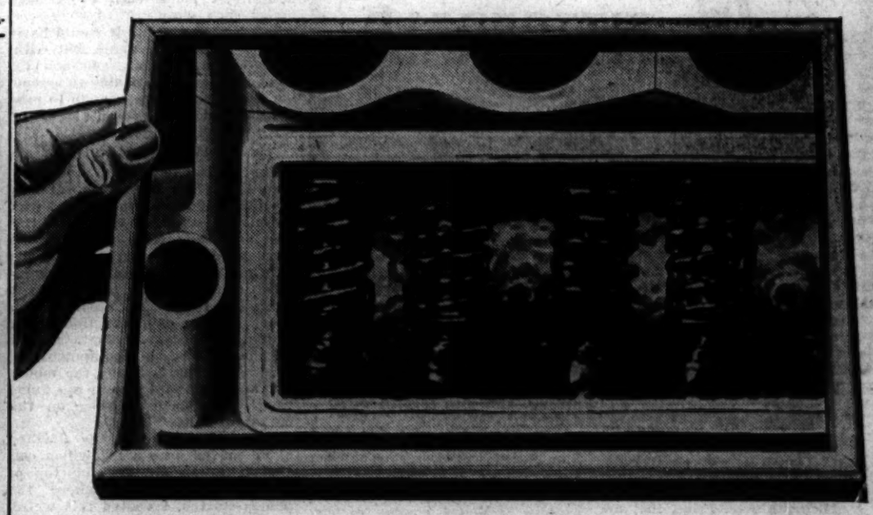
It may cost you to look in this mirror

...and save you



SLUDGE—the gummy deposit you see in this mirror—forms inside car engines as a result of wartime driving conditions.

It fouls piston rings—gums up valves—chokes oil lines—ruins costly bearings. And now that more gas is being made available, permitting more normal driving, sludge will become doubly damaging.

Many a motorist has found out about sludge too late. The result: a repair bill of several hundred dollars—or a car consigned to the junk pile.

No car, today, can escape engine sludge. But your Packard dealer can quickly tell you, by means of a simple "Mirror Test" on the valve chamber of your engine, whether excessive sludge is strangling your engine and piling up trouble and expense for you in the months ahead.

If it is, he can eliminate this dangerous condition at very small cost. At the same time, he will check those two other hidden danger points—brakes and steering gear.

So drive in today. A check-up now may prevent a serious accident—and keep your car running until that distant day when you can buy a new one.

Ask the man who owns one . . . Keep this in mind, when new cars come back again: A wartime car-owner survey shows that Packard cars, among all those studied, have stood up better—required less frequent repairs—and Packard owners have spent less on service.

Does BORDERLINE ANEMIA* keep you dull and listless and rob you of fun in life?

Medical science warns that people with pale faces—People who lack energy and "go"—often are the victims of a blood deficiency.

WE all know men and women who seem perpetually dull and "down in the dumps"—who look pale, tired and unattractive—whose pep and enthusiasm appear to be reaching a low ebb.

Yes, and very often their listless, letdown condition results from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency. Medical records show that thousands and thousands of men—as many as 68% of women—have rundown, substandard blood . . . a Borderline Anemia!

You need rich, red blood—for energy, good looks

Your blood—and only your blood—supplies energy to every organ, muscle, fibre. Your blood builds and sustains your vigor and vitality. A deficiency in your blood—in which red cells are too small or not sufficiently rich and red—can sap your stamina, your pep . . . rob you of fun in life.

Borderline Anemia means a lower efficiency of the important, oxygen-carrying, energy-releasing red cells . . . the cells so essential to looking well and feeling fit. Borderline Anemia can be a direct cause of lack of color, reduced energy, vitality below par.

Build up your vigor by building up your blood

Don't let Borderline Anemia make you feel tired, look older than your age! Of course, such conditions may be due to other causes—so your doctor always ought to be consulted regularly. But in a Borderline Anemia build up your blood and your energy with Ironized Yeast Tablets.

Medical science says that more than half of us don't get our share of vital elements needed for red blood cells and energy. Ironized Yeast brings you these elements! It combats Borderline Anemia!* Ask for genuine Ironized Yeast Tablets.

ENERGY-BUILDING BLOOD
This is what the doctor sees when he looks at healthy, energy-building red blood through his microscope. Notice the big, plentiful red blood cells! You need good, red blood cells like this to carry oxygen and release energy and drive to every limb, muscle, tissue.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA
Thousands have blood like this—and never know it! Look at the puny size and the washed out appearance of these weak red cells! Blood like this can't carry enough oxygen to release the fullest energy you need—only sturdy red blood cells can give you full vigor!

GIRLS, BLUE SEA, GONDOLIERS—GIs FIND ALL IN LIDO

3 Day Pass Their Ticket to Dream World

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

VENICE, Italy, June 11—The fashionable Lido is now a place where allied soldiers on rest leave are made to feel they are civilians. The great luxury hotels, the world famous casino, and many of the villas on this little pleasure island in the Adriatic just off Venice have been taken over by American and British forces. Here thousands of officers and enlisted men on three to five day passes from their units all over Italy find out again what comfort and relaxation mean.

To reach the Lido the soldiers get aboard ducks [amphibious trucks]. These travel down the Grand canal [certainly the medieval doges never dreamed of such squat and serviceable transport plying Venetian waters] past old and lovely houses, under the classic bridges, near the edge of San Marco cathedral, and then across a brief stretch of the Adriatic.

Songs by Gondoliers

All along the route there are gondolas. The gondoliers wave gayly. A few break into Italian love songs but others have been well instructed in recent weeks and sing some strangely accented versions of such American ditties as "Pistol Packin' Mama" and "Mairzy Doats."

The Lido itself is reminiscent of Miami Beach. The eastern edge is of white sand and there are crowds lolling on it every day and diving and swimming in the warm and very blue sea. Most of the Americans have no difficulty finding feminine companionship for many shapely signorinas wander purposefully down to the beach.

Each soldier is assured of a comfortable bed with clean sheets in a hotel or villa. There is hot water from the taps. The American and British armies operate large messes with music during noon and evening meals. A few civilian restaurants are also in limits and their prices, while high, are not in the black market bracket of Rome.

Bars Well Supplied

There are well stocked bars in all the hotels and dancing every night. The vast casino on the beach front has been stripped of its gambling equipment and has been divided into billiard rooms, snack bars, and various Red Cross service compartments. A movie theater, which seats 1,200, gives nightly shows.

The American installation on the Lido is operated by Lt. Col. Carl F. Jensen of Kimball, S. D., and Maj. Don E. R. Beach-Comber, who owns the Beachcomber night spot at 101 E. Walton pl., Chicago. The major insists that Beach-Comber is his real name.

"Our job," said Col. Jensen, "is to make the soldiers forget while they are here that they were in a war. We try to give the enlisted man as good or even better facilities than officers.

"We operate tours and shopping expeditions from the Lido to Venice and we have two restaurants in the city where we serve nearly 3,000 meals a day. Ducks are the means of transportation for getting around but if a lad has a girl and moonlight nothing will take the place of a gondola."

Finds Midwesterners

Among midwesterners discovered taking their ease on the Lido were Sgt. Louis F. Bacakal, 9335 Eberhardt av., Chicago; 1st Lt. William Ingram, Paris, Ill.; Pvt. 1st Class Raymond Thompson, Lima, O., and 1st Lt. Fred B. Weaver, Davenport, Ia.

Perhaps the best touch of GI irreverence about Venice, which is called the bride of the Adriatic, came from Pvt. 1st Class Frank Kivior, Fall River, Mass. Kivior, bored with it all after a long stretch of military police duty near one of the canals, opined:

"If we had this burg back in the United States we would drain it and put in roads."

Swiss to Seize German Rail Lines in Switzerland

THE QUESTION

Of what accomplishment of yours are you most proud?

WHERE ASKED

Museum of Science and Industry.

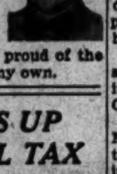
THE ANSWERS

Carl Kratzsch, abstracter, Warsaw, Ind.—It's easy to say that my greatest accomplishment and the one that I'm most proud of is winning my wife from her rival. We've been happily married for 30 years and I think it was a battle worth winning. I've been proud of myself for choosing her and proud of her for what she is.

Robert L. Lassin, vacationing, 6016 Stony Island av.—For two years, eight months and twenty-four days I was in Uncle Sam's army in Europe. I'm happy and proud and pleased that in that length of time I earned 110 points which enabled me to be discharged from the army. It's great to be wearing civilian clothes again.

Ernest Baumann, vacationing, St. Clair, Mich.—It seemed like eternity attending school enough to reach finally the day when I could say, "I'm thru high school." But just the other day it happened. I finished my senior year and at long last I've accomplished what I've dreamed of for four years. It is wonderful.

Don Smith, packing, St. Clair, Mich.—This is the thing I'm most proud of. I built a row boat that doesn't leak. Not only is it a boat that doesn't leak, but when other boats were tied up at the dock my little boat would weather the storms. I rigged up a small sail and it works like a charm. It was worth the work.



Joe Wise, gift mart attendant, 1642 E. 56th st.—This is the first job I've had, working here in the museum as the gift mart attendant. Before this I've always had to borrow money from my dad when I wanted to go to a movie or entertain a friend. I've overcome that necessity and I'm proud of the fact that now I'm on my own.

HOUSE DIGS UP ANTI-POLL TAX BILL FOR VOTE

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Over the protests of southerners, the house today wrested the anti-poll tax legislation from a committee pigeonhole and scheduled a vote on it tomorrow.

Under the measure it would be illegal to impose the levy as a requirement for voting for President, Vice President, or members of congress. It is required in Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

Today's action was on two roll call votes. On the first the house by a 223 to 95 count discharged the judiciary and rules committees of further responsibility for the measure, which had been bottled up in the former for months. On the second the house voted 219 to 94 to have the issue debated tomorrow.

SENATE ADOPTS 'COST PLUS' FOR FARM PRODUCTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—The senate tonight passed by a voice vote the office of price administration extension bill with an amendment placing the American farmer on a cost-plus basis. The measure, providing a one year extension of the OPA, now goes to the house.

The farm amendment, authored by Senators Wherry [R., Neb.] and Shipstead [R., Minn.], was adopted 37 to 30 without debate and was "frozen" in the bill thru a parliamentary maneuver engineered by Wherry and Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.] which prevented administration senators from forcing a reconsideration of the vote.

The amendment provides:

"It shall be unlawful to establish or maintain against the producers of any livestock, grain or other agricultural commodity a maximum price for such commodity which does not equal all costs and expenses [including all overhead expenses, a return on capital and an allowance for the labor of the producer and his family] incurred in the production of such commodity, plus a reasonable profit thereon."

Separate Price Margins

Earlier the senate had adopted, 36 to 31, an amendment offered by Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, providing for separate price margins to processors of each species of live stock, but directing the OPA to set prices on an industry-wide basis.

The senate defeated, 41 to 26, an amendment by Sen. Taft [R., O.] to force OPA to fix prices for all goods other than agricultural that would allow reasonable profits over costs, based on 1939 costs.

Administration spokesmen caught flat footed by the sudden passage of the Wherry-Shipstead amendment immediately attacked the measure as "inflationary."

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], who voted against the amendment, predicted "chaos and confusion as a result of substituting the cost-plus theory for the parity formula." Despite the fact the amendment was read to the senate and opportunity for debate was offered, Lucas told the senate, "Here we've passed it practically without a single soul knowing what we are doing." Sen Brooks [R., Ill.] voted for the amendment.

Enables Farmer to Get Costs

Wherry denied in an interview that the amendment substituted cost-plus for parity. "It can be called cost-plus," he said, "but it merely means that if parity prices don't meet costs, the OPA shall fix prices that enable the farmer to get his costs back."

One senator said the Wherry-Shipstead amendment reflected animosity felt by many members against OPA Administrator Bowles.

At one point in the debate Sen. Morse [R., Ore.] called on Bowles to resign "in the public interest" if it came to a question of "having your own way or resigning."

The senate defeated by a voice vote an amendment by Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] which would lift price and ration restrictions on all meat except pork products for 90 days. It adopted an amendment by Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] which would readjust cheese prices to meet all transportation costs.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by BEN MARKLAND

June 11, 1945

GARDENERS have been beratting the weatherman because of the cool, wet May weather which slowed the growth of vegetables, but farmers trying to produce field crops and raise poultry and live stock have a triple complaint against this year's spring weather.

When we were on the Fox river farm the other day the men were pointing out the many visible effects of the rainy, cool spring. Their home vegetable plots have developed slowly; field corn was slightly damaged by the early June frosts; chickens and turkeys on outdoor range have not gained weight at the usual spring pace, and the Hampshire pigs are below their normal weight schedule.

Spring Pigs Retarded

The farm manager blames the weather for the slow development of the spring pigs, which were farrowed between March 20 and April 15. When the temperatures were low, the pigs spent too much time in their houses instead of ranging thru their pastures, thus reducing their food consumption. In addition, the heavy rains caused deep water pools to form in their feed lots, and the pigs were drinking from these stagnant pools instead of from the troughs of fresh water provided for them.

The men corrected the pigs' watering habits by filling all of the mudholes. Four large truckloads of clay and gravel, totaling about 15 cubic yards, were hauled from a nearby pit for the filling job. Now the pigs are forced to drink the fresh water in the metal trough.

Ugly Duckling Twins

Two of the farm women are boasting about the salvage job they completed last week. This saving didn't involve waste fats, metal or paper, but wild mallard ducklings. Several weeks ago a farm truck was being driven thru a rye field near the Fox river. A mallard hen flushed ahead of the truck, which broke several of the bird's eggs. Knowing the hen wouldn't return to the nest after this frightening experience, the driver picked up six eggs which hadn't been crushed by the truck and turned them over to the farm women.

The women put the eggs under a Rhode Island Red hen and last week two of the six eggs hatched. Now it's difficult to tell if the chicken hen or the two women are more proud of the two fuzzy brown ducklings which are waddling around the yard.

★The GARDEN★

MOST varieties of leaf and head lettuce thrive if planted in April or early May for summer use, but do not produce yields high in quality or quantity if planted in June or July. Black Seeded Simpson leaf lettuce planted these two months, to mature during the heat of midsummer, has poor texture and comparatively bitter taste. The only variety of leaf lettuce recommended for June and July planting in this area is Oak Leaf, a 40-day type which tolerates summer heat.

Head lettuce planted in June and July rarely matures satisfactorily. The common tendency in hot weather plantings of head lettuce is to send up a seed stalk before the heads have started to form. Such varieties as Great Lakes, Bibb, and New York can be planted after Aug. 1 to mature during the cooler weather of late summer.

Gardeners who like the flavor of Bibb head lettuce may plant this variety this week if they want to use the young plants in leaf form. Bibb sends up an early seed stalk, however, and seed planted now will rarely provide mature heads.

DANIELS FIGHTS DRAFT IN PEACE; URGES BIG NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—Denouncing compulsory peace time military trajning as "un-American," Josephus Daniels, navy secretary during World War I., today advocated post-war preparedness thru a gigantic volunteer navy with a strong air arm.

Daniels told the house committee on post-war military policy that this nation's peace time forces should be built by voluntary enlistments instead of conscription.

He said adequate volunteers can be obtained by overhauling and democratizing the military services. As incentives to volunteers he proposed offering adequate pay and education and opportunities for promotion.

"The call is not for compulsory service—as un-American as nazism or fascism—but the practice of that American democracy in the military branches which prevails in civilian life," he said. "The first step is the promotion of capable privates to officer rank and the utter exclusion of that snobbery which sometimes creates a schism between the officers and enlisted men."

He said the first step in preparedness is to discard "archaic drilling," turn cavalry horses to plowing, and do away with out-of-date weapons and tactics.

FOREIGN OUTLAY FOR WOOING U. S. TOPS 13 MILLION

Britain Heaviest Spender; Poland Second

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11—Foreign propaganda agents spent more than 13 million dollars in seeking to mold American opinion in the period from June 28, 1942, to Dec. 31, 1944, Atty. Gen. Biddle reported to congress today.

Almost half this sum was spent by Great Britain, which has the most effective propaganda machine operating in this country, according to accomplishments listed in Biddle's 560 page report.

Propaganda increased rather than decreased as victory neared in Europe and the foreign ballyhoo was concentrated on securing the greatest peace time prize in the history of the world—40 billion dollars' worth of credits the foreign powers are seeking from this country for post-war industrial and commercial rehabilitation.

Poland Second in List

The foreign propaganda units spent nearly 5½ million dollars in 1944 and Britain spent almost half that sum, the department of justice estimates revealed. The activities of the propagandizers have been stepped up in recent months.

Poland was the second biggest spender among the nations propagandizing in this country, with a total of almost 1½ million dollars in the period covered by the report. The Netherlands spent almost as much as Poland. Other large spenders included Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Norway, and France.

Soviet Russia's expenditures were not disclosed. The soviet union, the report explained, does not maintain an official information agency in this country. The soviet embassy prints and circulates a bulletin and much soviet propaganda is sent directly by mail or cable from Moscow.

Estimates Termed Low

Commercial agencies alone are listed by Russia under the foreign agents' registration act. These sold various propaganda items and material totaling $254,000 in 1942, $316,000 in 1943, and $297,000 in 1944, or $849,000 in all.

The justice department's estimates on propaganda expenditures in this country were considered low in congressional circles. It had been estimated that the British information service alone was spending upwards of 20 million dollars a year.

The report listed 506 registrations. Of these, 227 were of organizations and 281 of individuals. The most important of the organizations are the 18 official information centers maintained by foreign governments in this country.

Provide Speakers

The report listed the activities of the propaganda agents and organizations as given in their registrations. The activities of the propagandists in molding American opinion include stuffing mail boxes with books, pamphlets, and circulars; providing speakers for various meetings; preparing radio programs, and providing data for radio broadcasters, newspapers, and lecturers.

The registration report of the British information service showed that the New York division in a 12 month period released 250,000 copies of 1,113 press releases. The service has branches in Washington, Chicago, and San Francisco which pour out lesser, but impressive, floods of releases.

Issues War Review

The New York magazine and editorial section placed 1,285 articles in American magazines, including the Saturday Evening Post, the New York Times, Popular Science, Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, Shipyard Worker, Brewery Worker, Farmers' Union Herald, Breeder's Gazette, Our Dumb Animals, and Heroic Comics.

The military affairs section distributed to 188 commentators and government officials a daily war review by Gen. H. S. Sewell. The photographic section loaned 6,000 British prints to newspapers and magazines and 1,000 to the government.

The radio section of the New York office issued more than 35,000 copies of 241 press releases and 252 script releases. The New York film division reported 17 feature films were run in an average of 3,100 theaters. The most popular film, "Desert Victory," was shown in 9,552 theaters.

The New York speakers' section reported securing 3,000 engagements in a 12 month period before Rotary clubs, American Legion units, war plant workers, war bond rallies, conventions, and the like.

The New York dispatch section distributed over 4 million copies of British publications and pamphlets ranging from "Catholics of Britain at War" to "His Majesty's Ships."

PHONE WORKERS OPPOSE EQUAL RIGHTS MEASURE

The National Federation of Telephone Workers, representing 250,000 employes in the telephone industry, opened its 11th convention yesterday in Chicago.

Altho 60 per cent of the membership is composed of women workers, the opening meeting voted opposition to the so-called equal rights amendment now being considered by the United States senate, because "it would jeopardize or invalidate protective laws for women now on statute books or which might be enacted in the future."

Officers of the national union, which is independent, are J. A. Beirne, president; J. M. Moran, vice president; C. W. Werkau, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Frances V. Smith and Mrs. Ione Trice, members at large. The convention will continue thru the week.

Leroy Chestnut, 50, Negro, of 5817 Prairie av., suffered a fatal heart attack while walking in the street in front of 77 W. Washington st. yesterday.

MURDER VICTIM TERMED 'BROKE' BEFORE HE WED

New York, June 11 [Special]—Albert E. Langford, 63, whose murder on Park av. has remained unsolved for a week, was nearly "stone broke" and was being supported by another woman just before he was married to wealthy and elderly Mrs. Marion Grimes in 1942, an Indian oil promoter, "Chief" Robert Redwing, asserted today.

Redwing, who said he was once an investigator for the district attorney's office in Los Angeles, Cal., came here from Washington, D. C., to tell his story about Langford's marriage.

Redwing's name had been brought into the case by Reed Lawton, operetta singer and formerly one of Mrs. Langford's proteges, who said the Langfords' marriage was promoted by a "Baroness" Beatrice Coleman and Redwing, and Langford had reneged on a promise to pay them $25,000. Redwing said Mrs. Coleman had helped support Langford.

Redwing denied ever having heard Mrs. Coleman say that Langford had agreed to pay her $25,000 to promote his marriage but she said she told him she expected Langford to help her financially. The Indian said Langford promised that if he married the utility heiress he would see that Redwing got one of her undeveloped oil leases.

Redwing was taken to a midtown station tonight for questioning by homicide squad members.

WMC EMPLOYE DROPS TEAR GAS BOMB IN OFFICE

Accidental explosion of a tear gas bomb yesterday brought tears to the eyes of more than 100 clients and 18 clerks in the war man power commission office at 56 E. 110th st. The bomb exploded when one of the clerks, whose name was not disclosed, dropped it as he was tossing it into the air and catching it. The atmosphere finally was cleared when clerks succeeded in opening windows of the second floor office.

FOSTER ASSAILS BROWDER AS RED PARTY BETRAYER

New York, June 11 [Special]—Repudiated by Communists here and abroad and by his own national board for dissolving the American Communist party last year to aid the Roosevelt 4th term campaign, Earl Browder, leader of American Communists, was berated yesterday in his own newspaper, "The Daily Worker," by his Communist comrade, William Z. Foster.

Foster, in four columns of invective, accused Browder of betraying both the working class and the Communist movement into the hands of reactionary capitalists thru a policy of "revisionism" of Marxist dogma. Browder in a companion piece, credited the Communists with a major role in the reelection of the late Mr. Roosevelt.

Foster Backs Moscow

Foster has been a leader of the element in the Communist party which has been denouncing Browder's asserted truce in the class struggle. This is in accordance with the new line laid down by Jacques DuClos, French Communist leader, after consultation with Communist leaders in Moscow.

Foster said the effects of the course followed by Browder have been "to throw the worker under the reactionary influence of the big capitalists and blunt their progressive and revolutionary initiative."

Failed to Criticise F. D. R.

"We made the mistake under Browder's influence of failing to criticize many errors and shortcomings of the Roosevelt administration," Foster said. As one of these he listed "our recent defense of the appointment of Stettinius, a reactionary, as secretary of state."

Foster assailed Browder's book, "Tehran; Our Path in War and Peace," a volume which for the past year has served the American Communists as a bible.

The Foster article charged Browder with abandoning "all criticism of capitalism as a system of exploitation of the workers."

REP. RANKIN URGES TRUMAN TO PURGE TRAITORS AND REDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] called on President Truman today to purge "traitors" and Communist sympathizers from the government and replace them with real Americans.

"He should not only clean out those traitors in the state department who have been stealing secret documents for foreign governments and giving our government secrets to Drew Pearson and Walter Winchell; he should clean such elements out of all other branches of the government, and put a stop to the war department's commissioning of subversive individuals into the United States army."

Rankin said "somebody in the state department, in the war department, and even around the White House" has been giving secret information to Pearson and Winchell for broadcasts "regardless of its cost in the lives of American boys on the various fighting fronts."

CHARGE ILLEGAL ACTION BY NWLB AT DONNELLEY'S

Officials of the Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' union yesterday branded the action of the national war labor board in ordering striking workers at the R. R. Donnelley & Sons plant to end their strike or appear before the NWLB as "illegal usurpation of authority."

Ernest R. Ballard, attorney for the printing company, and representatives of Time, Life, and Readers Digest magazines and army and navy officials interested in keeping periodicals printed at Donnelley's going to service men, appeared before the NWLB at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, the appointed hour, but the union defied the order.

"Surely the union was at least entitled to a prior opportunity to be heard," stated Joseph M. Jacobs, attorney for the pressmen, in a telegram to George W. Taylor, chairman of the national WLB. "You have by-passed and ignored the [United States] conciliation service in your action and your action is therefore invalid."

Citizenship Pleas of 28 Taken Under Advisement

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday took under advisement until Sept. 24 citizenship petitions of 28 former members of the German-American National alliance. Atty. Dewey Hutchison of the immigration department said his office recommended that they be admitted to citizenship. Judge Barnes delayed action so he can study federal bureau of investigation reports on the individuals and the organization.

Don't fool yourself! Can more than ever this year

THE WAR is going well.

But you're only fooling yourself if you think that means a plentiful food supply for next fall and winter.

If you decide not to do any canning this year, you're going to regret it—as sure as the Lord made little green apples.

You'll regret it for your family's sake. And for patriotic reasons.

Your government is counting on you to provide more than half the home supply of canned fruits and vegetables this year.

And we—at Good Housekeeping—are ready to help you do that canning—by investigating, analyzing, and checking methods; by studying sugar-saving ingredients; by warning you of possible dangers and telling you how to overcome them.

For we consider it our business to think first, last, and always of your interest.

To save precious sugar

With sugar at a premium, methods have been developed to put up fruit with sugar-and-corn syrup mixtures.

In typical Good Housekeeping fashion, we have checked all such methods and we shall tell you about them in the pages of our magazine this summer.

We can jars and jars of food each season, to be sure that the jars and caps we recommend are satisfactory for your use.

We've put up raspberries, blackberries, cherries, peaches, pears, plums, and apple sauce.

We prepared them with sugar, and with sugar-and-corn syrup.

This is the way our kitchens go to work before we offer you any advice on canning, pickling, preserving, freezing, or storing food.

And only after members of our Taste Squad like the finished products, do we tell you about them. Because food won't provide nourishment unless you can get your family to eat it.

to guard your safety

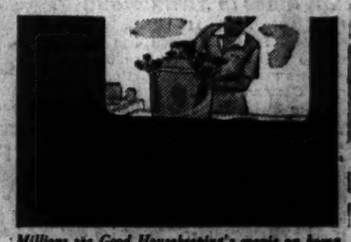
Since 1925, Good Housekeeping has consistently warned its readers of the dangers of botulinus food poisoning.

Because there are so many new home canners, we have made it a point to stress the dangers of botulinus poisoning the past few years.

We have repeatedly told our readers that all low-acid vegetables—and that means all vegetables except tomatoes—should be canned by pressure canner only.

Also, since oven canning has led to frequent explosions and serious accidents, we will not accept advertisements which recommend this method.

We refuse to print anything—whether it's in an advertisement or on our editorial pages—which might jeopardize your safety.



Millions see Good Housekeeping's movie on home canning, through the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Office of War Information, factories, department stores, and clubs.

For our desire to offer you sound, helpful information is coupled with an equally strong desire to protect you against that which might prove harmful.

These twin aims we fuse in a pledge—a pledge we repeat to you now:

That at no time, and not for any reason, or any profit, will any page of Good Housekeeping—editorial or advertising—trade unfairly on your trust.

How to can cherries with less sugar

This recipe shows how you'll be able to save sugar in all your fruit canning this summer. Different fruits require different proportions of sugar and corn syrup. See Good Housekeeping later this summer for further recipes.

BING CHERRIES

For 16 quarts fresh Bing Cherries, prepare sugar-saving syrup by boiling together:
2½ c. white or dark corn syrup
4½ c. water 4 c. sugar

Wash cherries and drain on towels. Leave pits in. Pack into clean, hot jars and cover with hot syrup to within ½ inch of top. Seal immediately, according to manufacturer's directions. Process 20 min. in boiling-water bath canner—counting the time after the water starts to boil. Makes 8 quarts canned cherries.

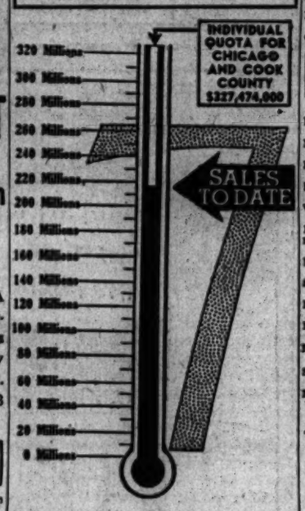
War Bond Sales



FLAG DAY THIS THURSDAY IS 'B' DAY: BUY BONDS

Pay Roll Saving Group to Stage Program

Thursday, Flag day, also will be "B," or bond day, at the treasury center at State and Madison sts. The pay roll savings division of the mighty 7th war loan drive will take over the noon program in behalf of plants operating under the pay roll allotment plan.

George Huth, chairman of the pay roll savings division of the Chicago and Cook county war finance committee, emphasized in the preliminary canvass of the plants that employes will have an opportunity to become charter members of the Dad to G I Joe club.

Three events in the loop yesterday promoted the sale of war securities to individuals. The army ordnance district paraded armored equipment, including Gen. Sherman, Gen. Pershing, and light tanks, down State st. Several Harrison Technical High school girls appeared as comic strip characters at the "Quartermasters at War" tent at State and Randolph sts. at noon to sell bonds. Miss Annette Louie, 2302 Wentworth av., attired as Miss Hu Shee of the Terry strip in THE TRIBUNE, was one of the saleswomen. Another parade in State st. was that last night of the 1st, 2d, and 8th regiments of the 1st brigade of the Illinois reserve militia led by Brig. Gen. George J. May, commander. About 170 scout and command cars, cargo trucks, and three militia bands paraded.

ACCEPTS MEDAL, ASKS OTHER SON BE SENT HOME

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—A weeping mother today received the congressional medal one of her two sons won at the cost of his life and asked Navy Secretary Forrestal to return home the other son—"all I have."

The medal, conferred posthumously on Marine Corp. Lewis K. Bausell, 20, was presented to his mother, Mrs. Lawrence K. Bausell of Washington, at a ceremony in Forrestal's office. Bausell was awarded the nation's highest decoration for saving the lives of his comrades by falling upon a Japanese grenade and saving other members of his squad during the battle for Peleliu last Sept. 15.

Drying her eyes with a handkerchief, Mrs. Bausell blurted out her appeal for return from the Pacific of her only surviving son, Charles William, a boatswain's mate 1st class. The mother said he had been away for four years, with only one 30 day furlough. Forrestal quickly assured her that the navy was "looking into" the possibility of bringing the boy home.

LT. H. L. DERBY, 38, HIGHLAND PARK, DIES IN PACIFIC

LT. H. LEIGH DERBY JR., 38, of Highland Park, former western manager of American Cyanamid and Chemical corporation, has been killed in action in the Pacific, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Derby of Montclair, N. J., have been advised by the navy department. The elder Derby is president of the cyanamid corporation. Lt. Derby entered the navy in December, 1942. He also is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Katherine Derby, and two children, Lynn and Ann, now in Dayton, O.

PVT. ROBERT JOHN MUELLER, 20, of the army engineers, was killed in action April 10 on Luzon, his mother, Mrs. Margaret Mueller, 1446 Grace St., has been notified. He also is survived by two brothers, Pvt. Arthur in Germany, and Charles. Memorial mass will be held at noon Sunday in St. Andrew's church, Paulina and Addison sts.

Striking B-29 Engine Workers Back on Jobs

Employes in the forge division of the Dodge Chicago plant, where engines for B-29 Super Fortresses are made, returned to work yesterday. They struck May 28. They voted to end the strike at a meeting Friday, when the war labor board promised to rehear in Detroit, Mich., the issues that caused the walkout. The strike was the 178th in the plant since May 2, 1944.

AVERT STRIKE OF GAS WORKERS BY ARBITRATION

A threatened strike of 1,300 production and maintenance employes of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company was averted yesterday when company and union officials agreed in a meeting before the regional war labor board to allow the board to arbitrate the disputed issues. Both sides agreed to present all the disputed issues except wages to the board for a decision. The wage issue will be negotiated until an agreement is reached. If not settled, it also will be submitted to the WLB, Leo Kotin, assistant disputes director of the regional board, announced.

Loses in Court

MRS. HELEN FLECK

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday refused to set aside a divorce obtained Aug. 27, 1944, by Pvt. Robert Fleck, 28, of 3110 Waveland av., who won the Purple Heart in Europe. The court dismissed a petition to set aside the decree, filed by Fleck's former wife, Helen, 23, 3435 N. Elaine pl., whom he had charged with adultery. She contended that she had not been given proper notification of the divorce action. Atty. Frank B. Teed, representing the soldier, introduced a stenographic record of the proceedings which showed that Mrs. Fleck was represented by counsel and had made no request for a continuance to permit further contest of the divorce. Fleck was awarded custody of the couple's son, James, 3.

Trial of Two in $2,000,000 Vault Looting Is Delayed

Because their attorneys are engaged in another case, the trial of Willie Niemoth and Llewellyn Morgan for the 2 million dollar looting of the safety deposit vault of the E. H. Rumbold Real Estate company, 624 W. 119th st., was placed on call yesterday by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court. The trial had been scheduled for yesterday. Two other defendants, Thomas Leahy and Michael Kosar, are expected to testify for the state.

LIQUOR CONTROL HEAD FAVORS REGULATION BILL

BY JAMES DOHERTY

Charles J. Fleck, chairman of the Illinois liquor control commission, left last night for Springfield to be present when legislative consideration is given to a proposed fair trade practice act for the liquor industry. Fleck said he favors the act, which contains price regulation features, because it would give the liquor commission power to end the tie-in practice about which Chicago tavernkeepers have made many complaints.

Hear Many Complaints

Fleck, with Commissioner William J. Hughes and Secretary William J. Devine, have been listening to complaints for a considerable time, he declared. The present powers of the commission are inadequate, Fleck asserted.

One bill introduced by Rep. Peter C. Granata [R., 17th] has his approval, Fleck said. He pointed to an article in the bill by Max Loeb, chief investigator for the commission, who unearthed much of the material concerning tie-in sales forced on the tavernkeepers.

Individual Prices

On the point the bill reads:

"Prices must be individual for each item, not in combination with another item, or items." It also provides that "All items of alcoholic liquor, both sold at wholesale and retail within a state, must be sold under minimum resale price contracts."

Under the bill all liquor dealers would be compelled to post the prices they would put on each brand of liquor, and to stick to those prices for a stated period, probably 30 days. It is the expectation of the industry that this system would eliminate ruinous price wars, Fleck said.

PLEADS GUILTY TO UNIFORM CHARGE

Glenn H. Dutton, 44, of 2636 N. Clark st., former civilian instructor for the army air forces at Maxwell field, Ala., entered a plea of guilty before federal Judge F. Barnes yesterday to illegal wearing of a uniform of a lieutenant colonel.

THE ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Rep. Reed of New York, the chairman of the house Republicans' tax study committee, has called for immediate congressional action on post-war tax policy to spur individual enterprise. Obviously, the key to a healthy governmental structure and to the business activity that alone can furnish jobs above the WPA level is a balanced federal budget and a settled federal tax policy. The balanced budget will probably have to wait until the abnormal drain of war expenditures ceases. Tax policy can be established now.

This Mr. Reed recognizes in his recommendations. He urges immediate action on "the first steps in tax reduction so that it is a clear disclosure of the official path which will be followed." It may be noted that this does not conflict with President Truman's recent statement that, in his belief, tax reduction should wait for the end of the Japanese war. It does mean, if adopted, that business men may look ahead, know what their tax burden is going to be under given circumstances, and make their plans accordingly.

Uncertainty over tax policy has become almost as great a burden as the load of the taxes themselves. Tax bills in recent years often have not been passed by congress until the year in which the taxes are to apply was half gone. In recent years the effect of taxation upon a business venture has, as often as not, been given greater consideration than the odds for or against the commercial success of the venture.

All of the circumstances are present in the country for an era of prosperity except the certainty of making a profit, which alone can tempt capital into new ventures. There is an unfilled market for both consumer and capital goods such as the country has never had before and savings to pay for those goods such as it has never accumulated in the past. But no man in his right senses is going to attempt to fill those wants if an uncertain tax policy threatens him with losses even tho his manufacturing policies are sound and his sales efforts successful.

If industry is to turn to new products and open new plants and sales agencies, it must be told in advance what its taxes are to be and when it can expect the abolition of the excessive war time levies that are absolutely stifling to enterprise.

There is a law of diminishing returns in taxes. An immense revenue will be necessary to finance the operations of the government, even if economically conducted. There are two ways of getting that revenue. One is the suicidal method of pushing up tax rates, which will result in less and less profits to be taxed, and correspondingly less revenue. The other is the same method of reducing tax rates in order that business can earn something to be taxed.

A sound revenue system is one essential of the balanced budget. The other essential is a sound policy of expenditure. This Mr. Reed proposes, in his call for congressional refusal to undertake new forms of spending and to apply the pruning knife constantly in existing fields.

No one can expect that the federal budget after this war can be reduced even to the proportions of the wasteful New Deal budgets of the eight years before the war. Two items alone, the servicing of the federal debt and national defense, including the care of veterans, will probably demand greater appropriations than all of those provided by the Roosevelt budgets before 1940. Under these necessities, the only hope of governmental solvency lies in eliminating the nonessential activities.

This will be a difficult task. Governmental history shows that it takes at least 10 times as much effort to abolish a given bureau as it did to establish it. The burocrats have a vested interest. Congress is all too frequently influenced by the patronage offered by the bureau. Special interests have been created which will lobby furiously to retain the benefits which the bureau in question has given them at the expense of the general taxpayer.

There is the further psychological handicap that with a large budget, such as the debt and defense will make necessary, individual items of waste will not bulk so large. Nevertheless, the waste of a million dollars hurts the taxpayers just as much whether it is wasted in a 10 billion dollar budget or a 2 billion dollar budget. Much of the economy must be accomplished by whittling rather than with an ax. Opportunities for bold strokes, saving billions, such as preventing the folly of Bretton Woods and scotching the various proposals to have American taxpayers rebuild the rest of the world, are, after all, limited.

The unspectacular opportunities to get rid of a payroller here and bring an agency back into line there are virtually unlimited. It is only by constantly utilizing these opportunities, and meanwhile taking a firm stand against all the grandiose folly of public spending as a means of making jobs, that congress can restore the country to financial sanity.

The balanced budget should be the nation's number one post-war program. If it is not achieved, all of the objectives for which this war has been fought will be lost. Republican government cannot survive bankruptcy. That is when the dictator always steps in.

COMMUNISM AS SCIENCE

Twelve of the 13 members of the national board of the Communist Political association have voted a resolution stating that a mistake was made a year ago when the Communist party was dissolved. The lone dissent was registered by Earl Browder, the president of the association, who was responsible for dissolving the party. He had taken that step after the Communist International in Moscow, which had supervision of the party movement abroad, decreed its own dissolution.

Browder was notified by a circuitous method that he had been wrong in thinking that the class struggle could be abandoned and a modus vivendi established between the revolutionary movement and bourgeois capitalism. Jacques Duclos, secretary of the French Communist party, upon his recent return from a trip to Moscow, published an article accusing Browder of deviation from the proper Marxian line. Browder republished it in the Daily Worker with a humble editorial preface saying it deserved respectful attention.

Browder's Marxist associates in this country now complete his humiliation with the accusation that he has betrayed the revolutionary cause. Even for communist circles, the situation is astonishing. In Russia a heresy of this sort would inevitably mean the party member's liquidation. How could a man chosen for his position of leadership because of his knowledge of communist dialectics and his skill in expounding and applying them have been led into such gross error?

The Communists have always contended that theirs was not a political creed but an exact science. The Marxian theory of history is that the evolution of society is conditioned by the economic circumstances of its existence. All human behavior is logically predictable from observed facts. Anybody who has learned the formula can arrive at the correct answer.

Browder is certainly as well informed about the theory as Duclos or even Stalin. If communism were in truth a scientific system, Browder could not possibly find himself at issue with Duclos, Stalin, or his fellow revolutionists in America. There would be only one choice of action for all. But the quarrel does exist, and the fact of its existence can only lead to the conclusion that the conception of communism as a science is false.

Indeed, this is proved beyond cavil by the fact that the accusation against Browder is that he has deviated from the party line. Any one who has examined the astonishing zigzags and volte-faces of the party line will be forced to conclude that there is nothing scientific in these gyrations. The expediency and opportunism of the moment dictate the bewildering succession of changes in direction.

Far from betraying Marxism, Browder has been betrayed by it. If there was any scientific inevitability about the textbook revolution laid down in "Das Kapital," there would be no necessity for a party line. If there were no party line, there would be no such humiliation as Browder is now suffering. It is all very sad, comrades.

THE PRISONERS

Supreme headquarters in Paris announces that our government intends to hold 600,000 German prisoners for an indefinite period for use as laborers, presumably in Europe. Nearly a quarter of a million others among our captives are to be turned over to the French for labor in France. Another 160,000 are being handed to the British. The rest, except for suspected war criminals, will be released over a period of nine months.

In other words, of the 2,900,000 prisoners taken by the American armies, about a million are to be kept in bondage for an indefinite term. The vast majority of them, of course, will be enlisted men from the rank and file of the German army.

The plan ought to be reconsidered without delay because for all practical purposes it puts the United States government in the slave business. Quibblers will say that this isn't slavery. All that need be said in reply is to quote the words of the 13th amendment. When the people of this country decided to abolish slavery, they forbade "involuntary servitude except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted."

Nobody pretends that more than a few thousand among the million prisoners will have been found guilty of crimes. The rest of them will be held to forced labor for no better reason than that we have them at our mercy and it will suit our [and our allies'] convenience to make them serve us. The fact that the slaves will be paid a pittance, under the terms of the Geneva convention for the management of war prisoners, doesn't alter the fundamental nature of the arrangement.

The moral progress of mankind is a slow growth, marked by many relapses, but gradually, over the centuries, the world did come to see that slavery as a penalty for defeat in war is a terrible wrong. It will be said in justification of the policy announced in Paris that Hitler enslaved the peoples he had conquered. To accept that excuse is to say that we take our morals from the Nazis and not from the Sermon on the Mount.

A legal quibble can be built upon the argument that until a peace treaty is signed, we are obliged to hold the war prisoners by force, subject only to the Geneva convention. In fact, there is no prospect of a peace treaty for a long time if only because there is no prospect of the creation of a German government competent to sign one. Anyway, the fact that we are planning to release the rest of the prisoners in nine months, and within a few weeks will have released half a million of them, takes away whatever validity the legal point may have by demonstrating that we do not regard the holding of prisoners as necessary. If we hold them, it will be for no better reason than our desire to get a cheap labor force.

Everybody knows or ought to know that slave labor is never really cheap because it is notoriously irresponsible and inefficient. A still better reason for revising the plan is found in the fact that Europe has been taught for a dozen years, now, that man has no rights and no dignity that superior force need respect. What Europe and the world needs today, above everything else, is leadership away from that moral perversion into the paths of decency. Accordingly, all the German prisoners, except those to be charged with crimes, should be freed to return to their homes as quickly as possible. To hold them in servitude is to prolong the era of hatred and political immorality.

FUJIYAMA, HERE WE COME

The most familiar aspect of Japan, known to millions of occidentals who have never been within long-distance telephone range of that country, is its masterpiece of mountains, Fujiyama. "On many a vase and jar, on many a screen and fan" [as the opening chorus of "The Mikado" runs] it has been revealed to multitudes who lacked the price of a Cook's tour to the orient. Among its countless pictures, our favorite is the snapshot that was taken thru the periscope of an American submarine, which deserves first prize among this war's nature studies.

* * *

Fujiyama may easily be the most perfect volcanic cone in the world. It is slightly dented at the apex, where a crater about 2,000 feet in diameter suggests that it has not permanently retired from business, but with its snowy peak, its forested flanks, and its splendid isolation it might have been designed by a Japanese artist. We regret to announce that its last eruption was in 1707-'08, when it covered Tokyo, 60 miles away, with six inches of ash.

* * *

This column should own a fine engraving of Fujiyama on a 50 yen bill, captured on Saipan. A soldier wrote us a long letter about the conquest of that island, inclosed this piece of enemy money, and added a footnote to the censor, saying, "If there is anything here that will not pass, please return the letter to me." The censor passed the letter, but withheld the picture of Fujiyama, inclosing receipt for same. This incident is one of the war's many minor mysteries.

* * *

Fuji has been an objective of pious pilgrimages for hundreds of years. Its allurements are a goddess named Sengen, a demon of the crater named O-ana-mochi, a siren called the Luminous Maiden, a myth of the secret of eternal life, and a folk tale about a Japanese Rip Van Winkle named Visu. Its ascent is easy. You go by rail from Yokohama to Gotemba, and then start walking. A pair of good legs can make the climb and descent in one day.

THE EMPTY CAGE

Wes, vanished troubadour of summers seven,
Released at last from cup, and perch, and swing,
To find in some far happier Birdland heaven
Forests, and flowers, and fields wherein to sing
Anew the songs that filled our ears with Spring,

Know, little darling, that an empty cage,
A rumpled feather, and a withered leaf
Are not the sole remaining heritage
You've left us for the healing of our grief. . . .
Of shining memories still we keep a sheaf

In every nook of every room. Your airy
Refrains, cadenzas, trills, remind us still
Of how one magic-throated, mad canary
Could dress our drudging household hours with fairy
Symbols of laughing stream and sunlit hill.

And so, tho you have spread glad wings and gone
To some sweet destination of birds' glee
Beyond the sparkling cage-bars of the dawn,
Within our hearts will ever linger on
The benediction of your minstrelsy.

As the Tanks Rolled Along

[Written somewhere in Germany, May 29, 1945.]

Line o' Type: I've enjoyed your columns over here, especially since many have dealt with the towns we've been rolling thru. I thought you might be interested in some haphazard impressions of the universities I've seen. I was stationed at Bonn for 10 days and took time to search out the university. I was able to find a few buildings intact—the chemical institute and the oriental languages seminar. Much of the bombed part was off limits.

The accessory buildings around the Poppelsdorf Allee, such as students' clubs and professors' homes, were intact and displayed some fine architecture. We were using an ancient fencing club as a recreation room, and there I found untold generations of members in silhouettes around the walls. . . .

We did not stop at Marburg, but the university seemed undamaged. We went thru Giessen very fast, but it had been hot there and I thought from what I spied that the university had suffered considerable damage. Bayreuth, too, came out badly, but there were undamaged structures on the hill, and I suspect that Wagner's Festspielhaus may have been among them.

TEASEL ON AN EASEL

(Teasel: A burry plant used by florists.)

I saw a wreath of teasel on an easel in a store;
Now what, I ask, is teasel on an easel valued for?
Will teasel on an easel please a measle victim more,
Or will the teasel tease him, make the measle victim sore?

If teasel placed on easel so will ease a measle mean,
That teasel'll please a measle victim easily is seen;
But a breeze'll freeze a teasel, so, if you please, beware,
Treat teasel on an easel in a measle case with care.

Mrs. W. B. writes: "I am the widow of a World War II. soldier, with a 2 year old child. Will the application for pension from the veterans administration be sent to me, or do I have to ask for one? I am not presently employed, but want to know if my eligibility for pension will be affected if I take a job."

If your husband was killed in action the veterans administration will send a pension application to you. You should also apply to the social security board for any money due under your husband's social security. You will receive six months' gratuity pay, and you are entitled to pension for yourself and child, regardless of income. Pension for the child will be paid until 18, or until 21 if the child is attending an accredited school.

Mrs. R. G. asks: "What pay does a first sergeant receive in the European theater of operations? Under the point system for discharge do the pre-Pearl Harbor and good conduct ribbons count?"

The base pay of a first sergeant is $138 a month and 20 per cent is added for overseas duty, making a total of $165.60. If he has served more than three years he is entitled to an additional 5 per cent for longevity. Neither the American defense ribbon nor good conduct medal is counted under the point system.

PENICILLIN IN VENEREAL DISEASE

PENICILLIN is still our most essential drug. With each passing month we learn more about its curative powers and, as statistics grow, the number of diseases which it may or may not influence are noted.

We can thank our Yankee ingenuity for large scale production, which makes the mold available to all.

Its effect on venereal disorders has been startling. For many years we have had no specific remedy for gonorrhea. With the advent of the sulfonamides, our first means of control was established. In the beginning, their efficacy seemed astonishing but as more and more cases were studied, we found that many victims were resistant to these chemicals. This created quite a problem and, before the authorities had time to think much about it, the puzzle was solved by the announcement that penicillin definitely prevented the growth of the biscuit-shaped gonococcus. The results obtained have made history and can only be described as spectacular.

Because of the shortage of the wonder drug it was supplied only to those individuals who were not helped by the sulfa preparations. Of 129 such patients, 125 responded favorably in from 9 to 48 hours. In another series of 1,750 cases, 97.2 per cent were healed after one course of penicillin; with a second, the figure rose to 99 per cent. This achievement speaks for itself.

The question now is, how fast can this cure be instituted? Originally, 20,000 units were given every three hours for five injections. By the end of the third, symptoms often disappeared. The same quantity then was divided into three "shots" and proved equally valuable. Finally, a single massive dose was tried in 95 cases and all but two were successful. More recently, the substance has been mixed with beeswax and peanut oil. This serves to prolong the action and renders additional injections unnecessary. It is obvious that we can recover from gonorrhea more quickly than from a common cold.

The use of penicillin in syphilis is also promising, but 10 to 12 times the amount employed for gonorrhea is demanded. Of the four patients who were originally studied, three have been symptom-free for periods of eight to eleven months. In 1,418 victims of early syphilis who have received penicillin, the outcome was most encouraging.

The material is administered into the muscles for eight days. This plan can be contrasted with the old therapy in which months or even years were required. In late stages, including those with nerve or brain involvement, we are hopeful. The final story, however, must await further research.

The venereal evil continues in spite of the advancements which have been made. We have a right to feel optimistic about modern treatment. But prevention is another matter entirely. It may well be that penicillin also will be useful in this aspect of the subject. It is conceivable that eventually the scourge will be eradicated completely.

PAINFUL SNEEZING

Mrs. A. M. writes: Every time I sneeze hard I get a pain in my right side near the appendix. Is this a sign that something is wrong?

REPLY

A skilled physician can answer this better after a thoro examination. Weakened abdominal muscles, with or without rupture, may be responsible.

UNRULY FINGERS

Mrs. K. S. writes: The ring fingers of each hand close like a vise and when they are pulled open the middle joints snap. Will vitamins help?

REPLY

This is due to muscle spasm. When straightening the finger the joint may slip a little, causing the cracking sound. It is unlikely that vitamins play a role.

FUNGOUS INVASION

T. Y. writes: How is the ray fungus contracted?

REPLY

It is believed that infection takes place via the mouth. This parasite grows on hay, oats, wheat, and barley, and holding a contaminated straw between the lips is probably the most common manner of entry.

F. G. writes: Is itching behind the ears a sign of diabetes?

REPLY

When Is a Valley Hidden?

In a world now almost completely charted, news of the American flyers marooned in what the army calls the "hidden valley" of New Guinea, an area hitherto unknown to white man, comes as a great shock to those who contend there is nothing unexplored except science. Here, in a rich and intensely cultivated valley, a plateau isolated by high mountain ranges, live what must be the happiest men in the globe: they know nothing of war.

The two men and the WAC now in there, the news reports say, are the first white persons ever to set foot on that land. That, if true, is a stirring and romantic story. On the other hand, are they the first? The American Museum of Natural History says not. In 1938 the Archbold expedition landed there by amphibious plane and had one fine time. The National Geographic magazine published the account of what they found, well bolstered by pictures, in 1941, and, say what you will, the pictures, particularly the aerial ones, look greatly like those taken over the "hidden" valley two months ago by Frank Sturdy of THE TRIBUNE on an air forces flight.

The differences, bearing in mind that the Archbold expedition walked thru the whole place and that, until now, no air forces personnel set foot on the place, seem to be these: The 1938 expedition named the valley Grand valley. They said it was 10 by 40 miles, bisected by a river which emptied into a big gorge that cuts thru the mountains. The air forces gauge the valley's size as 5 by 20, with the river entering the valley by a 2,000 foot waterfall and disappearing into a 300 foot grotto where, like Alph, the sacred river of Kubla Khan, it wanders thru caverns measureless to man.

So, according to Donald Collier, anthropologist at the Chicago Museum of Natural History, perhaps there are two "hidden" valleys.

If so, they look just alike. The river, seen from the air, curves the same way. No pictures of grotto, waterfall, or gorge are available. The dome shaped houses of the natives are the same. So are the long rectangular buildings which Mr. Collier says are men's clubs. So are the carefully tilled soil patterns, terraced slopes, and canals.

Because there are too many other arguments in the world right now, anyway, let's say Hidden valley and Grand valley are one. Then let's go by what the Archbold group found. They found the natives so friendly they worked together gathering specimens of birds, rocks, and plant life. They found them as tidy as New Englanders, with the same stone walls around their fields. They found them ingenious engineers, with a fine suspension bridge, an ideal drainage system, and crematories for their dead. Once the natives tried to bar the way of white men. They did this by placing twigs on the path. When the white men stepped over the twigs, they formed a human barricade five deep. When the white men walked around this, the natives calmly accepted them.

The natives were prosperous happy, contented, and devoted to the arts of peace. A few bore wound scars on their legs, testimony that they settled personal conflicts by shooting arrows only at each other's legs. The majority bore no wound scars of any kind and, the expedition deduced, had never known war.

The Archbold expedition went in and out with no apparent ill effects on either side, but the army already has dropped to its trio a walkie-talkie, K rations, salt tablets, and heaven knows what else. A glider is going in now. The next we know we'll be giving the natives cap pistols, water guns, comic books, television sets, missionaries, and papers to sign which will put them on our side. If this new world we are working up is to be what we think, the kindest thing we can do to the Hidden valley is to get our trio out and stay out ourselves, leaving only kind memories to be handed down thru the generations from father to son, of the three strange white persons who plummeted down from the sky and then jumped back up again. And if the natives are as sensible now as they were in 1938, they will really pile twigs in the paths this time.

AMERICA'S CAPACITY TO CONSUME

Chicago, May 29—Chairman Krug of WPB strayed quite a little from the facts when he said that 1944 civilian goods purchases amounted to 98 billion dollars. According to February Current Business, that figure included expenditures for services, too, which amounted to 30.9 billion dollars. Only 66.7 billion dollars were spent for all civilian goods—6.7 billion for durable and 60 billion for nondurable.

There's a big difference between 98 billion and 67 billion—enough in this case to equal a full year's production by nearly 8 million factory workers producing at only the 1939 per capita rate. There's too much loose talk by officials who ought to know better, because they have access to the same information sources as the layman.

The 60 million jobs promise is a case in point. Those who made the promise evidently expected the "dumb public" to believe that peace time jobs would be provided for 5 million more civilians than were employed at the employment peak nearly two years ago. Our economy just cannot provide and maintain that many real jobs unless the peace time work week is reduced far below the legal 40 hours to be restored later.

Of course, the promissors probably are planning on putting the government back into the WPA-PAW business or maintaining the overstaffed government bureaus. But, neither promises nor talk create jobs, as continuity of manufacturing or other production depends upon the ability of markets—not warehouses—to absorb output. To illustrate: If only the 15 million factory workers now employed were kept fully employed for just 12 months producing purely peace time consumer and producer goods, they would produce a 10 to 15 billion dollar excess that could not be absorbed in the same space of time by our combined domestic and expanded foreign markets. EUROPE'S PROMISES

Chicago, June 1—I agree with every statement [with one exception] of THE TRIBUNE editorial, "War Without Aims." The exception is the following: "We fought a great war; incurred a million casualties; squandered the nation's wealth in furnishing so many billions to the nations fighting with us—without any agreement as to what we were fighting for, or what would take place after victory." That statement as a statement is very true, but its implication is very false, for its implication is that, if we had only secured agreements with our European "allies" before making such great sacrifices in lives and wealth, a decent peace for Europe would have resulted from this war.

The diplomatic history of European imperialism for the last 1,500 years proves conclusively that no reliance whatever can be placed on any previous agreements of victorious imperialistic powers. Victorious powers have always disregarded and will always disregard their diplomatic agreements whenever it seems advantageous to their imperial interests to do so.

The European situation today is essentially the same as in the days of Thomas Jefferson, who, after a very careful and correct diagnosis of the horrible European mess [the heritage of the ages], observed: "For us to attempt, by war, to reform all Europe, and bring them back to principles of morality and respect for the rights of nations, would show us only to be maniacs." ERNEST BRADSHAW

VOTING YOURSELF PROSPERITY

Chicago, May 27—In answer to Mrs. H. L., who wants to know when we are going to start getting rid of communism in America, I would suggest that she is asking for a pretty big contract.

We would not need to fear a few hundred outspoken Communists of the Browder type if we did not have such a large contingent of voters who believe that in America one does not have to live for success and prosperity, but need only vote for it and for any candidate who shows promise of hamstringing business — the only known source of worthwhile prosperity, except to burocrats and dictators.

Yes, I admit many Americans would be happier with the pittance national socialism, the American counterpart of all the European isms, would give them, for then they would not have the humiliation of seeing any one with backbone and ambition in better circumstances than they themselves are. And let no one delude himself into pooh-poohing the idea of national socialism simply because it is not parading under that name. D. M. CUSHMAN

ICELAND'S YANKS ONLY WAIT, BUT THEY TOO SERVE

Guard Stepping Stones; Had Voice in D-Day

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 7 [By Airmail]—V-day in Europe came as an anti-climax to the men of this island garrison and other American outposts serving long, dull periods in the background of the conflict. However, on a recent inspection tour of outlying Atlantic bases, Lt. Gen. George Grunert, chief of the eastern defense command, paid high tribute to these men for their part in the allied triumph.

He said the importance of their assignment cannot be overestimated, altho the secret nature of their work caused their efforts largely to escape public attention. Their presence on the Atlantic stepping stones kept open the vital Atlantic sea and air supply routes and their vigilance prevented the enemy from obtaining valuable weather information.

Helped Save Europe

"We know now that England could not have been saved or the battle of Europe won without the uninterrupted flow of men and supplies across the Atlantic from America to both the eastern and western fronts," Gen. Grunert said. "This was possible only because we held the bases in Iceland and Greenland and held them so firmly the enemy did not dare try to take them."

Gen. Grunert emphasized the importance played by weather information in the war. It was only a few months before the end, he noted, that German efforts to establish a weather station on the east coast of Greenland were frustrated in the capture of an enemy ship with its crew of observers and radio operators.

American weather stations scattered along the coasts of Iceland and Greenland, besides watching for the enemy, were busily supplying information which enabled allied commanders to plan their own air and ground campaigns. This part of the world, on the fringe of the arctic, is the source of Europe's weather and advance word of conditions in the far north enabled meteorologists to plot atmospheric probabilities over the battlefields.

Personnel at these outposts are attached to the army airways communications service and weather wing. They are assigned to specific posts for one year periods and often are isolated for months at a time. Consequently, they must maintain their equipment, depending solely upon supplies dropped by parachute or brought by dog sled.

Aided Choice of D-day

Information tapped out on their tiny radio sets formed part of the basis for choosing the date for the invasion of Normandy a year ago and for subsequent offensives in which field commanders had to be assured of support from the air and mobility on the ground.

German aerial observations over this part of the world were considerably stepped up just prior to the opening of the second front as the Nazis sought to anticipate the invasion by finding out when the weather would be most suitable for it. Six enemy reconnaisance or weather planes were shot down over Iceland during the American occupation and one other forced down only a few days before the German surrender. Four captured nazi aviators said they had thought they were over Norway.

Many of the men here remember when the island was virtually a fortress, with more than 70,000 American troops, including tanks and elaborate anti-aircraft defense, in waiting for a possible German assault from the sea or air. At least one American transport en route here was sunk by U-boats.

At one time there were six generals in command of the forces, here, headed by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel. Naval forces included two battleships, an aircraft carrier, and 14 destroyers, all anchored in the harbor of Hvalfjordur off Reykjavik.

"All right, let's rent it. Maybe it will be a short summer and we can go home early!"

HOSPITAL DRAFT ENDS FOR MEDICS FROM OVERSEAS

Maj. Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general of army, announced from Washington, D. C., yesterday that under a new program just invoked by the war department medical officers released from service overseas henceforth are to be given the privilege of electing whether they wish to accept continuing assignments with the veterans administration in this country.

The new rule, he said, will replace present regulations under which officers returned home from active battlefronts have been compelled to accept transfer to veterans' hospitals even tho many have protested that such assignments violated the terms of their enlistment for military service only.

No Quick Change Expected

While the newly drafted regulations are to go into effect immediately, they will not change the status of officers now serving with veterans' facilities in this country until some time in August or September, Gen. Lull predicted.

It will take at least until then for replacements to supplant officers who have been drafted for service with such hospital units and not many can look for release at least for a year or more, he said.

Gen. Lull said he was aware that many medical officers discharged from active overseas duty have been agitating for their release from subsequent assignments to the veterans administration.

But the only way by which such officers can be mustered out and returned to civilian life, he declared, is to await replacement on the basis of military necessity and adjusted service records which give credit for length of service, number of dependents, and other factors.

Calls for Return to Posts

The new regulations, he said, provide for the return to veterans' hospitals of all officers who prior to active military assignments had been associated with the veterans administration. Since there are no more than approximately 150 such officers destined for re-assignment, Gen. Lull said he did not anticipate that many drafted officers would secure their freedom from such replacements.

In fact, he added, he did not expect that any appreciable number of drafted medical officers attached to veterans' hospitals would gain release under the new regulations, which he said would principally benefit officers returning home from overseas from now on.

COURT WILL KEEP FLAG AS SCREEN FOR NUDE MURAL

Rockford, Ill., June 11 (AP)—The United States flag will continue to cover the mural behind the bench in the Circuit courtroom, it was decided today after controversy was revived over the propriety of the painting.

The $400 mural depicting a feminine nude balancing peace and justice in either hand was ordered covered by Judge William D. Dusher in 1942 after an argument over its artistic value.

CONGRESS ST. SUBWAY PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Approval of a plan under which an open cut, four track subway would be placed in the center of the proposed Congress st. super-highway was given yesterday by the city council committee on local transportation.

The subway would connect with the Dearborn st. subway, now partially built, at Halsted st. and would continue to Kedzie av. It would make possible the removal of the Garfield Park elevated structure. The structure west of Kedzie av. would be retained.

Included in the plan, formulated by Philip Harrington, city subway commissioner, would be new underground tubes in Clinton st., from Lake st. to Congress st., linking the Milwaukee av. underground, part of the Dearborn st. system, and the Congress st. subway. There would also be a connection in Kedzie av. joining the open cut subway with the Lake st. L.

A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY: IT'S GANGSTER VOLPE

Delays Deportation by Fight at New York

Anthony [Mops] Volpe, 55, Capone hoodlum and public enemy, sat in a detention cell at Ellis Island, N. Y., last night anxiously awaiting the government's next move to expedite his deportation to Italy. Meanwhile, hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, filed May 31 a few hours before his ship was ready to carry him to the country he left as a boy, is scheduled for next Friday in New York's federal District court.

Volpe was arrested here in his home at 1500 N. Menard av. May 25 on a deportation warrant issued by the government in 1932. On that warrant hangs a story as strange as Edward Everett Hale's "The Man Without a Country." For, during the government's 12 year fight to deport Volpe, his status was the same as that of Hale's fictional character.

Born in Argentina

Born in Argentina of Italian parentage, he was taken to Italy where he was naturalized. When 15, he came to the United States. In the late '20s, he took the oath of citizenship in a state court hearing here, but several days later immigration authorities had the order vacated on ground of fraud. He had failed to mention his conviction in 1925 for plotting to counterfeit war savings stamps.

In 1928, he accompanied friends to Havana, Cuba, and upon reëntering this country declared to immigration authorities that he was a naturalized citizen. This entry provided basis for the subsequent deportion action. Officials contended that his conviction within five years of his entry was for an offense involving moral turpitude.

Late in 1930, the government began proceedings against Volpe. He countered with a series of court writs to gain his freedom. He filed habeas corpus proceedings in federal District court here, but was denied a writ. Subsequent appeals to the Circuit Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme court failed.

Man Without a Country

The government then met two problems. Italy refused to accept Volpe; so did Argentina, the land of his birth. Thus, Volpe became a man without a country. The government then permitted him his freedom on $10,000 bond.

Only when a new post-Mussolini government was formed in Italy was the effort for deportation of Volpe resumed. Arrangements were made with the new Italian government to accept him, with numerous other undesirables whom this country wished to deport.

Before departing for New York several weeks ago, Volpe bemoaned leaving his wife, daughter, and two sons. One of his sons is serving aboard an aircraft carrier in the Pacific.

"I'd rather spend 50 years in prison than go back to Italy," he said.

Children Drowned

Mrs. Helen Souhrada at state's attorney's offices yesterday after her two children, Nancy, 3, and Connie, 7 months, had been found dead, drowned in bathtub.

Nancy Souhrada, eldest of the children.

Mrs. Helen Souhrada, 2449 S. Troy st., a widow, who neglected until yesterday morning to report the drowning of her two small children, Connie, 7 months, and Nancy, 3, in the bathtub Sunday night, was held last night by Lawndale police pending a psychiatric examination.

Mrs. Souhrada told police she placed the children in the bathtub, half filled with water, at 9:15 p. m. and that they were floating face down when she returned half an hour later. She put them to bed, she said, and attempted to end her own life, first by drowning and then by swallowing half a bottle of mercurochrome.

COURT UPHOLDS BAN ON CLOSED SHOP IN FLORIDA

Gives Nonunionist the Right to Work

Tampa, Fla., June 11 (AP)—A three judge federal court held today Florida's anti-closed shop constitutional amendment was not in violation of the federal Constitution.

In a unanimous opinion, the court said the amendment voted by Floridians was an appropriate exercise of the police power of the state of Florida.

It dismissed a temporary injunction granted March 19 on petition of the American Federation of Labor and 56 affiliated unions against enforcement of the amendment by Florida's Atty. Gen. Tom Watson. Watson was the chief sponsor of the amendment when it was offered voters.

Labor unions had contended the amendment violates article I. of the federal Constitution prohibiting any state from passing any law impairing the obligation of contracts.

The amendment, adopted by Florida voters last fall, provides a man shall have the right to work whether he belongs to a labor union or not, and prohibits employers from making union or non-union affiliation a condition of employment.

License Law Held Illegal

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—The Supreme court today held invalid two sections of a Florida law requiring licensing of paid business agents for labor unions and registration of labor organizations and their officials.

Justice Black delivered the court's majority opinion. Justice Frankfurter wrote a dissent in which Justice Roberts concurred. Chief Justice Stone wrote an opinion in which he concurred in part and dissented in part.

The United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters, AFL, attacked the sections on the ground they denied civil rights and rights granted by the national labor relations act.

Bars Felons as Agents

The Florida law prohibits issuance of the state's $1 business agent license to any one who has been convicted of a felony, who has not been a resident citizen of the United States for 10 years, or who is not "of good moral character."

Justice Black said for the majority that the "full freedom of employes in collective bargaining which congress had visioned as essential to protect the free flow of commerce among the states would be, by the Florida statute, shrunk to a greatly limited freedom."

Alabama Law Upheld

The court refused to rule on the validity of state legislation in Alabama prohibiting labor unions from collecting money as a "work permit" or as a "condition for the privilege to work."

It also declined to rule on an Alabama ban on executive, administrative, professional, and supervisory employes becoming members of a labor organization if the union permits membership to other classes of employes, and refused to act on a state requirement that labor unions must file statements on their constitutions and by-laws and the identity and pay of their officials.

The regulations are part of an Alabama law which was upheld by that state's Supreme court and later challenged in the high tribunal by the CIO and AFL.

LENIENCY SHOWN HOSPITAL AID IN PATIENT'S DEATH

Stanley Gorski, 66, an attendant at the Chicago State hospital, was placed on probation for three years yesterday by Judge John J. Prystalski in Criminal court on a charge of manslaughter for the death last January of Reuben Washington, 70, a Negro patient in the hospital. Gorski was found guilty a month ago in a bench trial after other employes testified that he had beaten Washington. Gorski said he acted in self defense. Because of a previous good record, Gorski was granted probation.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR
She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

You Can't Stretch Smith's Dollar

Al Smith is head of one of the 8,500,000 new families in the $2,000 to $4,999 income class.

He knows there's more money coming in than there used to be. But, outside the War Bonds, there doesn't seem to be any more left.

He's pretty sure that come V-J Day, he can't buy a new house AND a new car AND a new refrigerator AND a new washing machine AND a new radio AND new clothes AND new furniture AND send his children to college AND travel AND take movies AND buy more insurance AND all the other "and's" that the statistics seem to imply.

Al Smith can't buy everything—but he will buy some things. Which things, how many, and in what order depends on how well he and Mrs. Smith are sold.

That's your business—and ours.

Select Oct. 17 for St. Luke's Fashion Show

BY JUDITH CASS

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 17, is the date set for the 1945 St. Luke's fashion show. The event will be held in the Medinah temple, 14 E. Ohio st. The woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, which puts on the huge show, plans to hold only one performance, in the afternoon, omitting the usual evening show.

The seating capacity of the temple will permit more Chicagoans to see the single showing than the combined figures for the two performances of past years. A total of 1,800 persons witnessed last year's afternoon and evening performances in the Stevens hotel's grand ballroom. This year 2,600 tickets will be available for the show in the temple.

These facts mean the ticket committee will be busier than ever before in its 18 years' experience and that the larger number of seats should bring a sharp rise in the proceeds. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, president of the board, is chairman of the show.

Romantic News

From Los Angeles, Cal., come two interesting announcements. One is from Mrs. Harold von Rols of that city, who is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Nancy Nell Gardner, to Ensign Ernst Lemel of the navy. The other is from Mrs. Laurens G. Hastings, also of Los Angeles, and reveals the marriage last Saturday of her daughter, Miss Shirley Haugan, to Lt. [j. g.] Robert A. Wunsch.

Miss Gardner, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell of Lake Shore dr. and daughter of Ralph N. Gardner, has been a frequent visitor here. She now attends the University of Southern California. Her fiance, whose late parents lived in Holland, is on duty in the Pacific.

The former Miss Haugan and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Wunsch of Clayton, Mo., were married quietly in the St. Louis, Mo., home of the Minard T. McCarthys, with only a few relatives and friends present. Because of transportation difficulties, Maj. and Mrs. Hastings, whose marriage took place last July, were unable to be present.

The wedding was arranged suddenly while the former Miss Haugan was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wunsch in Clayton. Lt. Wunsch just had returned from duty in the Atlantic. He and his bride will enjoy a brief wedding trip for the remainder of his leave, and after he returns to sea Mrs. Wunsch will come to Chicago for a visit. She was a member of the WASPS. Lt. Wunsch was graduated from Princeton university in 1943.

Service Notes

One of the most decorated service men seen about Winnetka these days is Col. Joseph A. Moller of the army air forces, who returned a few days ago after 20 months in the European theater. His unit received three Presidential citations.

Receiving a royal welcome in Lake Forest is Lt. James Beach Clow of the navy, who is at home on a two weeks' leave after spending a year in the Pacific. He expects to go overseas again.

At home on a 60 day leave is Sgt. Alexander MacArthur, who was liberated from a prison camp at Moosburg, Germany.

Sgt. George A. Seaverns III. of the marines, who has been at home in Lake Forest on a month's leave following his discharge from the Great Lakes hospital, will report for reassignment next Monday. He spent four months in the hospital.

Stationed again at Great Lakes is Lt. James Fitzmorris, who recently received the bronze star medal from Commodore Robert R. M. Emmet for distinguished service while participating in amphibious operations in the Southwest Pacific. Lt. Fitzmorris and his wife are back in their Wilmette home. His brother, Capt. Charles C. Fitzmorris Jr. of the army, recently received the same decoration. He is in Austria.

Lt. Comdr Richard D. Sampson's family anxiously is awaiting further word from the war department, as he has been reported missing in action with the naval air forces over Okinawa. Mrs. Sampson and Richard Jr. returned last week to their home in Coronado, Cal., after a stay in Evanston with her parents, the John Brill Shermans. Mrs. Ross D. Sampson of Evanston is Comdr. Sampson's mother.

Birth Announcements

About the first of July Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davis Fulton will come from Baltimore, Md., to meet their grandson, Arthur Davis Fulton III., who was born last Wednesday in Presbyterian hospital. When they leave the hospital Mrs. Fulton Jr., the former Sarah King, and young Arthur will go to the Lake Forest home of her parents, the John Andrews Kings. The baby, a great-grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, was named for his father, the late Ensign Fulton, who was killed last October at Martha's Vineyard while on duty with the naval reserve air forces.

Little Meredith Coyne's most exciting birthday present, a baby sister, arrived in Evanston hospital last Thursday, three days after her own first birthday anniversary. Meredith and her sister, who has been named Marcy Joan, are the daughters of Lt. and Mrs. Daniel J. Coyne III. [Madeline Porter]. While Lt. Coyne is serving with the army air forces in Alexandria, La., Mrs. Coyne and the children will live with her parents, the Irving L. Porters, in Kenilworth. Mr. and Mrs. Coyne of Wilmette are the paternal grandparents.

NORCROSS GREETING CARDS

Thru the Looking Glass

For pop's big day:

1. A small gift, but one he'll like is a special shave stick that works well in hard, cold, or salt water. It's especially pleasant, we're told, for skin that is sensitive. Our own thought on this is that it would be especially welcome for the father in service. It doesn't take up much room and its usefulness with any kind of water will appeal to men in camps that are somewhat less than perfect!

2. A house that makes elegant perfumes and colognes for women has recently brought out a cologne for men. It hasn't a fancy name, nor is it the least bit fussy or effeminate in fragrance. It's awfully good and men like it. The flacons are super-streamlines, topped and coastered at the bottom in heavy calfskin. There are three sizes, from a small one that he can pop into his smallish toilet kit to a big cylinder that's handsome as can be. It's one of those refreshing, vital fragrances, clean as salt spray, that men like.

3. Children might like to give father a nice shaving mug of pottery that's filled with what the men tell us is bland and efficient soap with a spicy fragrance. The mug is a good looking piece, masculine and clean cut, with a design of a Clipper ship. There are plenty of other things in this same fragrance that he'd like, too—cologne, talc, and soap.

4. A de luxe soap, made up in an English-type bar, appeals to men, as it should, because it was created especially for them. It's long lasting, lathery, and scented with verbena, which men like.

Adoption Bill Is Approved by House, 127-4

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., June 11—The Illinois house tonight rolled up a 127 to 4 margin to pass a bill to modernize the law governing adoptions. It was sent back to the senate for concurrence in amendments.

"This bill seeks to protect the innocent foundling children and the parents who adopt them in this state," said Rep. Stransky [R., Savanna]. It would permit judges to order investigations before adoptions are legalized, require that the consent of the natural mother be obtained, establish a six month waiting period before decrees become final, and force the impounding of court records.

The opposition was led by Rep. McCabe [D., Chicago], who expressed fear that the waiting period might bring about operation of a "racket" by investigators. Stransky answered that bigger rackets exist now, and Rep. Euzzino [D., Chicago] said the bill was approved by County Judge Jarecki of Chicago.

The Illinois children's Home and Aid society, headed by Chauncey McCormick of Chicago, and all other organized welfare agencies joined in indorsing the adoption bill, which was also backed by the Illinois League of Women Voters and the Illinois County Judges association. Sen. Baker [R., Davis Junction] introduced the bill in the senate.

Also passed by the house, 131 to 0, was a companion bill requiring that birth certificates for adopted children be in the standard form, to make discovery of cases of adoptions difficult in later years.

Bishop to Be Speaker at 87th Northwestern Graduation Exercises

Bishop Edwin F. Lee of the Methodist church, Malaysia and Philippines areas, will be the speaker at the 87th annual commencement exercises of Northwestern university at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow. President Franklyn B. Snyder will officiate and deliver the charge to the graduating class of 1,450 students. The ceremony will be held in Deering meadow on the Evanston campus, weather permitting; otherwise it will be distributed thruout other halls of the university. The baccalaureate service will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Cahn auditorium of Scott hall, with the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James Episcopal church, as speaker.

It's Natural for Child to Want to Touch Objects, So Let Him

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

For the many mothers who are having their first experience with children at that "touching" age, here are some concise suggestions:

If your little child wants to handle everything, touch everything, "get into everything" as the expression is, you probably consider him a behavior problem or just "plain naughty." He is neither of these. So you will have to start by changing fundamentally your point of view.

"Instead of denying him the chance to touch, give him every opportunity to handle things." [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

It is right and natural that he should want to touch everything. His sense of touch is one of the most important means by which he comes to know the world into which he has been born.

His fingers are hungry and thirsty. So don't starve his sense of touch. Satisfy it. Unless you do you may find yourself with a behavior problem on your hands.

Instead of denying him the chance to touch, give him every opportunity to handle things. Kitchens and kitchen utensils are a source of delight to a small child. Desks also. Try to have for him his own pencils, paper, and so forth. A low, broad table helps, too.

It is not fair to a little child to leave fragile or precious things within his reach. Put them away. But with these and other delicate things of interest to a child adopt a plan of holding them yourself close to him, so he can examine and run his fingers over them.

Supply him with suitable toys.

If he breaks things or spills things while learning to handle them, don't scold or punish.

Stop saying: "Don't touch."

Stop slapping his hands and punishing him for touching things he shouldn't. He can't always remember. He's almost a baby and has much to learn about the mysterious likes and dislikes of grown-ups.

Babies and little children love to explore and touch—and play with the things around the house. Of course, it's a little difficult for mothers, and naturally you do get tired out, but it's one of those things we do get used to. Even tho your schedule of work does get behind, it shouldn't upset you, because your child's development is most important.

The details for adapting these ideas to your individual child and house you will need to work out yourself. In doing so, try to think of your home as his home as well as yours. Children are keen to sense your attitude and in this way your small son or daughter will become intelligent and deft instead of mischievous and destructive.

Son of Famous German Liberal Goes Incognito To Interview Strauss at Garmisch

One by one the best known names in European arts reappear as the fog of war drifts past. The long silent Kirsten Flagstad wants to come back to the America that made her famous, Franz Lehar would bring us his latest operetta, Emil Jannings repudiates accusations of collaboration, a New York producer hurries to Paris to sign Lucienne Boyer and Maurice Chevalier for an autumn revue, and over in Garmisch in the Bavarian Alps, Richard Strauss, who was 81 years old yesterday, is interviewed by Corp. Klaus Mann, incognito.

This was a curious meeting, because the amiable Strauss had no way of knowing the young American correspondent is the son of Thomas Mann and deeply attached to Bruno Walter, once a Mann neighbor in Munich. For when the Nazis condemned Thomas Mann for an essay on Wagner, Strauss signed the manifesto, and when the Nazis ousted Walter from the Berlin Philharmonic, Strauss took over. The Mann episode wasn't mentioned, but as for Walter, this was what Strauss had to say: "Why shouldn't I take over the concert? It wouldn't have helped my old friend Walter if I had refused to do so. Yet it seems I have hurt his feelings—I really don't understand why. When I saw him in Salzburg some time ago he didn't even say hello to me."

There is more than a touch of irony in the corporal's tale of what he calls "the old opportunist." He says just two things in the Nazi regime really seemed to have upset the composer. One was that the Hitlerites refused to let him collaborate any more with Stefan Zweig, "the best librettist I've ever had since the death of Hugo von Hofmannstahl, who, by the way, was also partly Jewish." The other was that Hitler himself refused to act when a bombed out German family was billeted in the roomy Strauss villa complete with beautifully kept garden.

The corporal thought this about the only sensible order Hitler ever gave, but Strauss cried: "A bunch of strangers in my house! Imagine! A family with children, if you please. I didn't know what to do. Really, I thought of leaving Germany. But how could I afford to lose my main market? We have about 80 opera houses in this country. That's where most of my royalties come from."

The corporal suggested that he was using the wrong tense, but very little of Nazi destruction, in Germany or elsewhere, seemed to have penetrated to what the corporal still can call "the grand old man of European music, the world's most celebrated living composer."

Strauss spoke, his interviewer reports, of Baldur von Schierach, former Nazi governor of Austria, as "a very nice chap" because he had done the Strauss family favors, and he praised the delicate artistic taste of Hans Frank, Nazi governor of Poland, whose taste in atrocities the world has found a trifle crude. He also mentioned that the fuehrer was able to appreciate good music.

So the bloody tide of the greatest war in history has isolated rather than inundated the man who wrote "Der Rosenkavalier" and "Heldenleben." He looks well, says the corporal, and was all smiles and cordiality. But as to new music? "No plans for me any more," he said, shaking his head, "I've written 15 operas, not to mention my symphonic pieces and many songs. That's enough for one lifetime."

Voters League Council to Plan Year's Program

Plans for next season will be discussed by the state council of the Illinois League of Women Voters at a day long meeting today, convening at 10 a. m. in state headquarters, 225 N. Michigan av. Conducting the session will be the newly elected president, Mrs. Walter T. Fisher of Winnetka. The council, composed of the state board of directors and the presidents of all member leagues in Illinois, is the policy making body of the organization.

INSTALMENT XLIV.
MYSTERIOUS BLOW

Dirk Adams stood there. "O! O, Dirk. It's you." She spoke with impulsive relief but almost at once she wondered. She didn't like the way he didn't answer but stared at her so rudely.

What was he doing here at this hour in the afternoon? And where was the trooper supposed to be guarding him?

She didn't want to ask him in. She didn't need to. He pulled open the door and stepped across the doorway without invitation.

"Where's Winnie?"

His voice was right off the ice. Where, where was that trooper?

"Winnie's gone. Back to Philadelphia. Her father came for her." She spoke as calmly as possible. "Didn't you get her note?"

"Yes. I got her note." He mimicked Miss Warburton's charming Park Avenue tones. "Half an hour ago. That's why I'm here."

"But she isn't. She's gone. She left last night. Didn't she tell you?" Miss Warburton knew quite well she had, for the note had been the combined effort of all of them.

"Why didn't she call me on the telephone . . . get me out here . . . let me have a chance to talk to that high and mighty father of hers. I'm not afraid of big shots, like him."

"I haven't the slightest . . ."

"And what's the idea of breaking with me by mail . . . sending back my ring . . . no decent explanation?"

Miss Warburton's chin went up. "I don't care for your tone, Dirk. Please remember, I have nothing to do with your and Winnie's affair. I refuse to be drawn into it."

"Yeah? You think I'll swallow that? Don't waste your time, Miss Warburton. You've hated me from the first. You did your best to keep Winnie from getting engaged to me. And when you couldn't stop it, you did all you could to break it off. I know who I have to thank for this note of hers."

His eyes were black with hatred, glittering. His right hand slid into the pocket of his raincoat.

"I can't see how killing me would help things," she said coolly. It wasn't the way she felt.

"O, you don't? Well, there's a lot of satisfaction in killing people, so I've been told. Especially if you've gone thru plenty to fix things your way then one person tries to spoil it all."

She flattened herself against the kitchen wall, needing its support. Her mind plunged wildly back, seeing Dirk in the moonlight with Mrs. Paradine . . . the flash of the knife . . . the stealthy withdrawal. It must have been Dirk. And he'd used that five thousand Mrs. Paradine had given him to pay off his first sweetheart. Winnie had told them all about her interview with the girl.

And it must have been Dirk who had tried to pin the crime on her, thru Tillie. If so, that would have meant another five thousand. He certainly looked capable of anything as he faced her with lowered head and concealed hand.

"You've ruined my life. And I'm going to get even."

She wondered, vaguely, how he thought he could get away with murder forever.

Even as she wondered, Miss Warburton saw the screen door behind Dirk open silently, slowly, by means of a stick. The trooper, she thought, with a gasp of relief! Quickly she moved her eyes to Dirk's face lest he suspect something.

The door remained open, propped by the stick. The next instant, something moved behind his head. Dirk gave a queer grunt. He staggered and began to fold up on the floor at her feet. He'd been hit on the head. But she had seen no hand or arm. Just the stroke of the blow.

In another minute, all the pots and pans in the kitchen jumped and rattled as a heavy piece of lead pipe hit the floor. It had been tossed in thru the screen door, which was now allowed to slam shut.

She stood, transfixed, watching Dirk relax into utter unconsciousness. His blond curls began to be stained with blood in back. She gazed at the door, expectant, then wondering. Who had struck the blow and why didn't he come in?

After a moment she crept to the door and looked out. Only the rain was there, steadily falling in fine steely lines.

But was it? A door in the back of her mind opened on a cool, doubting fear. She shrank from touching Dirk. He was breathing much too loudly. His head was badly hurt. Now what? If she tried to bring him back to consciousness wouldn't he simply go on from where he left off? Should she call a doctor?

Perhaps she should try to get the pistol from his pocket first, altho he was lying on it. Perhaps she should tie his hands and feet.

And then, the vision of her trying to bind his body brought into the light a staggering idea.

She was being framed! Again! Suppose some one came and found her, alone with Dirk, tying him up. How could she prove she hadn't struck him down? Another of her heinous crimes. Who would believe her fantastic tale of the unseen blow? She hardly believed it herself. But there was Dirk on the floor. Dying, perhaps.

She was just beginning to get a grip on herself when the front doorbell rang. This surely must be the trooper, she thought! Or French!

But it was neither. Against the shining curtain of rain, dripping off the roof, loomed a familiar figure. Sybrand Jennesma.

She was startled, relieved and dismayed. She hoped this visit meant he had recovered from his absurd fear of her.

"Won't you come in?"

He followed her, silently thru the door into the living room. She thought of Dirk. How would Sybrand's restored confidence stand this new test of her innocence?

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Jennesma?"

"No. This morning, when you left, you suggested I might reconsider letting you go, Miss Warburton? Just what did you mean by that?"

Never before had he used such a tone to her. So icy. So ominous. She was glad French had assured her so earnestly that Sybrand was not the criminal. Why did he look at her like that, braced on his thick, spread legs, his head lowered, unpleasantly, like Dirk?

There was a little, undefinable noise from the rear of the house. "What was that?" he demanded.

"I . . . I don't know. It might be Dirk. He's in the kitchen . . . on the floor. . . ."

"Dirk? Here? On the floor?"

"Yes. I'm afraid he's badly hurt." She told him exactly what had happened as quickly and prosaically as she could. But she couldn't make the thing sound true even to herself.

Corn on the cob is a favorite vegetable these days. The season for corn is all too short, and devotees of the golden yellow grain can't get too much of it. Corn must be freshly gathered to be at its best. If the ears can be harvested from one's own garden when the kernels are at their tenderest and full of milk, there's corn on the cob at peak perfection.

Ears that sit around all day in a grocery lose much of their sweetness and fine flavor. Later in the season when we can our own midwestern corn, we must be certain to buy it very fresh, for corn that has wilted even a little has deteriorated markedly in quality and encouraged bacterial growth which could result in spoilage of the canned product. Corn, a non-acid vegetable, always should be processed in the pressure cooker. Families who lack facilities for pressure processing corn should dry it, as other canning methods are unsatisfactory and unsafe.

A reader of this column writes in about fresh corn on the cob cooked in milk, which she says is simply delicious. She uses a very small amount of milk, so that by the time the corn has cooked tender, in a very few minutes, the kernels will have absorbed it.

Corn is the one vegetable, except perhaps for baked potato, which absolutely requires butter or margarine or another fine-flavored fat as seasoning, in my opinion. I can do without the spread for bread, but my corn must be well oiled. Bacon drippings do nicely when they're available, but usually margarine is the choice at our house.

Leftover corn on the cob has many uses. If there's only a little, it may be added to fritter batter for corn fritters, or combined with peas or green lima beans to be served at a later meal. If there's enough corn to make a second appearance by itself, a seasoning of a teaspoonful of onion juice, a tablespoon or more of chopped green pepper, and a small amount of bacon or sausage drippings will make it a popular dish. Or the cut corn may be heated in cream, if you're lucky enough to have cream.

Speaking of corn in cream, it's even better if the uncooked corn is cut from the cob and heated in cream. Cut the kernels not too deeply, using a sharp knife, then scrape the cob with the back of the knife to obtain all the corn and all the milky juice.

Corn cakes may be made with cooked or uncooked corn. Two eggs, beaten until light, a sprinkle of pepper, and a teaspoon of salt are added to 2 cups cut corn. The mixture is dropped from a spoon into a skillet in which about 3 tablespoons of drippings or margarine have been melted. Browned first on one side, then on the other, these corn cakes are served hot and tempting. They're good with a garnish of a bit of red jelly or preserve.

FLATTEN TIN CANS FOR SALVAGE!

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Veal with Turnips
[Serves six]

1 pound veal, cut in 3 thin strips
¼ cup fat
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 green pepper, chopped
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 teaspoons soy sauce
¼ cup cold water
2 cups white turnips, cooked and diced

Brown veal in hot fat. Add garlic, salt, onion, celery, green pepper, and bouillon cube dissolved in boiling water. Cover pan tightly and simmer 30 minutes. Add cornstarch dissolved in soy sauce and cold water. Bring to boil, add drained turnips and heat thru. Serve with hot rice or noodles.

Arts Club to Close

The Arts club will be closed for the summer after Friday, and will be reopened Oct. 1.

Made to Be Cool

One of the cleverest fashion inspirations this year is the one which makes a team of a bare-backed dress and a bolero. When at the beach, the carnival, or on a picnic, take off the jacket and there's a sun frock. Add the bolero, and you can wear the combination to the grandest daytime affair. You'll be cool, and your audience will be none the wiser. Style No. 3779 is designed for sizes 11 to 19. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 35 inch fabric for dress, 1⅛ yards for bolero.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 18 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs.

When you find it impossible to defeat a contract on the merits of the cards that you actually hold, the only hope to prevail is that declarer may be induced to adopt a false theory about the hand and ride to his own destruction. The East of today's hand realized that there was no honest way to prevent the fulfilment of the slam contract, but by inducing declarer to form a false picture of the distribution, was able to defeat a contract that on its face appeared to be invincible.

The bidding is not a model of perfection. It leaves something to be desired in the way of a delicate touch. The contract of six spades is not a bad one and as a matter of fact, should be sought by tournament players who are interested in squeezing the last drop out of a hand. But at rubber bridge a contract of six diamonds would be just as acceptable. No amount of trickery on the part of the defense could have prevented the fulfilment of such a contract. In fact, against a club or a heart opening a grand slam can be made in diamonds.

West made the normal lead of the king of clubs, and East realized that declarer must hold at least five spades to the king, queen, jack. The opening lead was obviously from the king, queen, and declarer was going to win the trick with the ace and probably attempt to ruff a club in dummy before extracting trumps. East played the jack of clubs on the first trick. Declarer won and returned a club upon which East played the three. West naturally continued with a third round of the suit and declarer, convinced that East had started with only two clubs, ruffed with the ace in dummy to prevent an overruff.

If the trumps were 3-2 the contract would still be fulfilled. When trumps failed to break East's holding was good for a trick and the contract was defeated. East had nothing to lose by his false card and everything to gain. My sympathies go out to the unfortunate Mr. South. Who can blame him?

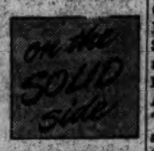
Teen-Age Fun, but Think of Your Future

BY SHEILA JOHN DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Teen-agers have rated a No. 1 priority for a place in the front page news for the last two years and naturally — their dreams are getting better all the time. That kind of attention would make any one think of himself as a rare bundle of charms. These callow young characters, just ordinary fellows and gals minding their own business about getting four years of secondary education, have suddenly been given spotlight treatment with awed adults and smart promotion men standing back in surprise at their clothes, customs, and talk and giving out with a loud, coast-to-coast, "Well, what do you know!"



Radio, movies, and magazines have played up the teen-aged story till it's a close race in importance between items from the San Francisco conference and the flash that young Joe Jackson prefers to drink his coke out of the top end of a straw. With the income of adults presumably tied up in war bonds and patriotic necessities and with the ex-college crowd too busy with redeployment and counting up battle points to be interested in what's new in checked sports jackets, teen-agers are a natural market for sales and promotion. This overemphasis is harmless as long as high school guys and gals have sense enough to realize that they are just a "fad" and not the greatest thing to hit this country since the ice cold soft drinks. Adults are always interested in "youth," as such, but the "bobby sox crowd," as played up in pictures and press, is just here marking time. There was an era, too, when every one was crazy about miniature golf.

It may be an interesting, but temporary, thought to know that there are 6,000,000 teen-aged girls in the United States who average two soft drinks a day, hold their bobby sox up with nail polish and spend their lives in an endless round of cat sessions and Dick Haymes recordings. It may be good for a quick chuckle to learn that these teen-agers supposedly have a language all their own, but it isn't exactly the stuff that wins Pulitzer prizes. Give yourself a serious thought now and then. High school life is fun while it lasts, but any year now you're going to be 21!

Expect Attendance of 10,000 at K. of C. Barbecue Tomorrow

The Knights of Columbus will give their eighth annual barbecue festival in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night on behalf of the underprivileged youth work in the archdiocese, which is headed by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop. The program has been planned by Raymond F. Gleason in coöperation with leaders of the Catholic Youth organization. Frank E. McGillen, barbecue general chairman, said 2,500 service men have been invited to be guests and an attendance exceeding 10,000 is expected. The seven previous barbecue festivals have raised more than $170,000 to aid the work at the Lewis Aeronautical school, Lockport, and C. Y. O. athletic events.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 11—I talked with Seaman Robert Mitchell of the Mitchell boys' choir, who's back after 10 months in Guam. He was recording for "Night and Day" and told me he couldn't have kept the choir together during his absence if his pal David Street hadn't taken over. David and he used to sing at St. Brennan's church here. . . . Cary Grant sings in the picture, too, but not long or loud. . . . Jane Russell, making "Young Widow," has her own idea about this business. Said she, "It's awfully new to me, and so I've decided if you want to be happy, act the fool or don't give a damn. So I don't let things worry me." Personally, I don't think Jane cares much. She's in love with her husband, she can start her own beauty shop—yes, and do all the work herself. She's got the vitality of Bugs Bunny. . . . Bob Cummings is as much in demand these days as a glamor girl. Arthur Rank wants him for "Hungry Hill." He may get the lead in "War and Peace"—the picture to be made in England with both English and Russian titles. Bob is negotiating with a soviet organization. I thought "War and Peace" was going to be made by Alexander Korda in London for MGM. That's the one Korda wanted Orson Welles for.

This Is Praise Indeed

Veldermar Vetlugin claims Sidney Kingsley is the perfect business man. Said he, "Every time I extend his contract at Metro, I lose 8 pounds. He needs an agent as much as Beatrice Lillie needs Gertrude Lawrence." . . . Capt. Griffin Grove, who used to fly Ernie Pyle, is now out of the army and teamed up with Joseph Hickey. They've written a musical called "Acapulco Polka." . . . San Francisco gets first chance to see Francis Lederer in "Mr. Strauss Goes to Boston." Loren Welch will sing in it, too. . . . Metro has acquired "Traffic and Patriots," dealing with another phase of the Paris underground. It's an unpublished novel by Drue Tartiere. . . . Ann Richards went to San Francisco to meet some Australian delegates to the convention. When they got a few days off, they came down here to see her and meet Brian Donlevy, whom they liked in "American Romance." . . . Erin O'Brien writes from Nice that she's playing the lead in "Night of January 16th." She says it's a deathless piece of tripe but the boys love it. . . . Joan Crawford hasn't been on the screen for nearly three years, but got a great hand at the "Mildred Pierce" preview, so Jack Warner told me. This makes us both happy. . . . Bing Crosby would like to hang around the east until "The Great John L." opens, but Paramount and Brother Everett won't let him.

Why the Eagle Screams

Did you hear about the American in England ordering a new outfit? He was turned out right down to his last spat. Even the umbrella was rolled correctly. He stepped out and pretty soon stepped into a slight drizzle. Instead of using his umbrella he waited under an awning for the rain to end. A newsboy standing beside him said, "Hello, Yank. I got a brother living in New York!" . . . Which made me think of British children who came over here during the blitz and were taken into American homes—what would be their reaction when they got home? Louise Fasenda Wallis had two—a boy and a girl. The girl was 15, and went home a few weeks ago. Louise had a letter from her mother: "Nothing seems to satisfy my little girl. Our food's not good, our clothes aren't like yours, I'm too thin, not comfortable like you are. And all she talks about is getting back to Mother Louise in Hollywood." It's a heart-breaking situation. Yet I can understand the children's viewpoint—so can the parents. But that doesn't make it any easier to bear.

And That Could Be

Joe Frisco, talking about the old boys who've married young girls—that list included Al Jolson, Charles Chaplin, and Leopold Stokowski—went on: "I suppose when that sextette dines the wives are so young they have to eat at the second table. Why, I spend more on a rabbit hunt than Charlie does on his honeymoon. . . . I'm the guy who knows all, sees all, and ain't got nothin'." . . . When you call on Lynn Bari, she says, "What's the size of your shoes?" And if you have the same size feet she has, you'll get a pair. She indorsed some and received 48 pairs, all made from plastic.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Double Take

You said you had no time for love,
For love, the yearn of heart and flesh,
You didn't want to lose yourself—
To fall into its hungry mesh.

But fell you when you closed your eyes
[You didn't expect my kiss just then!]
And when your eyes awakened, dear,

THE SMILING LIEUTENANT

Tribute

"I'd like to call attention to one of Chicago's early and outstanding white collar girls, Mrs. Ellen Gilmartin," begins a courtly letter from a gentleman of the old school.

"More than 40 years ago, Thomas Gilmartin operated a successful printing business at the entrance of the Union Stock Yards. He died of typhoid fever, leaving his wife, Ellen, and four children.

"The Gay 90s had come and gone. The new century had just dawned. It was in the days before power presses and the union label. Untrained, yet with indomitable courage and will power, Ellen Gilmartin stepped forward, took personal charge of the printing business, and conducted it ably until her children were grown and ready to enter the business world. Always garbed in black, her white collar was immaculate as she made the rounds of her daily duties.

"It is a heavy task for a woman to be left with four young children to support and educate, but to operate a sound business as well demands sterling character and tremendous energy. Ellen Gilmartin had both and in a man's business earned the immense respect of her associates till the day of her death."

How about a white collar simile? "As unreadable as the back of a bill of lading." DIAMOND LIL

High Treason

Bill of the CGW informs me that promptly at 5 every day a WCG, scarcely out of bobby socks, cavorts merrily out of the Burlington building, toward Union station, singing, "My heart rides the Milwaukee, every night at eight. Not in a shiny Diesel, just in a dinky freight." Now, Bill wants to know, isn't this treason for a Burlington WCG to let her heart ride the Milwaukee? And, what has the Milwaukee got that the CGW hasn't got? NOSEY PARKER II.

Pro and Con

After six years of faithful service with her company, "Roberta Sue" has a right to feel indignant when a new girl receives the same salary and privileges she has attained. This happened to me after 30 years of running an office smoothly. I suggest she do what I'm doing—get a new position if matters are not adjusted. M. S.

Seniority is a hollow distinction. Too many people talk about wanting a job with an opportunity for a future. What they really mean is that they expect increases in pay in proportion to length of service. Maybe the new girl, in the case under discussion, had a background of talents acquired in another position. Anyway, it's a good policy not to worry about the other fellow. E. P.

Philharmonic Orchestra of W-G-N to Bow

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Adopting a name in keeping with its prestige and popularity the former W-G-N Symphony orchestra will present its first concert as the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra from 8:30 to 9:30 tonight over W-G-N. Henry Weber is the conductor.

Dr. Rudolph Ganz

Dr. Rudolph Ganz, conductor, composer, and president of the Chicago Musical college, will introduce the orchestra under its new name. Dr. Ganz will play tribute to radio for bringing the world's finest symphonic orchestras and literature to the air and will congratulate the Chicago Philharmonic orchestra on taking its permanent place as one of the leading symphony orchestras.

As musical director of W-G-N for more than a decade, Mr. Weber has staffed the orchestra with many of the nation's outstanding musicians, and developed it to its present eminence. Several of these men have played under his direction during the full 20 years he has been prominent in Chicago music circles. Mr. Weber for years was one of the conductors of the Chicago Civic opera.

Tonight's concert will open with Dvorak's "Scherzo Capriccioso." Then the orchestra will draw on the music of Poland with Henri Wieniawski's Concerto No. 2 in D minor for Violin and Orchestra," with Raphael Spiro, long time member of the orchestra, as soloist.

The concluding work will be the "Bacchanale" and "Finale" from Wagner's "Tannhauser." Mr. Weber will comment on the works before their performance.

Rockford Boy Heads Children of American Revolution Juniors

John Searle of Rockford, son of State Rep. Clinton Searle [R., 33d], was elected junior state president of Illinois society of the Children of the American Revolution at a meeting of chapter delegates and senior and junior officers yesterday in the Stevens hotel. The meeting, limited in attendance to comply with war transportation regulations, replaced the organization's 50th anniversary convention.

For next year's special philanthropy project, the C. A. R. leaders decided to raise money for European war relief, to be administered thru a national C. A. R. fund for that purpose. It was announced that more than $500 was given by Illinois C. A. R. this year for two D. A. R. mountain schools in the south.

Among other junior state officers chosen was Lowell Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hall, 4355 N. Paulina st., who was elected corresponding secretary.

Newly elected officers will be installed this afternoon by the Parent-Teacher association of the O'Toole school, 6550 S. Seeley av.

Pillow Cases

BY NANCY CABOT

Embroidery motifs for pillow cases are in popular demand at this season when we all need pickup work for relaxation. These four sets of designs include such types as cross-stitch, outline, and satin stitches. Floral and bird motifs are an accepted choice for pillow slips when one wishes a change from the scalloped and initialed varieties.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of pillow case motifs, No. 555, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Chartreuse and White Used in Lovely Lingerie

BY REA SEEGER

Midsummer lingerie and negligees in the romantic manner dramatize the cool beauty of chartreuse green with magnolia white. For one of the loveliest collections, presented primarily for the trousseau shoppers, spotlights this very new and provocatively feminine color scheme. Chartreuse green is the shade of the first green leaves of the lily of the valley, with a delicate yellow shadow. It is particularly effective with the cool texture of the magnolia white, and the combinations are exceptionally effective.

There are nightgowns of chartreuse green sheer worn with white negligees; there are exquisitely beautiful green gowns trimmed with delicate white lace and some unusual gowns of green combined with long panels of the white crepe or sheer. All of them are vividly reminiscent of the lingerie of pre-war seasons with details of fine handwork, lavish encrustations of fine lace, tucks, and embroidery. Even the skirts seem appreciably wider than last year's skimpy models.

But it is in the romantically beautiful dull white crepe negligees that the peak of eye appeal is achieved. Collars that are deep enough to cover the shoulders are edged with deep lace, skirts are gathered to a narrow belt and lace edged sleeves are short. Simpler models of dull crepe or sheer that use classic drapery to accent the material have the high fashion Grecian simplicity of this summer's newest fashions.

HOSPITAL HELPS BLIND VETS SEE VIVID NEW WORLD

They Learn to Work Hard and Laugh at Life

can see better already than I did when I first came here. . . . I think. . . ."

Many refuse to believe they'll never see again . . . until they're sent to Avon . . . Old Farms . . . synonymous in his mind with permanent blindness; and hard to take.

Once at Old Farms, however, no time is wasted in showing the new trainee that permanent blindness does not mean helplessness. His cane is immediately taken away from him and he is taught to get about the grounds unaided and on his own.

Course in Orientation

The new trainee begins by studying—by touch—a scale model of the hospital grounds. He feels, on the model, the path from his dormitory to the mess hall, to the post exchange, the postoffice and classrooms.

Then a trained orienter takes him over the grounds he has memorized from the model. He learns to follow paths by using the side of his foot along the grass borders of the walks. Within a few days he becomes so familiar with the grounds that visitors who often stop to ask directions never realize they have been talking to a blind man.

During the opening weeks of training the men are given many tests to develop their sense of touch, such as fitting wooden jigsaw puzzles together.

Learn to "See" Obstacles

They are also trained in "obstacle perception"—a training which aids them in discovering obstacles and estimating their distance thru the recognition of sound waves.

They learn in orientation classes to dial telephones and to board buses and street cars by using life-size models, including high steps, grab handles, and coin boxes.

They may take courses in agriculture, mechanics, music, public speaking, journalism, salesmanship, business methods, operation of concession stands, and dozens of other subjects.

Two things most of the men dislike at first. One is the study of Braille, which they have associated only with the slow painful reading of a massive Bible or a special edition of "The Reader's Digest."

Oppose "Blind" Projects

The other is industrial therapy, specifically such projects as weaving, woodworking, and making leather goods—which have always been associated with the helpless blind. But they learn soon the practical value of one and the hobby value of the other.

The aim of Old Farms is to offer an introduction to as many types of work as possible in order to make the blinded GI's understand that they are not doomed to a precarious future of pencil selling or basket weaving, that they can carry on in jobs they have chosen.

"Here again," declared Lt. Blackburn, "the public has an idea we devise certain types of work suitable to a blind man. Instead, we suit the blind man to the work he wants to do."

The greatest boost to the morale of the blinded veteran is to be placed in a factory side by side with men who can see, to receive a weekly pay check which proves to them convincingly that they can support themselves and their families in the future.

Public Pity Resented

Only the public can now hold these men back, an unwitting public of over-sympathetic women who insist on giving the blinded GI's their seats on a bus, or who tsk, tsk to each other, sorrowfully moaning, "Poor boy. Isn't it a pity," as if he were also deaf.

"It's not the boys who are afraid; it's the public," said Col. Frederic H. Thorne, commanding officer of Old Farms. "We are doing our job here but with you back at home rests the final outcome of our work. These men must be accepted in their communities without pity, without special favor, and without any misunderstanding of their abilities. They must be given their chance to make good in fair competition. We have proved they can. The real job is now up to the public."

MOTHER OF BABY 2 MONTHS OLD FOUND HANGED

The body of Mrs. Ruth Ann Kimble, 32, mother of a 2 month old daughter, was found hanging in the bathroom of her home at 2362 E. 68th st. yesterday. A scarf was knotted about her throat and attached to a hook on the door.

Her husband, Garland, manager of the Silver Fleet Motor Express, Inc., 3357 Justine st., found the body. He told police his wife had spent several days in a hospital recently for treatment of a nervous disorder.

HIGH COURT BARS WAR OBJECTOR IN LAW CAREER

Backs State Demand for His Service

The United States Supreme court in Washington, D. C., yesterday upheld, 5 to 4, a ruling of the Illinois Supreme court refusing a young lawyer permission to practice because he had expressed the views of a conscientious objector to military service when examined for admission to the bar.

The man involved was Clyde Wilson Summers, 30, whose family lives on a farm in Scott county. He was graduated by the University of Illinois law school six years ago and now is teaching law at the University of Toledo at Toledo, O. At the time he applied for entrance to the bar he had been classified a conscientious objector at his own request, but was excused from serving in a camp because of physical unfitness.

Opinion of Majority

The Supreme court opinion, delivered by Justice Reed, held that there was no violation of constitutional principles of religious freedom in Illinois' insistence that Summers be required to support the constitution of the state.

The minority opinion in which Justices Stone, Roberts, Frankfurter and Jackson concurred, suggested that perhaps "Christ's gospel of love, and submission is not suited to a world in which men still fight and kill one another."

Summers' application for admission to practice was made in 1942 to the committee on character and fitness of the 3d appellate district, at Urbana, and was denied Jan. 5, 1943. Records in the office of Atty. Gen. Barrett, whose assistant, William C. Wines, represented the committee, show that Summers said he opposed the use of force in any form that might mean killing.

His Views Presented

In reply to specific questions he said he would not approve a jailer's firing on a mob trying to lynch a prisoner and would not use force to protect his wife from assault. He said that as a result of his study of the New Testament he believed the United States should help feed the Japanese and Germans even when at war with them.

Justice Reed in the majority opinion said:

"The United States does not admit to citizenship the alien who refuses to pledge military allegiance. It is impossible for us to conclude that the insistence of the state of Illinois that an officer who is charged with the administration of justice must take an oath to support the constitution of Illinois and Illinois' interpretation of that oath to require a willingness to perform military service, violates the principles of religious freedom which the 14th Amendment [to the federal Constitution] secures against state action, when a like interpretation of a similar oath as to the federal Constitution bars an alien from national citizenship."

In his appeal to the Supreme court, Summers asserted the sole reason he was refused permission to practice was that he was a conscientious objector.

DENY COMISE REQUEST FOR BENCH TRIAL

After the defendant's request for a bench trial had been denied, selection of a jury was started late yesterday before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in Criminal court for the trial of John Comise, former president of the Cafe Owners' association, on charges of assault to kill.

He is accused of slugging William Fortier, 17, of 4428 Wallace st., on April 6 to force him to tell the whereabouts of his son, John Comise Jr., who had run away from home.

Thru arguments of his attorney, George M. Crane, Comise sought to avoid a jury trial, but the court ruled with Assistant State's Atty. Richard Austin that the state could demand such a trial. Other charges of carrying a concealed weapon and of assaulting Roy Kruchten, 17, of 4746 S. Wells st., in connection with the same case, are pending against Comise.

HAIR NEEDS THOMAS CARE
Oddly enough, summer is both the best and worst season for your hair. Best, because hair grows faster in the summer than at any other time. Worst, because the hot rays of the mid-day sun, plus excessive perspiration, may leave your hair dry, straw-like, brittle, and faded. Therefore, you should start now to give your hair proper care and attention. By starting now you learn how to make the sun help (not harm) your hair and you take advantage of the fact that hair grows faster in the summer.
Consult a skilled Thomas hair expert today—in private, without charge. Let him show you exactly how the reliable, 20-year proved Thomas method provides proper hygienic care for your hair, removes itchy dandruff scales, and leaves your scalp with a clean, fresh, healthy feeling.

CUBS SEEK 2D PLACE; SOX HOSTS TO INDIANS

NORTH SIDERS PLAY PIRATES IN PITTSBURGH

Try for 1st Victory Under Lights

Chipman Is In

PITCHER BOB CHIPMAN of the Chicago Cubs yesterday passed his draft examination.

Chipman had his papers transferred from his New York [Smithtown branch] board to Chicago. The 25 year old southpaw began his examination last Friday, the same day Outfielder Bill Nicholson was accepted.

Like Nicholson, Chipman is expected to remain with the Cubs for at least a month. Last season Chipman won 12 and lost 10 for both Brooklyn and the Cubs. He has two victories and two defeats this season.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The Cubs, feeling mighty powerful as a result of the way Heinz Becker, Andy Pafko, Bill Nicholson, Stan Hack, Don Johnson, et al, mauled the Cincinnati Reds here Friday, Saturday, and especially Sunday, are in Pittsburgh today, planning their onslaught against the Pirates, billed for tonight. The Cubs will enter the lamplit arena tonight a game behind the second place Pirates, with everything favoring the Cubs mathematically, inasmuch as the Pittsburghers have lost one more game than the Cubs, tho they have three more victories.

Andy Pafko

The Pirates, like the Cubs, were plenty hot Sunday. Twice they came from behind to beat the Cardinals, even as the Cubs twice came from behind to thrash the Reds and sweep the four game series.

Double Header Thursday

The Pirates have been going well recently, but the Cubs remember that the Reds came to Chicago with a record of 11 victories in a dozen starts, and were chilled off four straight times by ruthless Cub slugging. The Cubs also remember they have whipped the Pirates five times in eight engagements this year, including a one-hit shutout by Hank Wyse and a three-hit shutout by Bob Chipman.

After their game with the Pirates tonight the teams will rest up for a double header Thursday. Friday night the Cubs will be in Cincinnati for a contest with the Reds, who haven't been able to beat them in five tries this season. The Cubs have lost all three of their night games to date, but they think they will win tonight to halt the chain of nocturnal failures. The Cubs will play off a postponement with the Reds Saturday afternoon and will wind up their road trip with a double header in Crosley field Sunday.

After the visit to Cincinnati the Cubs will return to Chicago for two off days. Then they will play series with the Pirates and the Cardinals before heading for Brooklyn, first stop on their second eastern tour.

Deal Deadline Friday

Deadline for major league deals, other than those on waivers, will come next Friday night. The Cubs are loathe to let loose of any of the heavy sugar they have been raking in thru big Sunday and holiday crowds, but virtually every team in the league is said to covet one of the Cubs' four able catchers, and may be able to swap for a winning pitcher without letting loose of any dough, even tho the market scarcely is saturated with tossing talent.

The dramatic outbreak of Cub power scarcely has concealed the fact the Cub pitching staff is only about four or five deep, from the standpoint of gents who can go nine innings and win. Whether Manager Grimm can spread conviction of his pitcher plight to the fellas who rush the big black ledger sheets to Mr. Wrigley and bask in his smiles, is a matter on which some light may be thrown before Friday night's deadline.

Cochrane Knocks Out Miller in Ninth Round

Atlanta, Ga., June 11 (AP)—Freddie Cochrane of Elizabeth, N. J., world welterweight champion, knocked out Eddie Miller of St. Louis, Mo., after 55 seconds of the second round tonight in a nontitle bout.

It's an unusual situation for Class AA baseball. . . . Don Reese, ace full back on the 1941 University of Missouri Sugar bowl eleven and more recently a member of the Fort Pierce Naval eleven, didn't even make the Tiger traveling squad as a sophomore. . . . He was a tackle then. . . . Don Faurot shifted him to full back after two knee operations to do the blocking in the T formation. . . . Reese was an immediate success after the switch. . . . He will play with the Miami club in the All-America conference when peace comes. . . . Earl Kunz, who pitched for the Brooklyn Dodgers 15 years ago, turned pale when he heard that the war department plans a huge new arsenal and ammunition dump near Sausalito at the end of the Golden Gate bridge. . . . "They might blow up my beer jernt," moans Kunz. . . . Jake Atz, the former Texas league managerial wizard who died in New Orleans recently, was one of a dozen ball players bought for a total of $1,200 by Abner Powell in the Carolina league in 1901 to replace an entire team. . . . Powell, now 84, lives in New Orleans. . . . He recalls that when Atz and the others reported the players of the old club boughts seats in the grandstand and booed their successors. . . . The new outfit won 17 straight games.

Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State's All-America end of 1935-'36, has rejoined Coach Bernie Moore's staff as end coach of the Tigers. . . . In the last three seasons no American league ball game has gone more than 16 innings. If Al Lopez can stand off the bid of Bill Salkeld for the regular catching berth with the Pittsburgh Pirates, he has a good chance of breaking Gabby Hartnett's major league record for total games. . . . Lopez now has caught 1,770 contests, only 23 short of Hartnett's total. . . . Hartnett, however, hung up his figure with one club—the Cubs—while Lopez has played with three—the Dodgers, Braves, and Pirates. . . . The American league mark was set by Ray Schalk of the old White Sox. . . . No one has come close to Ray's 1,721 in the junior circuit. . . . Approximately 10,000 men have played ball in the major leagues. . . . Of these, only 80, or one out of 125, have made 2,000 or more base hits. . . . Pitcher Millard Howell of the Cincinnati Reds is en route home after being released from a prison camp in Germany. . . . He had been reported missing in action, three months after going overseas.

The Lost Verse

[Somewhat after, A. A. Proctor]

Seated one eve in the gloaming
When silence reigned in my den,
I sought for a verse inspiring
That would cheer the hearts of men.
I sought and I almost found it
Where versified thoughts oft bloom,
When I heard a call that shook me—
'Twas my wife in a voice of doom.
It brought me no joy but sorrow;
And brought it at one full swipe,
As out to the kitchen I hastened
The dinner dishes to wipe.
Some day, somewhere I may capture
That heart lifting verse again.
I may but not while I'm wiping
Those woe-laden dishes, Amen!

HOOP ARRIVES AT PIMLICO FOR PREAKNESS BID

Trainer Forecasts Another Victory

Baltimore, Md., June 11 (AP)—Ready to bid for the second section of racing's triple crown, Hoop Jr., the Kentucky Derby winner, and his trainer, Ivan Parke, arrived at Pimlico today along with half a dozen other candidates for the $50,000 added Preakness stakes Saturday.

First to check in was Walter M. Jeffords' Pavot, undefeated as a juvenile in 1944 and considered by many a colt to watch despite Hoop Jr.'s easy victory in the 16 horse field at Louisville last Saturday. They were not overlooking the fact that Pavot lost a photo decision to Mrs. P. A. B. Widener's Polynesian in the Withers mile at Belmont last week.

Derby Contenders to Try Again

Others arriving from Churchill Downs were C. S. Howard's Sea Swallow, Mrs. W. G. Lewis' Darby Dieppe, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Burning Dream and Bail Bond. All except the last named ran in the Derby.

The mile and three-sixteenths Preakness, which is expected to gross around $90,000 for a new record for the event first run in 1873, probably will have a dozen starters with a possibility there may be 14.

Hoop Jr. is no stranger to Pimlico, where he ran second in three spring stakes a year ago. Trainer Parke, asked when Owner Hooper would show up so Pimlico officials could assign him a box near the winner's circle "just in case," indicated it wouldn't be necessary for other owners to be handy.

Polynesian to Compete

Hoop Jr., winner of only $5,300 in the five races he ran as a 2 year old compared with the $64,850 jackpot he hit in the Derby, shipped well. His total for this year now is $83,990.

Christiana stable's Alexis and Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep, also Derby contestants, are due tonight or tomorrow, with Polynesian probably arriving Wednesday. Other eligibles include the Brookfield farm's Brookfield, Bobanet from the Bobanet stables, Pentagon stable's The Doge, and H. C. Hatch's Fair Jester.

Barrett and Cards Defeat Reds, 5 to 0

St. Louis, Mo., June 11 (AP)—Red Barrett scattered seven hits in shutting out the Cincinnati Reds tonight for a 5 to 0 victory for the St. Louis Cardinals in the only game in the major leagues.

The Cardinals scored once in the first inning and made four runs on three hits in the second. Howard Fox relieved Pitcher Bucky Walters in the third and except for Emil Verban who singled in the fourth and doubled in the sixth not a Cardinal got to first base until Ken O'Dea and Marty Marion walked in the eighth.

BELMONT PARK CROWD OF 31,068 BETS $3,002,378

New York, June 11 (AP)—A Monday crowd of 31,068 wagered $3,002,378 at Belmont Park today and saw the short Brook farm's Jim's Boy win the Moriches handicap by six lengths under the guidance of Jockey Ted Atkinson. Earl Sande's First Stage took the place, half a length ahead of P. A. B. Widener's Intact. The favorite, Toy Bomb finished fifth in the six-horse field.

Jim's Boy ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 5 and paid $8.80.

IRV MEDLINGER OF LANE SIGNS WITH RED SOX

Irv Medlinger, left handed pitcher who hurled Lane Tech to the state high school baseball championship, has been signed by the Boston Red Sox, Lane Coach Percy Moore said last night.

Medlinger is the second member of the Lane team to be signed by a major league club within the last three days. His battery mate, Catcher Milt Majercik, who caught all Lane games in the state meet, was signed by the Cubs Saturday.

Goes to Louisville

Moore said the 17 year old pitcher has been sent to the Louisville Colonels, American association farm club for the Red Sox. Medlinger received a $2,500 bonus for signing, Moore said, and is to receive an additional $2,500 if he remains with Louisville for the season.

Medlinger, 6 feet tall and weighing 185 pounds, was in his first season as a pitcher. Last year he played first base for Lane and the previous season was an outfielder. In the state meet in Peoria he won two games in two days. In the final he struck out 20 batters, including the first 10 to face him.

Loses First Start

Since returning from his triumph in Peoria, Medlinger lost his only start when Harrison defeated Lane, 5 to 4, in the first round of the City league playoffs. In this game, Medlinger yielded only four hits and struck out 13, altho he pitched home run balls to Ed Vesley and Dick Stock.

Majercik was sent to the Tri-City club in the Carolina league by the Cubs.

DANTE RETURNS TWO MILLION TO DERBY BACKERS

LONDON, June 11 [Reuters]—Half a million pounds [$2,000,000] will pass thru the Victoria club, the "stock exchange of the turf," to members who backed Dante to win the English Derby.

"Definitely the greatest volume of business within my memory," said Bert Fry, a director of the club, who has been connected with the betting business for 25 years. Fry personally won £1,000 [$4,000] for £80 bet last August.

POINTS FOR ST. LEGER

NEWMARKET, England, June 11 (AP)—Dante, Sir Eric Ohlson's dark brown colt, which won the famed English Derby Saturday, now will be pointed by his trainer, Matt Peacock, for the St. Leger, another of Britain's top racing events.

The St. Leger will be held in September, probably in York, Dante's home territory.

New York, June 11 (AP)—Arraignment of Leo Durocher, 39, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, on a charge of feloniously assaulting a baseball fan, was continued today until next Monday because the purported victim was confined to a hospital.

Durocher and Joseph Moore, 50, a special policeman at Ebbets field, were arrested on charges of assaulting John Christian, 21, a spectator at Saturday night's game between the Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies.

John Christian in bed in New York hospital nursing fractured jaw and other injuries which he says were inflicted by Manager Leo Durocher of Dodgers and Joseph Moore, special policeman at Ebbets field.

Both Deny Charge

Christian, a medically discharged soldier, said he was beaten after heckling the Dodger manager. He is in Kings County hospital and is said to have a fractured jaw and other injuries.

Durocher and Moore were charged in an affidavit with hitting Christian on the head and face "with a dark object in their hands." Durocher also was charged with hitting Christian with his fist. Police said both men denied hitting Christian. They were continued in bail of $1,000 each.

Victim Former Glider Trooper

The Brooklyn club was under the direction of Coach Charles Dressen in the game with Philadelphia yesterday. There was no game today.

Christian is said by police to have received a medical discharge from the glider troops because of a knife injury. Assistant District Atty. Clarence H. Wilson requested the week's adjournment because Christian was confined to the hospital.

FARRAGUT NINE MEETS AUSTIN IN PLAY-OFFS

The City league prep baseball play-offs, from which the Lane Tech state championship nine was eliminated in the first round, will enter the semi-final stage today with Harrison meeting Fenger and Farragut playing Austin. The finals will be played Saturday afternoon in Wrigley field.

Pairings for the semi-finals were made yesterday in the office of August H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the board of education. Coaches from the four schools, Jim Smilgoff, Harrison; Jim Fox, Farragut; Harry Dixon, Fenger, and Harry Kellar, Austin, met with Pritzlaff to select playing fields and umpires.

Farragut Is Favorite

The Harrison-Fenger game will be played at 3:30 p. m. on the University of Chicago's Greenwood field. The umpires are Ed Stack and Frank Schultz.

Farragut meets Austin in McKinley park, 39th and Western av., at 3:15 p. m. George Grims and Charlie Murdock will be umpires.

The Farragut team, central section champion, is favorite to win the title and figures to defeat Austin, west section titleholder, before entering the finals. In the first round of the play-offs, Farragut defeated Taft, 8 to 3, on 13 hits.

A team which might spring an upset and win the title is Harrison Tech, which finished as runner-up in the central section during the regular season, and scored an upset victory over Lane in the first round of the play-offs.

Charged With 5 Errors

The Harrison nine, altho charged with five errors against Lane, made the best of four hits, including two home runs, off Irv Medlinger, stout left hander who pitched Lane to the state championship.

Harrison's opponent today, the Fenger nine, shut out Kelvyn Park, 8 to 0, in the first round. Fenger won the south section championship.

BARNICKOL IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF CITY LEAGUE

Carl Barnickol of Lane Tech was elected president of the City league board of control for the third consecutive year in the final meeting of the group held yesterday in the offices of August H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the board of education.

The group also elected Frank Young of Fenger to succeed Elliott Hasan of Hyde Park as vice president. Championship shields were awarded to the following schools:

Lane, bowling and swimming; Austin, chess; Senn, fencing and tennis; Lindblom, gymnastics; Tilden, wrestling; Steinmetz, outdoor track [juniors]; Hyde Park, outdoor track [seniors].

BLOOMER GIRLS, MUSIC MAIDS, MEET TONIGHT

Two games are scheduled in the National Girls softball league tonight with the Bloomer Girls meeting the Music Maids in Rock-Ola stadium, 4200 N. Central av., and the Tungsten Sparks meeting the Bluebirds in Bidwill stadium, 1923 E. 75th st.

Margerat [Sunny] Berger, returning to Chicago softball after several seasons in other leagues, will pitch for the Sparks.

DYKES SELECTS LEE TO PITCH GAME TONIGHT

South Siders Face Heavy Schedule

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

Distress in a new form is about to overtake the White Sox who are having troubles enough, what with the miseries common to a second division existence. The double-headers and other work that piled up while they were waiting on the weather back in late April and early May will begin to demand their attention this week-end.

James Dykes' boys are confronted by nine games in seven days, starting with an electric light affair with the Indians this evening. The program sounds more strenuous if you figure that six of the games are scheduled in the last four of the seven day stretch and against the Tigers, who are pretty tough. The first of these six will be a night attraction next Friday.

Supply of Pitchers Fades.

There was a time when the piling up of the double headers didn't create a ripple among the Sox strategists. The supposition was that there was an ample supply of pitchers for such extra work, the supply being more plentiful than any other team could boast. But that quantity of starters apparently has simmered down to the point where Dykes has trouble finding even one fairly reliable man per day. Under the circumstances he may, during the next seven days, turn loose some of the talent he has used only sparingly thus far.

The return of Bill Dietrich at this time would help considerably but Dykes isn't figuring on the fellow. Dietrich underwent an operation on his right elbow almost six weeks ago and the expectation was that he would be back in working order no later than June 1. He has thrown some and admits the elbow from which bone chips were removed feels O. K. but it is pretty safe to say that he won't declare himself ready inside of another week.

Lee Faces Indians Tonight.

Thornton Lee who has been turned back in his last two starts will function against the Indians tonight, aiming for his season's seventh. Lee's last start was at Detroit last Friday. He allowed only two runs but lost. His start before that was at Washington. He yielded three runs but again his pals gave him only one run. That would indicate that there is nothing much wrong with the Lee arm that could not be cured with a slightly more robust Sox hitting attack.

Dykes is perfectly aware of the fact that a few more hits, especially an extra base drive occasionally, would be most helpful but there is good reason to suspect he doesn't have men capable of quantity production. He hasn't found 'em yet but he may continue to search by altering his lineups as he did in the week-end series in Detroit.

Phillies (.208) Defeat Athletics (.372)

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11 (AP)—The Phillies defeated the Athletics, 3 to 1, today to win the city championship in a seven inning baseball game that climaxed the city's war bond sports show in Shibe park.

More than 25,000 sports fans, who purchased approximately $5,000,000 worth of bonds, saw Tom Mauney, making his first appearance since the Phils bought him from Atlanta, outpitch Charley Gassaway. Mauney gave up two runs, but one was nullified when the A's were caught batting out of turn in the second inning.

BATAAN HEROES' MEMORIAL FUND VOTED IN SENATE

Maywood Work Approved; Lincoln Bill Killed

BY GEORGE TAGGE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Springfield, Ill., June 11—The Illinois senate today killed a $1,268,000 item for a Lincoln memorial and added $250,000 for reconstruction of the Maywood armory in honor of the 149th tank corps, capture of whose members gave rise to the Bataan clan in the Chicago suburb.

These were the principal positive results of two hours of debate over proposed amendments to the state administration's 100 million dollar post-war budget measure. The omnibus bill, for a record amount in state history, was sent to passage stage after the debate.

Armory Fund Approved

An amendment to delete the Lincoln memorial item was adopted by a vote of 22 to 11.

Sen. Bidwill [R., River Forest] was successful in his plea that $250,000 be added to the omnibus bill for reconstruction of the Maywood armory.

"This will be a living memorial to the heroes of Maywood who were the first to see action on Bataan and were taken prisoner by overwhelming forces," Bidwill said.

Cut to $40,000 each were items of $86,950 and $56,650 for a residence for the warden at Pontiac reformatory and a sewage treatment works. Sen. Fribley [D., Pana], sponsor of the amendments, said he had talked to contractors in his district who told him the proposed expenditures were excessive.

Back U. of I. Plans

Most of the wrangling took place over futile attempts to slash major items of 16 million dollar total post-war improvements scheduled for the University of Illinois.

Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], appropriations chairman, led the fight against a proposed 2 million dollar "sports palace" as it is termed by critics. Sen. Peters [R., St. Joseph] denied that the chief use of the building would be for annual high school basketball tournaments held at the university.

The university spokesman won by a 25 to 15 vote.

Sen. Downing also assailed a $1,500,000 item for a laboratory building including the world's largest betatron machine.

U.S. MAY FAVOR SUPREME COURT RULING ON WARD

The government indicated yesterday that it, as well as Montgomery Ward & Co., desires a Supreme court opinion on the company's prolonged defiance of the war labor board and the legality of the Presidential order to the army to seize and operate Ward properties as a means of enforcing WLB directives.

United States Atty. Woll said an answer would be filed today to the motion filed by Ward's lawyers in the Circuit Court of Appeals last Saturday asking the court to withhold the effect of its 2 to 1 opinion in favor of the government delivered the day before. The stay of mandate was asked to give the company opportunity to petition the Supreme court for review.

Instead of answering, the government might have chosen to rest content with the appeals court ruling, which reversed Federal District Judge Philip L. Sullivan's opinion that Ward's mail order business was not "production" in the sense of the war labor disputes act and that the late President Roosevelt exceeded his war time powers.

Solicitor General Charles Fahy called at Woll's office briefly yesterday when on his way to Washington from the San Francisco conference. He said he was pleased with the Circuit court opinion.

GIRL WHO FOUND MOTHER SLAIN TAKES LIE TEST

Miss Jacqueline Miller, 17, of 4108 Kenmore av., who a week ago found her mother slain in their apartment, was questioned on the lie detector yesterday by police seeking an explanation for the presence of adhesive bandages covering slash wounds in the victim's throat. The tests indicated that Miss Miller had been truthful in her earlier statements that she had not applied the bandages after discovering the body. The tape, police said, was dry and apparently had been affixed by the murderer after Miss Miller's mother, Mrs. Josephine Ross, had bled to death. All persons taken into custody for questioning concerning the crime have been released, Capt. Frank Reynolds said.

AUTOIST DIES INSTANTLY IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Newton Hill, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal E. Hill of Big Rock, Kane county, was killed yesterday when the automobile he was driving crashed head-on into a truck on Jericho rd., five miles west of Aurora. Delmar Kraegholm of Sugar Grove, Kane county, driver of the truck, said Hill apparently lost control of his car as it approached the truck and swerved. Kraegholm was uninjured.

Samuel Gibson, 40, Negro, of 164 W. Ontario st., died in Chicago hospital from injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by a truck at State and 35th sts. The driver was Ennis Whitaker, 23, of Detroit, Mich.

4 TESTIFY THEY QUIT UNION OVER ITS COMMUNISTS

Harry Morgan, 36, former shop steward for local 1150 of the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union in the Chicago Flexible Shaft company plant, and three others testified yesterday they quit the union because it had been turned into a recruiting agency for the Communist party.

On May 17, Judge Donald S. McKinlay in Superior court held that Morgan's suspension by the local was illegal. He has not ruled on whether the company must discharge Morgan under the union's maintenance of membership contract with the company.

Yesterday's hearing was to determine whether the resignation of Morgan and 11 others from the union is legal under the union's constitution. Arguments by both sides will be presented June 19.

PREDICTS AUTO RATIONING END IN JANUARY, '46

'45 Quota to Be Met, Says WPB Aid

Get Aluminum Soon

Washington, D. C., June 11 [Special]—Well over 100 million pounds of aluminum a quarter, more than was used by manufacturers at their pre-war peak, will be turned over to industry for civilian production starting this week, in an action two weeks ahead of schedule. Confronted by mounting stockpiles of the metal, the war production board has decided not to wait for the official date of July 1, and instead is expected to take the step in a few days.

The automobile industry will be able to meet its quota of 215,000 automobiles for civilians by Dec. 31 and rationing of automobiles will end in January, 1946, Henry P. Nelson, war production board coördinator for the automotive industry, predicted last night.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Chicago Automobile Trade association in the Drake hotel, Nelson said the industry will build 100,000 automobiles in January, most of which will go on the "free" market.

Rationed Thru Dealers

He said, however, that the average buyer will have to wait until late 1946 until he can walk into a dealers' showroom and buy a car. Until the supplies are large enough, he explained that manufacturers would ration their dealers, and that the dealers in turn would ration their customers.

Altho "tight spots" will exist in the steel supply, the over-all materials outlook has improved from a month ago, Nelson said. Three times more steel will be available in the third 1945 quarter than was expected, but sheet metal, a main component in automobiles, "still looks very critical."

He explained that this resulted chiefly from man power shortages, which also determined prospective supplies of textiles for auto upholstering, facilities for the production of which are available. Output of gray iron castings also affects prospects for meeting the production goal.

Expects Enough Castings

"It does not look as if we will have enough gray iron castings, but several foundries are reopening, and the ingenuity of industry will see to it that supplies are forthcoming," he said.

Nelson said the WPB and representatives of the auto industry will meet in Washington, D. C., on July 11 to study supplies of materials as they concerned the manufacture of automobiles. He said he did not believe cars would be rolling off the industry's assembly lines in "any quantity" until October or November.

Ray Chamberlain, executive vice president of the National Automobile Dealers association, Washington, D. C., said that because of protests the office of price administration had postponed until July 14 the effective date of the service regulation establishing fixed time standards on 56 repair operations. It had been scheduled to go into effect June 14. He said the regulation would result in "driving jobs out of the shops."

Raw Materials Termed Block to Civilian Goods Production

Steel Cutbacks Slow

New York, June 11 [Special].—Plant reconversion to civilian goods production faces delays that will upset the optimistic forecasts made after V-E day, the National Industrial Conference board said today.

The private research organization reported that altho governmental limitations on 239 products will have been modified by mid-July, "manufacturers will be handicapped in raw materials for civilian products until cutbacks are effective in a substantial way at the rolling mill and foundry level."

Steel Shift Is Costly

As evidence of the conversion task confronting steel mills, where cutbacks have been small, the board said the industry will spend 200 million dollars "merely to change continuous mills from plates back to sheets."

Altho the war production board has eased its restrictions, little or no relaxation has been permitted by the office of price administration, war man power commission, or other agencies.

Many Products Delayed

"Altho production lines in the plumbing and heating equipment industries can be restored immediately, those of office equipment plants would require one to three months, mechanical refrigerators six to 12 months, various industrial equipment up to nine months, and the automotive industry from eight to 15 months," the board said.

"The prospect for new machine tools is brighter, and if materials are available the entire backlog of orders of this industry, amounting to $287,900,000, could be met in seven months."

Begin Peace Output

Two companies yesterday announced they were producing civilian items and a third disclosed plans for early production of household refrigerators.

J. R. Weaver, works manager of the East Springfield, Mass., plant of Westinghouse Electric company, said electric fans for civilian use are coming off the plant's assembly lines. Sales are restricted to hospitals, war plants, and other essential civilian uses.

Make Two Models

Two models are in production, both of designs similar to those produced before the war. Sixteen thousand of the fans are of 16 inch, and 4,900 are 12 inch models. Since Pearl Harbor the company has produced 270,000 fans for the navy and merchant marine.

Admiral corporation has begun production of radio accessories for civilian use and about $200,000 worth has been shipped, Ross D. Siragusa, president, told Admiral radio and electrical appliance distributors at a meeting in the Drake hotel.

Tubes made up 30 per cent of the shipments, batteries 15 per cent, and phonograph needles, which were produced thruout the war, 55 per cent.

Will Market Refrigerators

Siragusa said refrigerators will be placed on the market by the company late in September and the company should reach its 20,000 quota by the end of the year.

John Ballantyne, president of Philco corporation, said the manufacture of household refrigerators will be resumed July 1 in accordance with the war production board program for the industry.

STOCK PRICES SLIP, THO SOME MOTORS CLIMB

Carriers in Supply and End Lower

New York, June 11 (AP)—Buyers concentrated on motors and specialties in today's stock market as rails and many pivotal industrials stumbled over further selling and the close was lower.

Investment services continued cautious because of the belief reconversion troubles had been far from discounted. Dividends, earnings and expectations some automotive manufacturers soon would resume normal production helped individual issues. Southern rails had to contend with the Supreme court invalidation of the interstate commerce commission ruling boosting North Carolina intrastate passenger rates.

Stock Average Declines

The trend was lower from the start. Low priced issues accounted for the larger part of the volume. Prices stiffened about noon, but slipped in the final hour with carriers in supply. Transfers were 1,490,000 shares, compared with 1,710,000 Friday.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.3 at 65.7. The market was broad, 930 issues being traded. Of these, 463 were down, 280 up and 187 unchanged.

At highs for 1945 or longer were American Air Lines, which ran up 2¾ to 62 in the last few minutes; United corporation, Alleghany corporation, and Hayes Manufacturing.

Losers of a point or more included New York Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, United States Steel, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, and American Can.

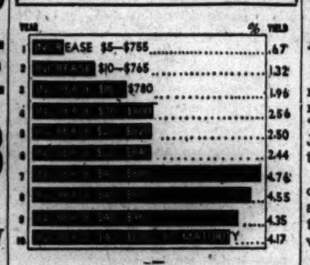
BONDS ABOUT STEADY

New York, June 11 (AP)—The bond market held close to steady today. Secondary rails advanced, but failed to hold all of the gain. The decision of a New Jersey court on a tax case seriously affected a group of roads operating in that state. Industrials and utilities were inactive and ended within small fractions of previous prices. Sales were $8,370,000, compared with $9,980,000 Friday.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN

Prices closed irregular on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday and turnover was 38,000 shares. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, Marshall Field & Co., and Republic Steel, all down fractions, Commonwealth Edison and Admiral corporation, up ⅛ each.

Keep Your Bonds



This chart was compiled by Wayne Hummer & Co., securities firm, to illustrate the advantage to investors in series E war bonds thru increased interest yields in holding them to maturity 10 years after purchase. The highest yields—in excess of 4 per cent a year—are obtainable in the last four years. The average annual yield for the entire period is 2.9 per cent, but holders who cash their bonds in the earlier years receive much less than the average interest return.

The chart shows the annual increase in redemption value of a $1,000 bond costing $750. Yield percentages are the same in bonds of smaller denominations. The reason for the higher yields in the last four years is that the value then increases $40 each year in the case of a $1,000 bond, compared with a maximum yearly increase of $20 in earlier periods.

The percentages at the end of the chart bars are the yields for the year based on the year's increase in redemption value. They are calculated by dividing the increase by the redemption value before adding the latest yearly increment.

On other United States government bonds maturing in four years the yield at present is only 1.31 per cent. The highest yield available on long term government issues is 2.5 per cent.

Wheat Box Car Outlook Held Darkest in Santa Fe's History

Prospects for the Santa Fe railroad to obtain box cars to move the new bumper wheat crop are the "darkest" in the road's history, J. J. Mahoney, superintendent of transportation, said yesterday.

Farmers in the southwest, because of the shortage of box cars and inability of elevators to store the grain, were piling the new wheat on the ground.

"For the first time in many years with the Santa Fe we do not have a backlog of empty cars stored in the wheat belt," Mahoney explained. "For years the western roads have stored from 20,000 to 30,000 cars with which to handle this annual grain movement. Today we are using every car we can lay our hands on and still are moving last year's crop."

Use All Types of Cars

He said the Santa Fe was using gondolas and stock and refrigerator cars in an effort to meet the situation. Two hundred gondolas are being fitted with steel roofs and will be used in shuttle service between southwestern terminals and gulf ports. Between 600 and 1,000 open gondolas will be used for short hauls between country elevators and primary terminals.

Mahoney's comments on the car shortage were echoed by Walter R. Scott, secretary of the Kansas City Board of Trade, who said:

"In a normal year the railroads have 25,000 cars stored on the sidings near elevators. Now there is none. There are just enough cars in the state to clean up the remnants of last year's wheat crop. There are no cars nor prospects of sufficient cars to move this year's crop. When local elevators are full, the grain is going to be piled on the ground, just as we have been trying to tell federal agencies for months."

Rails Rush Assistance

Officials of the Association of American Railroads said that immediate assistance was being rushed to the grain country, and that there was no need to become unduly alarmed.

"They dump wheat on the ground in that region every year," one official said. "That is a normal proposition."

The officials admitted that they were not able to provide a reserve of box cars in the region of the harvest because of other demands, but said they did not consider the situation serious and that it would improve steadily.

U. S. ESTIMATES RECORD WHEAT CROP FOR 1945

Billion 84 Million Bushels Forecast

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—The largest United States wheat crop ever produced — 1,084,652,000 bushels—is indicated for 1945 on the basis of June 1 reports, the department of agriculture said today.

Despite one of the coldest Mays on record, the total volume of all crops this year is expected to be "well above average." Persistent rain over a large area contributed to a reduction in some crop prospects and in the southwest drouth developed locally and threatened to spread with dry weather persisting in the extreme southeast.

Winter Crop Near Peak

The indicated winter wheat crop was 797,255,000 bushels, second largest on record, and the indicated spring wheat crop 287,397,000. If realized, the total would top last year's record wheat crop slightly, and would be the third crop of more than a billion bushels in United States wheat production history, the first having occurred in 1915.

"Oats and hay promise above average production," the report said. "The rye production forecast is down somewhat compared with last month's prospects, but is still good.

"A record crop of early Irish potatoes is in prospect and the tonnage of truck crops for market appears to be as large as the record volume produced in 1944. Total fruit production is expected to be nearly equal to the record output last year."

Push Corn Planting.

Corn planting, pushed to the limit allowed by the weather, was nearly three-fourths finished for the country as a whole. The corn lacks color in Iowa and other states where cold, wet weather has been the rule.

The department said it was too early to make specific predictions on many of the crops, but a number of factors are favorable. These include the fact most of the intended acreages of crops will be planted and the early season gains have not been entirely offset by the bad weather of the last two months.

People and Events

E. E. Stewart

E. E. Stewart, vice president of the National Dairy Products corporation, has been elected a director, L. A. Van Bomel, president, said yesterday. Stewart, who has charge of the milk and ice cream division in Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska, Tennessee, Kentucky, and southwestern Ohio, succeeds H. C. Horneman, resigned. Stewart also is president of Hydrox corporation, the Chicago ice cream and beverage division of National Dairy.

George W. Taylor, chairman of the war labor board, will speak on wages and wage rates at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House tomorrow. Edgar L. Warren, chairman of the Chicago regional WLB, will discuss determination of reconversion wage rates.

A paper outlining the "Government System of Acceptance Inspection" will be read before the Chicago Society for Quality Control in the Lewis Institute building tomorrow night.

The Illinois Central railroad has been awarded the double starred S pennant of the National Safety council in recognition of outstanding safety in time of war.

F. F. Duggan was appointed general sales manager of the Deepfreeze division of Motor Products corporation. He will direct sales of both home and industrial units.

Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants will hold its annual dinner meeting in the Hotel Sherman tonight.

Pan American Files 4 Million Share Issue

Pan American Airways corporation yesterday registered with the securities and exchange commission 3,986,522 shares of common stock of $2.50 par value. Half of this number will be issued to present stockholders and the remainder reserved for issuance upon exercise of rights under stock purchase warrants.

Shareholders will be permitted to buy one share of the new stock and a purchase warrant for another before Dec. 31, 1947, for each two shares of stock held.

Repay Loans, Buy Equipment

The proceeds and other funds will be used to repay bank loans, finance purchase of additional flight and ground equipment, and replenish working capital.

The Hamilton Watch company registered 3½ million dollars of new 4 per cent convertible preferred shares which will be offered to present shareholders on a basis of one new share for each 11 common held.

The price of the new stock, its redemption price, and conversion terms will be fixed by subsequent amendment to the registration statement. Proceeds will be used to retire outstanding 6 per cent preferred stock at $105 a share Sept. 1.

Registers Conversion Issue

The Moore Drop Forging company registered 30,000 shares of cumulative convertible preferred, 120,000 shares of common issuable upon conversion of the preferred, 20,000 common stock purchase warrants, a like number of common shares issuable upon exercise of the warrants, and an undetermined number of common shares offered by nine stockholders.

Outstanding class A stock will be redeemed out of the proceeds of the sale of the preferred, purchase warrants, and other funds.

SEC TRIMS RED TAPE FOR FILING NEW FIRM STOCK

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11 (AP)—The registration of stock by companies in the development stage was simplified today by the securities and exchange commission's adoption of a form seven pages shorter than any existing one under the securities act of 1933.

Designed to encourage small business ventures, the form substitutes 17 items for the 21 to 70 required in existing forms and is accompanied by instructions which SEC said should enable the management of a small business to file the form without aid of counsel and thus reduce registration costs.

The form can be used by all types of business except insurance, investment, and mining operations. It is restricted to companies without sales or income returns and active subsidiaries, and which have not succeeded a going business within the last three years.

STOP NUT CORP. DELISTING MOVE UNNEEDED—SEC

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11 (AP)—Delisting proceedings against the Elastic Stop Nut corporation, Union, N. J., "would not be in the public interest nor would they afford additional protection to investors," the securities and exchange commission said today in announcing results of a public investigation of the corporation.

The commission suspended trading in the company's common stock on the New York Stock exchange for 10 days on Nov. 29, 1944, following the suicide of the company's president, William T. Hedlund. Two additional 10 day suspensions were imposed.

On Dec. 8, an investigation was ordered "to determine the adequacy and accuracy of information" contained in the registration statement of debentures and application for registration of common stock on the New York Stock exchange.

"The investigation of trading in the company's securities before and after the period during which trading in the common stock was suspended did not disclose any evidence of concentration of buying or selling or manipulation of the common stock or other securities of the company," the report said.

Cattle Market Advances as Receipts Fall

The struggle at the Chicago stock yards over the cattle price line, on which federal subsidy payments to packers are based, continued yesterday, with packers on the losing end. Farmers drastically reduced shipments to market and prices rose 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds. Receipts were 14,000 head, smallest for a Monday in three weeks and second lowest in 10 weeks.

The $17.85 top price was 5 cents under last week's high and 15 cents below the ceiling. The bulk sold at $15.75 to $17.50. Heifers were strong to 25 cents higher.

Hogs Hold at Ceilings

Hog receipts, at 10,000, including shipments direct to packers, were below average for Monday, but well above the 1945 low of 7,280 set March 12. Offerings were far below requirements and sold at ceiling prices.

All except 3,000 of the 13,000 sheep and lambs received went direct to packers. Those on the open market sold steady.

More meat animals of all kinds were slaughtered last month than in April and in some classes all-time May records were set, the department of agriculture reported, but the hog slaughter was smallest for May since 1938.

Million Cattle Butchered

Packers under federal inspection butchered 1,045,454 cattle, the largest May total on record. The five month cattle total, at 5,669,248, set a new record for that period.

The hog total, at 3,375,402, second largest since January, was 10 per cent above April, but 49 per cent under a year ago.

Active Realty Market Thru '46 Predicted

BY AL CHASE

The real estate market will continue active thru 1945 and 1946 and then gradually slow, Roy Wenzlick, head of Real Estate Analysts, Inc., of St. Louis, predicted yesterday at the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards in the Morrison hotel. Farm values will continue to rise for the next two years, but demand for farm products will collapse two years after the war ends. If inflation develops, the value of farms in terms of dollars may continue to rise, he said.

Building construction will not get started as soon as most people expect, Wenzlick said. Lumber will remain scarce all this year and most of 1946.

Lumber Lack Is Curb

"Of course, building restrictions are being relaxed," he said. "But if you cannot get the lumber, you cannot build and I do not believe you will get much lumber very soon."

And even when the prospective builder finds he can get lumber he will bump into higher construction costs, Wenzlick predicted.

A cheerful angle to that prediction, however, so far as owners are concerned, was the analyst's belief that as construction costs advance, property values will also rise.

Home building costs are now 36.5 per cent higher than in September, 1939, he said.

Rent Control to Stay

Wenzlick said it will be difficult to get rid of rent control when the war is over. Unless vacancies occur—and he said he did not believe there would be a large percentage of vacancies in the average community during reconversion—it will be difficult to change the present rent structure.

Wenzlick opposed public housing because "the more the government does the less can be built under private initiative."

No sizable depression will develop unless the Japanese war ends before the United States is ready to handle reconversion, he said. The most "inflation proof" investment is a store property rented on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis, he suggested.

DECREASE IN OUTPUT OF PULPWOOD HELD OF NATIONAL CONCERN

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Pulpwood production during the first four months of 1945 was so far below 1944 levels that it is a matter of "grave" national concern, the WPB said today. Pulpwood receipts for the first four months of 1945 were 5 per cent under 1944.

In addition to shortage of labor and equipment, the agency said railroad cars for the movement of wood and pulpwood to mills are scarce. This shortage can be expected to increase during the remainder of the year because of transportation requirements for the war against Japan.

NAVY ASKS SHIP YARD WORKERS FROM MIDWEST

The need for 15,000 mechanics, electricians, sheetmetal workers, and other skilled men at west coast naval repair yards has not met material response from workers released thru production cutbacks in Chicago and the midwest, Lt. Peter D. Kristich, navy liaison officer with the United States civil service commission, said yesterday.

The Illinois quota set by the war man power commission is 836 workers. Eight hundred skilled men also are needed at the Panama Canal. Workers have deserted west coast yards in large numbers since V-E day. Skilled men were asked to report for immediate transportation to the west coast at their local United States employment service office, at civil service headquarters, or any first or second class post-office.

SENATE GROUP TO STUDY PLAN FOR ONE AIR LINE

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—A three member senate commerce subcommittee was appointed today to study a proposal to form an all-American flag line for international air transport. The subcommittee, composed of Senators McCarran [D., Nev.], Bilbo [D., Miss.], and Brewster [R., Me.], was instructed to report in 10 days. The bill, by Sen. McCarran, would give government backing to the single American air line for international operations. All United States lines would be entitled to purchase stock in the flag line.

United Air Lines Boosts Mail and Express Volume

Air express and mail traffic over United Air Lines' coast to coast route last month rose 62 and 22 per cent, respectively, above May, 1944, C. P. Graddick, air cargo director, said yesterday.

OPA CURBS SALE OF USED AUTOS AS 'WARRANTED'

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Only dealers whose reconditioning and service facilities meet OPA qualifications will be permitted to charge warranted prices for used cars and trucks after Aug. 1, the agency announced today.

A warranted vehicle is one in good operating condition carrying a guarantee that the dealer will make stated repairs at 50 per cent of normal charges during the first 30 days following the sale or the first 1,000 miles of operation, whichever ends first.

OPA said a survey showed many companies selling used cars at warranted prices do not own or have access to adequate repair and reconditioning facilities.

COMMUNICATION FACILITIES CURB IS EASED BY WPB

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—The WPB today authorized increased instalation of new facilities by telephone and telegraph companies. Except buildings, communications companies may install facilities of any dollar value on an unrated basis, without prior approval by WPB's office of war utilities. In the case of buildings, those requiring up to $25,000 of materials may be constructed on an unrated basis without specific authorization. The limit previously was $10,000.

WPB Sets 233,472 Quota on 1945 Truck Production

Detroit, Mich., June 11 (AP).—The regional WPB announced today that commercial truck production quotas totalling 233,472 units have been allocated to truck manufacturers for 1945.

Bars Use of Residual Oil as Material for Paving

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Use of residual oil as paving material was prohibited today by Deputy Petroleum Administrator Davies. Delivery of paving oil will be permitted for 10 days after June 12.

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY

Please inform me regarding J. C. Penney company's earnings and dividends.—K. R.

The company's junior department stores, numbering 1,608 at the close of 1944, were located in about as many communities thruout the country. The merchandise includes apparel, shoes, dry goods, household goods, and notions.

Sales have increased each year since 1938 except 1943. Last year's volume was $535,363,000 compared with $257,964,000 six years earlier. The profit margin before income taxes was between 10 and 11 per cent in each of the years 1942-'44, compared with 6 and 7 per cent in the years 1937-'40. The large increase in taxes, however, cut final net income to less than 4 per cent of sales in the three most recent years. In the four years prior to 1941 the profit ranged between 5.3 and 6 per cent.

Since Penney's excess profits tax last year amounted to $31,590,000 net, equal to more than $11 a share on the 2,743,984 shares, it is apparent that taxes provide a cushion against possible post-war decline in earnings.

The stock sells at a high ratio to earnings. It was recently quoted at more than 19 times the 1944 profit of $6.25 a share. Profits in earlier years were: 1943, $6.52; 1942, $6.58; 1941, $6.24; 1940, $5.91; 1939, $6.48; 1938, $5.40. Dividends from 1939 thru 1944 totaled $5 a year, including $2 extra each year. Net working capital at the end of 1944 was $71,850,000. There was no long term debt.

U. S. FORECASTS RECORD ORANGE CROP DURING 1945

Washington, D. C., June 11 (AP)—Orange production for 1945 was estimated today at a record 106,910,000 boxes, compared with 103,056,000 boxes last year, by the crop reporting board. Grapefruit production was estimated at 51,791,000 boxes against 55,979,000. The California lemon crop was estimated at 12,800,000 boxes against 11,038,000.

"Citrus prospects continue favorable in all producing states except Florida, where the extended drouth was broken in May only by scattered showers," the board said. "June 1 condition of new crop oranges and grapefruit was reported the lowest since 1917."

Shipments by U. S. Steel Units Increase in May

New York, June 11 (AP)—Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation in May totaled 1,797,987 net tons, an increase of 75,142 over April shipments of 1,722,845, and of 21,053 over 1,776,934 shipped in May, 1944.

Steel Mill Operations to Decrease This Week

New York, June 11 (AP)—Steel mills will operate at 90 per cent of capacity this week, compared with 91.1 last week, the American Iron and Steel institute said today.

Class 1 Rail Profits Rise in March to 63 Million

March net income of 136 class 1 railroads amounted to $62,930,634, compared with $55,170,325 a year ago, the interstate commerce commission said yesterday.

CASH GRAIN PRICES

Country offerings of cash grain continued small yesterday. The major part of the receipts were applied to previous contracts. Weather over the week-end was unfavorable for movement of cash grain, traders said.
